MAY'S BUILDING SETS ANOTHER RECORD!

HOUSE LAYS FARM BILL ASIDE

Program for Last Days of Session Adopted; Tax Bill Up Monday

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON, May 24.—The conference report on the compromise tax reduction bill, carrying the Simmons-Longworth income tax rates, was adopted by the Senate this afternoon and now goes to the House for final action.

WASHINGTON, May 24.—Farm relief legislation—the McNary-Haugen bill—was scheduled to be laid aside in the House late today while a week is consumed in acting on other matters.

The tax reduction conference report is scheduled for adoption by the House Monday.

The legislative appropriation bill and an urgent deficiency bill providing money for making effective the soldier bonus will be considered Tuesday and Thursday.

The $150,000,000 bill for new naval construction will occupy the House Wednesday.

Substitute Looms

The farm relief bill is to be given consideration, although it may require three or four days to complete it. This is in deference to the wishes of the congressmen with farmer constituents, and a general belief that some legislation to help the wheat and other farmers is urgent and imperative.

The McNary-Haugen bill may not be the legislation adopted. A hasty Democratic poll of the House is reported to have developed 215 members opposed to the bill. There was talk today of an attempt to kill the bill at once and make way for other measures that have less opposition. Republican Leader Longworth said he did not think this could be done. Many congressmen would vote against such action, although they are unfriendly to the bill as drawn.

No Other Measure

Defeat of the McNary-Haugen bill in the House would leave that body without an alternative farm relief measure which had been considered in the agricultural committee.

They later rejected all other plans when it brought out the McNary-Haugen bill. The Senate has several plans before it and might be able to rush through some one of them should it become necessary to replace the bill now before the House.

Doble Steam Motors May Face Grand Jury Over Sale Of Shares, Belief

SAN FRANCISCO, May 24.—A grand jury investigation of the sale of stock in the Doble Steam Motors corporation by the F. G. Fox company, Inc., loomed today, following a raid on the offices of the Cox company in which all of their stock selling records were seized.

Assistant District Attorney Robert Fitzgerald, who secured the search warrant for the seizure, said the grand jury would be asked to investigate alleged sale of a considerable amount of stock in excess of the permit issued by the state corporation commission.

The permit, according to the commission, was for $1,000,000, while the claim is made by the authorities that in excess of $1,250,000 worth of stock has been sold to 10,000 investors.

This plan, endorsed by the president, was defeated ten to eight.

AGENT ON TRAIL OF FAKE DOCTOR

'Graduate' of San Quentin Is Sought After Deaths of Two 'Patients'

By GIL A. COWAN
For Southland News Service.

LOS ANGELES, May 24.—The startling story of a "graduate" of "the San Quentin school of surgery" treating the sick of Southern California was made public this afternoon by Albert Carter, special agent of the state medical board, who launched a search for Louis D'Angoise, ex-convict.

Mrs. F. J. Peak of 1624 South Hoover street is dead. She was one of the patients in whom D'Angoise injected goat glands and gave other medicines without the necessary credentials, it is alleged. Sam Hensley, a tubercular, living at Pacoima, is another victim of the fake doctor. He also has had goat gland injections and other spurious treatment for his incurable condition, Carter declares.

Issued Bad Checks

In addition to his quackery D'Angoise has left a trail of bad checks in Los Angeles for which the police are seeking him. He rented a suite of rooms for a clinic and ordered $2000 worth of furniture. The downtown store discovered his check fraud in time to drive him from his new location.

It is reported by Special Agent Carter that D'Angoise obtained his "medical education" as a nurse in San Quentin penitentiary where he worked with the expert who renewed the youth of prisoners.

Senator Cries 'Blackmail' as Woman Witness Recalls Alleged Incident

WASHINGTON, May 24.—An angry quarrel between Senator Norris, Republican, of Nebraska, chairman of the Senate agricultural committee, and Mrs. E. A. Edmundson of Decatur, Ala., whom he accused of bringing a blackmail plot against him because she testified he had kissed a girl at Muscle Shoals, nearly broke up the committee's hearing here today.

Norris arose from his chair and became so angry that Mrs. Edmundson left the witness chair and took up a position behind it.

"That story of yours is a falsehood," Norris shouted, his face made scarlet by the laughter of the other senators of the committee. "I know a blackmail plot when I see it. If you were not a woman this would not be the end of this."

"I didn't kiss that girl," Norris added, his words coming in a torrent that Mrs. Edmundson's protests could not be heard.

The incident which Mrs. Edmundson related occurred during an inspection visit made by Senator Norris and others.

"Do you remember that fine barbecue we had there, senator?" the witness asked. "I asked you if you might not favor the Ford

MAIDEN TRIP FOR LOCAL AIRSHIP

Dr. T. C. Young's 'Argonaut' To Be Launched Sunday At Glendale Airport

The "Argonaut," the new five-passenger aerial limousine built by Kinner Airplane & Motor corporation for Dr. T. C. Young, will take the air tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock. The take-off for the maiden voyage will be made at the Glendale Airport, and will be marked with appropriate ceremonies.

The ship, which was started on February 1 and finished on May 1, was entirely built in Glendale with the exception of the motor and the landing wheels. H. H. Kinner, head of the corporation which bears his name, was the chief designer and builder, and will have the honor of piloting the "Argonaut" on its maiden flight.

The construction of the ship set a new world's record in the designing and building of a new type of airplane, for there is not another plane in the world in which the many features are incorporated as are to be found in the "Argonaut."

Winner of Contest

While the ship was being constructed, Dr. Young asked for a name. He offered a prize of $10 in merchandise or a 60-mile ride for the most suitable name.

The winner was W. W. Worley of Holland & Worley Rug company, Los Angeles, whose title, "Argonaut," was selected from more than a hundred names submitted. Mr. Worley informed Dr. Young today that as his prize

Evening News Will Not Be 'Clubbed' Into Line

The Glendale Evening News today does not carry ANY advertisement from ANY Glendale motion picture theatre, BUT—

The Glendale Evening News continues to carry the advertisement of Murphy's Comedians, the tent show at Brand and California that seems to be making such a big hit with thousands of Glendale people.

The managements of the Glendale and the Gateway theatres have this week informed the management of The Glendale Evening News that they do not desire to further use the advertising columns of this newspaper. That is their business. The Glendale Evening News has nothing but advertising space for sale and if the three motion picture theatres of this city do not wish to purchase that space we submit, again, that it is their business. BUT—

The management of The Glendale Evening News DOES object to any attempt to "club" or boycott this newspaper into refusing to take legitimate advertising, for the conduct of the newspaper is OUR business.

The fact that Murphy's Comedians advertise in The Glendale Evening News and their shows are pleasing the crowds should not, in our opinion, cause any picture theatre to withdraw its advertising from this newspaper. On the contrary, if a theatre is NOT drawing the crowds it should INCREASE its advertising space and present a BETTER show, it seems to us.

However, that's the worry of the theatre management. In the meantime, The Glendale Evening News will continue to carry the advertisements of Murphy's Comedians, and, incidentally, this newspaper will present to its readers each day in its news columns the attractions being offered by the three local moving picture houses. These stories of the attractions at the theatres will not, however, be the offerings of the theatres' press agents, but will be written by members of The Glendale Evening News staff.

Please do not call The Evening News by phone for information as to hour and particulars of these three shows. For such information call:

Glendale theatre, Glendale 30; T. D. & L. theatre, Glendale 1161; Gateway theatre, Glendale 1791, and get information first hand.

If you have not a phone, probably your neighbor has one and will accommodate you. If the theatre phone does not answer you may be able to get the nearest store or office to serve as your messenger.

However, you will not be deprived from the opportunity to attend a good show. Read the daily announcement of Murphy's Comedians on the last page of this issue.

FEDERAL AGENTS IN BLAST PROBE

Government Takes Charge Of Aqueduct Inquiry; Arrests Delayed

LOS ANGELES, May 24.—The federal government has taken entire charge of the investigation of the dynamiting of Los Angeles aqueduct, city officials announced today.

Federal marshals from the Fresno district are being rushed to Bishop, Cal., near the scene of the dynamiting which Wednesday threatened the water supply of the city of Los Angeles.

Entrance of the federal government into the probe was said to be due to putting out of commission by the dynamiters of telephone wires between California and Nevada, thus interfering with interstate communication.

Arrests in the dynamiting planned by local investigators have been postponed owing to the government's entry into the bombing plot.

DEATH AND RUIN IN STORM'S WAKE

Eight Killed, Many Injured As Freak Tornado Hits Mid-West States

ST. LOUIS, May 24.—Eight persons were known to be dead in Missouri today, at least a dozen injured and great property damage done by a freak tornado that crashed through southeastern Missouri and southern Illinois last night.

Essex, Mo., reported seven dead; Carruthersville, Mo., one dead, while Sikeston, Mo., and vicinity reported seven injured.

Owing to disrupted communications it was feared today that the storm toll would be increased by later reports.

Towns Are Damaged

Waterloo, Ills.; Mount Vernon, Ills.; Centralia, Ills.; Irvington, Ills., and McLeansboro, Ills., all reported more or less property damage. At Mount Vernon a conservative estimate of $10,000 damage was made.

The storm was followed in St. Louis by the coldest May 24 weather in the history of the St. Louis weather bureau, a mark of 47 degrees being recorded. Many basements were flooded in the city, hundreds of telephones put out of commission and much damage done by lightning.

PERMITS FOR THIS MONTH PASS MARK IN 1923

Figures Show This City Continues on March With Prosperity

The value of building permits issued by H. C. Vandewater, municipal building superintendent, during May of this year already exceeds by approximately $12,000 those issued during the entire corresponding month in 1923.

At noon today the total for the current month was announced as $600,574, against $588,637 for May last year. As there are four and one-half business days left in the month, the record of 1923 will probably be eclipsed by a wide margin.

Set New Records

May makes the third month in 1924 when the value of permits issued has surpassed that of the corresponding month in 1923, as the following table will show:

	1923	1924
January	$1,024,336	$1,029,533
February	1,019,613	805,706
March	1,036,475	968,050
April	582,998	626,754
May	588,637	600,574
Total	$4,252,059	$4,030,617

"While the total of permits issued during 1924 shows a slight decrease in the value during the same period in 1923, it also shows a good healthy, normal gain, and is an excellent record," stated Mr. Vandewater this morning.

Stop to Rumors

"A glance at the building record issued by S. W. Strauss & Company, covering all cities of the Pacific Coast, displays that Glendale is holding up exceptionally well.

"In three out of the five months of the year that have passed, we have exceeded our 1923 business. This shows the true state of building activity, and should silence all rumors that Glendale is in the throes of a building depression."

Mr. Vandewater predicts that the total of permits issued during May will be three times as much as it was in 1922, when the record was $244,788.

RULER PROMISES AID TO WORKMEN

Italian Government Plans To Improve Conditions; May Reduce Taxes

ROME, May 24.—King Victor Emmanuel, III, in a speech from the throne, in opening the first session of the new parliament, promised efforts by the government to improve the condition of the workers.

The possibility of setting up technical councils to co-operate with parliament was suggested. Referring to armaments and reparations, the king said:

"Italy cannot remain disarmed among nations that are armed.

Deserves Peace

"Italy is ready to help reach an equitable solution of reparations. She is disposed to make sacrifices to guarantee the peace of Europe, provided her own vital interests are safeguarded.

"The Italian national budget now has been balanced. If the economic improvement is maintained, a gradual reduction of taxes will be possible.

Remove Bullet From Ku Klux Klan Raider

Mrs. Young will probably lose the sight of her right eye and may also lose the other eye, physicians stated. Her face was minced with shot from a shotgun, persons said.

Wedding Today

Heralding the approach of June, the brides' month, the first event of the local bridal social season took place today at high noon, May 24, 1924, when Miss Mary Greensides, the attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen L. Greensides of 1014 North Central avenue, became the bride of W. Dudley Pigg, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Pigg of 405 North Maryland avenue. The ceremony was solemnized in the bridal room of the Central Christian church, with Rev. J. W. Utter of Los Angeles officiating. Rev. Utter is a former pastor of the Christian church and an old friend of the family.

Only immediate relatives of the bridal couple were in attendance at the ceremony and informal reception following, except Rev. and Mrs. Clifford A. Cole.

A simple but rich scheme of decoration was used in arranging the bridal room for the affair. Baskets of gladioli, Spanish broom and blue delphinium formed an artistic setting for the ceremony.

Just before the hour of the ceremony Miss Florence Heacock played the Norwegian bridal chorus and the wedding march from "Lohengrin" for the entrance of the marriage serivce Miss the bridal party. During the read-Heacock played very softly "To a Water Lily," by McDowell.

Miss Lillian Webster, a close friend of the bride, was her only attendant. She wore a shell pink colored chiffon gown trimmed with cream silk lace, with a cream silk lace hat. Her bouquet was of pink roses and fern.

Miss Greensides was charming in her bridal attire. Her gown was of ecru silk lace over peach silk crepe, made in long lines. She wore a silk lace hat to match. Her bouquet was of Los Angeles roses and ferns.

Mr. Pigg was attended by William Cross of Glendale as best man.

An informal reception took place after the ceremony in the church parlors.

Later in the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Pigg left by motor for Arrowhead Lake, where they plan to spend a few days. For her trip Mrs. Pigg wore a grey silk sport dress with hat and shoes to match.

Mr. and Mrs. Pigg have many friends in Glendale and were the recipients of countless gifts and messages of congratulations. Among their gifts were many pieces of fine silverware, art glassware and other attractive furnishings for their new home. They will reside at 235½ North Brand boulevard.

Mrs. Pigg has been a resident of Glendale for the past four years and is a graduate of the local high school.

Mr. Pigg's parents are pioneer residents of Glendale and are widely known in business and social circles. Mr. Pigg is in the employ of a Los Angeles newspaper.

Home Wedding

Beautiful in its simplicity was the marriage Wednesday, May 21, 1924, of Miss Frances Marguerite Thompson and Henry George Schmidt, at the home of the bride's parents, Elder and Mrs. Victor Thompson at 127 South Everett street.

Elder Thompson performed the ceremony in a bower of roses, carnations and greenery.

Miss Thompson was becomingly gowned in pearl white crepe de chine with lace and satin roses. Her veil was caught with a wreath of orange blossoms and lilies of the valley. She carried a shower bouquet of white rose buds.

Little Miss Lucile Johnson, a niece of the bride, was the flower girl. Her frock was of pink organdy.

Carl Schmidt attended his brother as best man.

At the appointed hour the wedding march was played by Mrs. Della Johnson, a sister of the bride, and Fred Clint of San Fernando, violinist. There was one bridal song, "I Love You," sung by Paul Munson.

Following the ceremony and congratulations, refreshments were served and a social hour enjoyed, when the company viewed the many lovely gifts, bespeaking the popularity of Mr. and Mrs. Schmidt.

Both young people have many friends in Glendale. Before her marriage Mrs. Schmidt was in the office of her brother Dr. F. F. Thompson. Mr. Schmidt has been connected with the Union Pacific college, and it is there that he and his bride will make their home.

When Mr. and Mrs. Schmidt departed for their bridal journey, they were given the following farewell toast:

"Peace abide beneath thy roof tree,
Cheer along its rafters ring,
Joy and mirth and gladness gather
Neath the firelight flickering;
Hope illumine all the shadows
With a radiance divine
And the arms of love forever
Shelter thee and thine."

Slot Machine Bars on Planes Worry Britain

LONDON, May 24.—Slot machine bars threaten new trouble for the controllers of the drink traffic in England.

Airplanes being equipped for the Manchester-Belfast route are fitted with slot machines which, for 50 cents, will set forth a small bottle of whiskey, a small soda and a glass.

No one can stop the slot machines from operating while the airplanes are in the air, but there is a question as to whether these machines will be legal if operated on the ground.

TURK SEEKS PRIZE

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 24.—Abdul Hak Hamid, the noted Turkish poet, is the latest candidate for the Nobel prize for literary achievement.

A movement has been launched in the Turkish press to obtain the prize for him. The chief drawback, the press admits, is that Hamid's works have not been translated into foreign languages and therefore are little known abroad.

Hamid, until recently, was allowed to inhabit two rooms in the Caliph's palace of Dolma Bagtche, but has now been allotted two rooms in a hotel by the government, which also pays him a modest pension.

Manila Suburbs Fear Revolt of Colorums

MANILA, May 24.—Residents of the villages of Caloocan, Novaliches and Pasongiuma, on the outskirts of Manila, have appealed to the authorities for protection against a possible outbreak among the bands of Colorums, religious fanatics, which are at present in these localities.

Colorums in northeastern Mindanao and some of the other southern Philippine islands have of late been on the warpath against the government authorities, having killed forty constabulary soldiers and necessitated the sending of the United States gunboat Sacramento to help restore order.

The Manila Colorums, however, deny they contemplate violence and have assured Brigadier-General Crame, through their leaders, they will remain peaceful.

OLD GRADS TURN OUT STRONG FOR SCHOOL PROGRAM

Homecoming Day Draws Many Former Students Back for Celebration

With its halls crowded by throngs of graduates returning to visit their high school alma mater, the new Glendale High school buildings on East Broadway were yesterday the scene of a most successful reunion. The crowds in attendance exceeded the expectations of those who planned the day, and the Home-Coming program was run through without a hitch.

At 2 o'clock in the afternoon the graduates began to assemble at the new plant, to inspect the buildings, and the crowds increased as the afternoon wore on. Everyone welcomed everyone else, and the affair was a joyous occasion. Even the babies that made up a large part of the crowd gleefully attempted to get into the spirit of things.

In fact, the babies held the limelight during the afternoon, when the children and their parents were the guests of the Girls' League at a party that soon outgrew the proportions of the room in which it was being held. Dozens and dozens of babies were brought by proud parents to mingle with those of their schoolmates.

Recall Old Days

The program given in Room 215, from 3 to 4 o'clock, was interspersed with joyous outbursts from infant throats, and was enjoyed the more because of it. Some spent the afternoon in dancing, and others preferred

He Wasn't Invited To Attend The Party! Ah-Ha!

Gradually light is being let into the reasons why the local representative of the Los Angeles evening newspaper that was NOT included in Glendale's advertising budget is striving to upset the apple cart. The Glendale Evening News, in order to provide the public with a hearty laugh, hastens to rescue the following gem from oblivion and takes great pleasure in giving it the publicity it deserves:

"When the matter of placing the manager of the Glendale paper (The Glendale Daily Press) on the board of control was discussed, for some mysterious reason it was decided not to do so. We were good enough to be used in raising the money, but when it came to spending it we were not wanted."—From The Glendale Daily Press, which is owned by the publisher of The Los Angeles Evening Express, the paper NOT included in Glendale's advertising budget.

Isn't that rich! The local representative of the Los Angeles paper wasn't invited to the party and now he's on the outside throwing sticks and stones and calling bad names! Naughty! Naughty!

MIRADERO SHOWS CARNIVAL SCENE AT GARDEN FETE

Clubwomen's Party Success as Crowds Throng to Brand Estate

Gray skies did not daunt the courage of the Tuesday Afternoon club women, and those who were members of the committee arranging the garden fete for this afternoon and tonight at the L. C. Brand foothill estate were on hand at an early hour this morning.

Booths were placed in assigned locations, gay decorations put up and by noontime all was in readiness for the big crowd that stood at the gates at 1 o'clock.

"Miradero" gardens presented a gay carnival scene throughout the afternoon as club members and friends thronged about the booths, engaged in bridge and Mah Jongg games, enjoyed the entertainment program and took a plunge in the swimming pool.

Fete Is Success

There was something for old and young on every hand, and the current opinion was that the fete was the most successful benefit affair ever given by the club.

Festivities will continue tonight until shortly before midnight. The booths will be full of many desirable things, there will be a program presented by Pearl Keller pupils and dancing on the tennis court.

CONSERVATION OF HEAT EXPLAINED

Principle of Insulation Is Applied in Chambers Fireless Ranges

The principle of insulation used for years in the saving of cold in a refrigerator is now being applied to the saving of heat. By means of the latest type of gas range, it is possible to cook for hours after the gas is turned off. This newest development of culinary science, known as the Chambers Fireless Gas Range, is now being demonstrated by the Pasadena Furniture Company.

In most respects, it is like any good gas range, but with the important exception of two special patented features that enable it to utilize the principle of cooking on "retained heat." One of these, known as the "Thermodome," is a device whereby boiling may be done with only a few minutes' burning of gas. It is a dome-shaped hood, heavily insulated, which is suspended by a chain over the top of the range and is easily operated by a convenient lever. It employs the retained heat principle for cooking vegetables, stews, cereals, pot roasts, soups and similar foods.

How to Operate

When the gas is lighted, the Thermodome is lowered to within two inches of the top of the range. After a few minutes it has accumulated enough of that heat which usually passes up the sides of the utensil and escapes. The gas is then turned off, Thermodome lowered and the heat sealed in. The rest of the cooking is then done with the gas turned off and is done as quickly as if the gas were burning all the time.

On the other special feature, the Chambers oven, there is also a construction which seals the heat in after the gas is turned off. Heavy insulation on all sides and the door makes it possible to cook for as many as six hours at a time with the gas turned off.

With these features, it is possible for a housewife to start a meal with a few minutes' gas, go away for the entire afternoon and return to find the meal completely cooked. So, besides saving gas, it also economizes time and effort. The confining nature of these features also keeps in the juices and flavors which ordinarily escape in the form of steam and vapor.

The University of California with 15,559 enrolled is the largest of any American college.

Traffic Problem Not Confined to America

LONDON, May 24.—"London," said Herbert Morrison, Labor Member of Parliament, at a housing conference, "is an absolute disgrace to the foresight of men.

"It should never have been allowed to exist, and if it could be conveniently blown up it would be the better for civilization. Ninety per cent of it is dull, dreary and miserable.

"The daily struggle to get to and from work in crowded vehicles results in nervous strain and enormous loss of time and has its effect on the industrial efficiency of the people. We are transferring an industrial population through a narrow neck down which it cannot pass with comfort and ease. No traffic bill can deal with this problem.

"The remedy must be gradual. It rests in the building of new satellite towns and new industrial centres around London."

The conference passed resolutions in favor of the building of a ring of eight large towns within a fifteen-mile radius of London.

Predicts Production Of Food Artificially

WASHINGTON, May 24.—A future day when a large part of the world's food supply will be artificially produced, emancipating man from absolute dependence of the soil, was depicted in an address before the American Chemical Society convention here recently by Dr. Carl Alsberg, director of the food research bureau of Leland Stanford university. There is every reason to believe, Dr. Alsberg declared, the three basic groups of foodstuffs — carbohydrates, fats and amino acids—can or shortly will be producible by artificial means.

Experts Will Probe Underwear Shrinkage

WASHINGTON, May 24.—The department of commerce has instituted a sweeping investigation into the shrinkage of underwear. Assistance of the bureau of standards and makers of underwear were enlisted to help solve the mystery. TRAFFIC PROBLEMS

Everyone is more or less interested in traffic control today. Authorities all over the United States are engaged in making plans to facilitate the movement of automobiles over the streets and roads. Here in Southern California, the all-the-year-round vacation land, traffic problems are especially difficult.

The matter of traffic control is comparatively new. Twenty years ago only the very far-seeing could envision the present congestion on our streets. A few years ago roads were built with no provision for the great volume of traffic that passes over them today, and it is only recently that heavy trucks have been used so generally for hauling merchandise. The traffic problem has come upon us almost unawares. At any rate the volume of traffic is years ahead of our facilities for properly handling it.

The first rule of traffic regulation is "Keep Moving." When plans are perfected to properly facilitate the movement of automobiles in cities, there will be some provision made so that the man who wants to drive rapidly (within the law, of course) will be allowed to go ahead of slower drivers, that he may finish his business and get off the road. When he is held up against his will because the narrow street prohibits him from passing a car that is rambling along at a much slower speed than he wishes to go, he is merely taking up space on the road through no fault of his own. Let him pass, get to his destination and get off the road.

Streets wide enough for at least two lines of traffic each way would help a great deal to prevent traffic congestion. Let those who want to drive slower than a certain designated speed keep in the line next to the curb. Those who wish to go faster would form the second line.

The fast driver (not the reckless driver) does not cause traffic congestion unless he is compelled to. He is going somewhere, he is in a hurry to get there. The sooner we give him the road the sooner he is out of the way.

Apropos of traffic problems, Harper's says:

An Irish highway laborer who had been detailed to keep traffic off a road on which was an old bridge so weakened by heavy floods during the night that it was considered too insecure to support even the lightest car, stopped a big brown car which was headed for the danger spot.

"What's the matter?" growled the driver, whom Pat recognized as a patron of his.

"Oh, is that you, Judge?" said Pat genially.

"Yes, it is."

"It's all right, then, yer honor. I got orders not to let traffic through on account of a rotten bridge, but seein' as it's yer honor, why, go right ahead, sor!"

WHAT IS THE MATTER WITH "I"?

How we cling to old customs, how fearful we are to break some old rule or violate some long-standing convention. Not that we should overstep the bounds of right or good taste, but there are so many ways in which we should like to declare ourselves contrary to established custom but we fear what people will say.

A contributor to a certain department in Scribner's magazine comments on the use of the editorial "we" and the expressions, "the writer" and "the author," used in essays, editorials and books. This man says he recently revised a vast medical work and whenever he came to the expression, "the author" he changed it to "I." "Such synonyms," he says, "are a kind of awkward false modesty that really attract more attention to 'the writer' than if he had frankly said "I." William Lyon Phelps, who conducts the department, says he thoroughly agrees with the contributor and proves it by titling his department, "As I like it."

"I," constantly repeated, becomes tiresome to the hearer or the reader. But for that matter so do "we" and "the writer." "I" is simpler and more sensible, but the editorial "we" originated back in the dark ages and "we" dare not offend newspaper propriety by using the more modest "I."

LIBRARY NEEDS

Glendale should not and will not be found wanting where an adequate library and suitable library facilities are concerned. We have always been fortunate in having those in charge of our libraries who have made the most of existing plants, properties and conditions and given the people the worth of their money. A suitable library is as necessary as good schools and good churches if a city wishes to have any reputation for culture and erudition.

Our librarian, Mrs. Danford, grew up with Glendale and the Glendale library. A few hundred books housed in a little frame building on Glendale avenue was the nucleus of our library and Mrs. Danford was the custodian then as now. She has had her hand on the pulse of the reading public all these years and she knows our needs better than we know them ourselves. Mr. Cushing, also, has served in the branch library in the southern section of Glendale since the days before Tropico became a part of Glendale, and he is pretty well qualified to speak for the readers of that section.

Our library directors and our librarians know what we need in the way of libraries commensurate with our progress in other respects. The people of Glendale will give them what they ask.

Elaborate plans are under way to prevent fires in the forests of the Southland. Every care should be taken by motorists, campers and others to prevent the starting of disastrous fires.

Man wealthy in his own right refuses a fortune left to him. He urges it be distributed among relatives not so fortunate. Bet he didn't get his money profiteering.

The Santa Barbara News says to correct this sentence: "And then, Mamma," whispered the excited flapper, "he tried to hold my hand and I slapped him."

The Boy Scout organization is deserving of hearty support for the good it is doing among the youth. It is an important factor in Glendale.

IT'LL BE A REFRESHING CHANGE

Playing a Part

By DR. FRANK CRANE

When Mary Garden was asked whether or not it is necessary for an artist to know personally any of the experiences of the characters she is depicting on the stage, she replied: "Most decidedly not!"

Because she played the character of Salome, it was absurd, she said, to imagine that she must have undergone the sordid experiences which Salome is supposed to have had.

"Do you think that an Othello must be a murderer in real life before he can kill Desdemona effectively on the stage?" she asked. "Or that the late Bernhardt ever actually went through the experiences, let us say, of her Phedra?"

The position taken by the actress on this question is entirely sound. It is, to use a Hibernianism, "the truth, the whole truth, and more than the truth."

Because not only is it not necessary for an actor personally to have had the experiences in life which he portrays upon the stage, but, as a rule, it is much better for him not to have had them.

The same sort of statement may be made of the novelist or the painter.

The good artist of any kind is a creative genius. He gets his stuff from his imagination, not from his experience or his observation.

Very often we hear one say: "I have had the most amazing things happen to me. If I were to write them down they would surpass any work of fiction."

They would not. Any work of creative genius is first-class and interesting, not because of what its author has seen and heard or felt, but because of what he can imagine.

Sometimes we meet a man who has gone through the most thrilling escapades; and like as not his telling of them is as dull as ditch water.

The adventures of Captain Blood that came, brand new, out of Raphael Sabatini's imagination, are far better art and a deal more interesting than the autobiography of any pirate or sea captain.

The best actors in the world are little children. With them it is all pure play. They haven't any experience at all. Their roles are of imagination all compact. And a nine-year-old girl can give you a better imitation of a duchess or a queen than any fifty-year-old lady who is actually engaged in the business of duchessing and queening.

Anyone who simply portrays what he has experienced is drawing only upon his memory; but one who portrays what he has never experienced is using his imagination.

And Imagination is an artist; Memory is an artisan.

COLDS CAN BE DODGED
(From San Bernardino Telegram)

When people catch cold at this time of year, they usually blame it on changing too suddenly to lightweight clothes. A medical authority tells us that, while it is risky to make an abrupt change in the warmth of garments, the usual cause of spring epidemics of colds is this:

During the winter, germs have accumulated on sidewalks and streets which are used as municipal cuspidors. As warm weather comes, the dust in the streets dries and begins floating around in the air. This dust carries the winter crop of germs with it. The germs lodge on mucous membranes of nose and throat. An epidemic of colds follows. One would not be immune even if he wore a germ-filter over mouth and nostrils. It has been scientifically proved that germs can enter the body through the eyes.

The popular notion is that a period of wet weather starts an epidemic of colds. As a matter of fact, more colds are "caught" during dusty, warm spells. The germs are held in check by the resisting powers of the body. In damp or rainy weather, people get their feet wet. Or they get chilled by changing too quickly to lightweight garments and in other ways. This chilling lowers the body's resistance. The germs, which entered the body before clothes were changed, or during colder or drier weather, now begin to multiply. The result is a severe cold.

Some health authorities claim that colds in cities could be reduced by at least half if streets and sidewalks were flushed with water from hydrants to carry germ-laden dust down the sewers. Instead, cities wait until the dust is dry, then sweep it—partly into heaps for collectors, but also into the air, where it is breathed into nose, throat and lungs.

It wouldn't cost much to get the fire hose out and give the streets and sidewalks a thorough cleansing—a virtual sterilization, in fact. A few wise cities do this. The same process applies to the home. Germs are carried in on the shoes. They collect in rugs. Sweeping with a broom stirs them into the air. A vacuum cleaner for sweeping and a wet cloth for dusting are powerful health protectors.

FLY-FIGHTING TIME
(From Stockton Independent)

When "swat the fly" first became a national war cry, people were surprised to find how effective their efforts against the fly nuisance could be. There really were fewer flies about in communities which took swatting as seriously as they have taken mah jongg during the past winter.

Then there seemed to be a relaxation from this worthy work, and last summer flies reappeared in many a family dining room that had been free of them a year or two before. It is because of that cessation of effort that the call to arms of health officers in various sections of the country today deserves special mention. It is again time to swat the fly. Authorities assure us that a swat in time saves more than nine times nine future swats, that every fly killed at this season means literally hundreds fewer to struggle against later.

Now, too, is the time when we have energy to push this campaign vigorously. In midsummer, when it is an effort even to frighten a fly away with a wave of the hand few persons have the will to take the deadly swatter up and actually slay every fly that buzzes within earshot.

And, along with swatting, it is well to see that the lid of the garbage can still fits properly, that all the screens are in good condition—and in place—and that any other possible precautions against the fly are taken in time.

ORIGIN OF THE LANGUAGE
(From Kansas City Times)

The English language belongs to the Teutonic branch of the Indo-European family. It is a subdivision of the low German, which in turn is a division of the west Germanic branch of the Teutonic group. It is customary to divide the language into three periods, Anglo-Saxon or old English (449-1066), middle English (1066-1500) and modern English, from 1500 to the present.

The year 449 marked the invasion of Britain by the first of the Teutonic, or low German, tribes who overran the island in the fifth and sixth centuries. The invaders found in Britain a race of people who spoke a Celtic dialect, and these, after 150 years of incessant fighting, were driven into Wales and Cornwall. The conqueror's speech, to which the name of Anglo-Saxon is given, became the language of the country and the foundation upon which modern English is built.

During the centuries before 1066 many words were taken from the Celtic tribes. In the sixth century came Roman Christianity and the addition of many Latin terms and grammatical forms. The Danish invasion of the island added considerable of the Scandinavian element.

The middle English period began with the conquest of England by William, duke of Normandy, who broke the power of Harold at the battle of Hastings in 1066. The French language was spoken for the next two centuries by the upper classes, law courts and schools. The conquered people held on its lips the English language and finally it became dominant. About 1250 the two languages began to merge, English absorbing almost the entire body of French.

In the sixteenth century the development of modern English began. Since that time borrowing and assimilation have gone on continuously through literary, commercial and political relations with other nations.

WHERE RUNS THE RIVER

Where runs the river? Who can say
Who hath not followed all the way
By alders green and sedges gray
And blossoms blue?

Where runs the river? Hill and wood
Curve round to hem the eager flood;
It cannot straightly as it would
Its path pursue.

Yet this we know: O'er whatso plains
Or rocks or waterfalls it strains,
At last the vast the stream attains;
And I, and you.

The People —of— Anytown

Character Sketches

I often think how odd it is that the no-account boy sometimes turns out better than his brother, who is a model of good behavior. Don't you recall what a bad boy we in Anytown used to think Lew Porter? His parents and teachers were utterly discouraged by his conduct and we other youngsters often were warned of the dire fate that should overtake us if we were like him. Anytown never gave Lew Porter a good word. For that matter, he never deserved one.

Lew was a healthy, boyish boy, far from prepossessing in appearance. He had red hair and the freckles that somehow brand a boy as mischievous, and the mark was not misleading. All the traits of boyhood were exaggerated in him. Most boys wouldn't mind being clean if they didn't have to wash, but Lew loved to be dirty. I have seen him smear mud on his clothing and on his face and hands just to see the girls shrink from him in disgust. He seldom had his lessons. Neither prayers, tears nor beatings sufficed to make him study for long at a time, and when we other children saw him place a "dime novel" in front of his open geography in school we were shocked at the enormity of his wickedness. We boys often envied him the nonchalance with which he could break rules and get into all kinds of mischief, but few of us were brave enough to follow him in his more daring exploits. When Lew planned mischief he never seemed to think of the consequences. When mischief had been done Anytown instantly placed the blame upon him. Lew could assume a look of injured innocence that would have fooled those who didn't know him, but it nearly always transpired that he was guilty and Anytown gave him no quarter.

But Lew managed to get through the Anytown school some way, and then, surprising as it may seem, he worked his way through law school. When he came back to Anytown after his graduation we were inclined to be a little proud of him, and when I heard the other day that Lew Porter was the leading attorney in one of the largest cities on the Pacific coast, I marveled.

Some facetious souls who are wont to scoff at the legal profession might say the prediction that Lew Porter would turn out badly had come true. But time and Lew's attainments have softened our one-time harshness toward him and I understand that Anytown now boasts that Lew "got his start" there.

The After House

By MARY ROBERTS RINEHART

THE STORY

Dr. Ralph Leslie, just graduated from medical college, ships on the yacht Ella as deck steward. He is penniless and thinks this will be a good opportunity to recuperate from an attack of typhoid fever. Marshall Turner is the owner. His wife, her sister Elsa, a divorcee named Mrs. Johns, and a man named Vail are the passengers. There is a crew of fourteen, including the stewardess, a maid, the cook and Williams, the butler. Charlie Jones, a German sailor with a bent for religion, is friendly to Leslie. Captain Richardson and Turner have an argument over running the ship. Turner, drunk, appoints Singleton captain. Richardson knocks Singleton down. Mrs. Johns asks Leslie to sleep near the passengers' staterooms, in a pantry, as she is afraid of trouble. One night Schwartz, the second mate, disappears overboard, though nobody sees him jump. On the night of August 12 Leslie wakes in the pantry to find himself locked in. Vail, Captain Richardson and the Maid, Karen, are found murdered with an axe. The men put Leslie in charge, and they decide to head back to port. The axe is found where it was flung into the stewardess' berth. She says that Karen had been roused by a bell in the night, she thought Mrs. Turner's, but Mrs. Turner says she did not ring. Karen told the stewardess she thought Turner, who had annoyed her, was outside the door. She opened the door, screamed and fell dead. Mrs. Sloane said she saw a figure in white in the door throw the axe toward her. The crew imprisons Singleton. Leslie and Burns share responsibility for keeping discipline. They lock the axe in the captain's cabin and Leslie takes the key. They put the bodies in a lifeboat. Leslie sees Elsa pick up the pantry key in Turner's room. She tries to throw it into the sea, but Leslie sees her and she gives it to him. At night Adams, in the crow's-nest, says he has seen a white figure crawling along the deck. He hurls down a marlinespike, which disappears, but is found next day fastened over the side of the ship. Then one night Burns is knocked unconscious, the key is taken from his neck, the captain's cabin is opened and the axe disappears, with its sure evidence of finger-prints. The Ella docks at Philadelphia, where MacWhirter, Leslie's friend and classmate, meets him. Singleton is put on trial for murder. The different members of the crew and the passengers are questioned. The jury disagrees. Mac and Leslie visit the Ella and there find Charlie Jones, a homicidal maniac, who had committed all the murders.

XXX—EXPLANATIONS

The story of the early morning of August 12 will never be fully known; but much of it, in view of our knowledge, we were able to reconstruct. Thus—Jones ate his supper that night, a mild and well-disposed individual. During the afternoon before, he had read prayers for the soul of Schwartz, in whose departure he may or may not have had a part—I am inclined to think not, Jones construing his mission as being one to remove the wicked and the oppressor, and Schwartz hardly coming under either classification.

He was at the wheel from midnight until four in the morning on the night of the murders. At certain hours we believe that he went forward to the forecastle-head, and performd, clad in his priestly robe, such devotions as his disordered mind dictated. It is my idea that he looked, at these times, for a heavenly signal, either a meteor or some strange appearance of the heavens. It was known that he was a poor sleeper, and spent much time at night wandering about.

On the night of the crimes it is probable that he performed his devotions early, and then got the signal. This is evidenced by Singleton's finding the axe against the captain's door before midnight. He had evidently been disturbed. We believe that he intended to kill the captain and Mr. Turner, but made a mistake in the rooms. He clearly intended to kill the Danish girl. Several passages in his Bible, marked with a red cross, showed his inflamed hatred of loose women; and he believed Karen Hansen to be of that type.

He locked me in, slipping down from the wheel to do so, and pocketing the key. The night was fairly quiet. He could lash the wheel safely, and he had in his favor the fact that Oleson, the lookout, was a slow-thinking Swede who notoriously slept on his watch. He found the axe, not where he had left it, but back in the case. But the case was only closed, not locked—Singleton's error.

Armed with the axe, Jones slipped back to the wheel and waited. He had plenty of time. He had taken his robe from its hiding-place in the boat, and had it concealed near him with the axe. He was ready, but he was waiting for another signal. He got it at half-past two. He admitted the signal and the time, but concealed its nature—I think it was a shooting star. He killed Vail first, believing it to be Turner, and making with his axe, the four signs of the cross. Then he went to the Hansen girl's door. He did not know about the bell, and probably rang it by accident as he leaned over to listen if Vail still breathed.

The captain, in the meantime, had been watching Singleton. He had forbidden his entering the after house; if he caught him disobeying he meant to put him in irons. He was without shoes or coat, and he sat waiting on the after companion steps for developments. It was the captain, probably, whom Karen Hansen mistook for Turner. Later he went back to the forward companionway, either on his way back to his cabin, or still with an eye to Singleton's movements.

To the captain there must have appeared this grisly figure in flowing white, smeared with blood and armed with an axe. The sheet was worn over Jones' head—a long, narrow slit serving him to see through, and two other slits freeing his arms. The captain was a brave man, but the apparition, gleaming in the almost complete darkness, had been on him before he could do more than throw up his hands.

Jones had not finished. He went back to the chart-room and possibly even went on deck and took a look at the wheel. Then he went down again and killed the Hansen woman.

He was exceedingly cunning. He flung the axe into the room, and was up and at the wheel again, all within a few seconds. To tear off and fold up the sheet, to hide it under near-by cordage, to strike the ship's bell and light his pipe—all this was a matter of two or three minutes. I had only time to look at Vail. When I got up to the wheel, Jones was smoking quietly.

I believe he tried to get Singleton later, and failed. But he continued his devotions on the forward deck, visible, when clad in his robe, invisible when he took it off. It was Jones, of course, who attacked Burns and secured the key to the cabin; Jones who threw the axe overboard after hearing the crew tell that on its handle were finger-prints to identify the murderer; Jones who, while on guard in the after house below, had pushed the key to the storeroom under Turner's door; Jones who hung the marlinespike over the side, waiting perhaps for another chance at Singleton; Jones, in his devotional attire, who had frightened the crew into hysteria, and who, discovered by Mrs. Johns in the captain's cabin, had rushed by her, and out, with the axe. It is noticeable that he made no attempt to attack her. He killed only in obedience to his signal, and he had had no signal.

Perhaps the most curious thing, after the murderer was known, was the story of the people in the after house. It was months before I got that in full. The belief among the women was that Turner, maddened by drink and unreasoning jealousy, had killed Vail, and then, running amuck or discovered by the other victims, had killed them. This was borne out by Turner's condition. His hands and parts of his clothing were blood-stained.

Their condition was pitiable. Unable to speak for himself, he lay raving in his room, talking of Vail and complaining of a white figure that bothered him. The key that Elsa Jane picked up was another clue, and in their attempt to get rid of it I had foiled them. Mrs. Johns, an old friend and, as I have said, an ardent partisan, undertook to get rid of the axe, with the result that we know. Even Turner's recovery brought little courage. He could only recall that he had gone into Vall's room and tried to wake him, without result; that he did not know of the blood until the next day, or that Vall was dead; and that he had a vague recollection of something white and ghostly that night—he was not sure where he had seen it.

The failure of their attempt to get rid of the storeroom key was matched by their failure to smuggle Turner's linen off the ship. Singleton suspected Turner, and, with the skillful and not overscrupulous aid of his lawyer, had succeeded in finding in Mrs. Sloane's trunk the incriminating pieces.

As to the meaning of the keys, file, and club in Singleton's mattress, I believe the explanation is simple enough. He saw against him a strong case. He had little money and no influence, while Turner had both. I have every reason to believe that he hoped to make his escape before the ship anchored, and was frustrated by my discovery of the keys and by an extra bolt I put on his door and window.

The murders on the schooner-yacht Ella were solved.

McWhirter went back to his hospital the day after our struggle, wearing a strip of plaster over the bridge of his nose and a new air of importance. The Turners went to New York soon after, and I was alone. I tried to put Elsa Lee out of my thoughts, as she had gone out of my life, and, receiving the hoped-for hospital appointment at that time, I tried to make up by hard work for a happiness that I had not lost because it had never been mine.

A curious thing has happened to me. I had thought this record finished, but perhaps—

Turner's health is bad. He and his wife and Miss Lee are going to Europe. He has asked me to go with him in my professional capacity!

It is more than a year since I have seen her.

The year has brought some changes. Singleton is again a member of the Turner forces, having signed a contract and a temperance pledge at the same sitting. Jones is in a hospital for the insane, where in the daytime he is a cheery old tar with twinkling eyes and a huge mustache, and where now and then, on Christmas and holidays, I send him a supply of tobacco. At night he sleeps in a room with opaque glass windows through which no heavenly signals can penetrate. He will not talk of his crimes—not that he so regards them—but now and then in the night he wraps the drapery of his couch about him and performs strange orisons in the little room that is

SUBSTANTIAL INCREASE IS SEEN

Building Conditions Found More Stabilized in All Leading Cities

Reports of the volume of building permits and plans filed in April in important cities and towns throughout the country give evidence of the approach of activities which will more adequately reflect normal demand.

April totals in 333 cities were $337,822,461 compared with $361,849,492 in April 1923, a loss of $24,027,031 or 7 per cent, according to the national monthly building survey of S. W. Straus & Co. With the elimination of New York City, where the volume of plans filed was excessive, the country as a whole lost nearly 12 per cent compared with April 1923.

Buildings Pending

This exhibit of losses is in sharp contrast with 1923 conditions, for April of that year showed a gain of more than 50 per cent.

Since building permits and plans filed with the building departments in substantially all centers of importance in the United States comprise an infallible indication of what may be expected in the industry as a whole, the curve of activities may be expected now to show a downward tendency as compared with 1923.

However, it should be borne in mind, the Straus survey points out, that large volumes of building work now in progress and much still is pending. Up to May 1st the total volume of plans filed and permits issued this year in the 25 most important cities (from a building standpoint) was $927,000,000, which compares with $849,000,000 in the same cities for the same period in 1923, and with $563,000,000 in 1922. The amount of pending constructions on May 1 this year was substantially 9 per cent greater than on May 1, 1923, and more than 60 per cent greater than on May 1, 1922, judged from the standpoint of contemplated consotruction officially declared.

Stabilized Conditions

April 1924 in these twenty-five leading cities accounted for pending construction of $204,000,000

White Spot Of Nation Is Here

Help Out Great Prosperity Program

Federal Official Presents Some Facts

"The first quarterly payment of income taxes in the United States showed an increase of $17,000,000 for 1923 over 1922. Of that amount Los Angeles contributed more than $3,600,000, or 25 per cent of the entire increase for the nation. In other words, we contributed seven times or more our proportion of the general increase for the United States, based on our number of taxpayers.

"The sale of documentary stamps in my office for the months of January and February, 1924, proved that they were the greatest two months in the history of Los Angeles in the sale of real property."—From the address of Rex B. Goodcell, Collector of Internal Revenue of the District of Los Angeles, at the Biltmore Hotel before the Greater Los Angeles Association.

"The railroads tell us that there are 15,000 people a month coming into this section of the state to make their permanent homes. In the district which comprises the ten southern counties of California, the exact ratio between income tax returns for 1920 and the returns filed for 1923 shows an increase in the three-year period of 713,000 people. The figures show an increase in the city of Los Angeles of over 534,000 people. The city of Los Angeles now has a population, according to our estimates, of 1,110,000, and for the Greater Los Angeles area, 2,116,000.

"The reason for this is not only that we have the finest climate in the world. The reason largely lies in the fact that here there are more opportunities; here there is a combination of conditions under which man can work most favorably and the maximum production be obtained. Here it has been demonstrated that goods may be manufactured more cheaply than in any other place in the United States. From 1918 to 1922, for instance, the manufacturers' excise tax in this district increased 800 per cent. And notwithstanding that we have in this district but ten southern counties of the state, and notwithstanding the years in which the northern district has been building up its industrial enterprises, yet the southern district pays more to the federal treasury from tax on manufactured goods than does the whole northern district of the state of California.

"We have power, water, climate, soil, water and rail transportation—everything that seems to make this an ideal community. The only thing that we have lacked, in my judgment, is a concrete expression of that great, inclusive spirit which has made Los Angeles the great metropolis of the southwest in years gone by. But we are growing. We are expanding. We are now beginning to see and understand that, as great as Los Angeles is, it has an interest in the welfare and the prosperity and the happiness of its neighbors; to see and to understand that we must unite with all of the communities and outlying districts that go to make up the Greater Los Angeles. Here we must have that well-balanced community that does not depend on the great tourist travel to keep up the stores, to keep open the theatres.

"Here we must build up that great community into which flows the great general prosperity, not depending alone on the selling of real estate and the building of new homes, but depending upon that solid foundation with a variety of industries, giving employment to hundreds of thousands of men. Here we must have that great, inclusive spirit of this great Los Angeles area, and I conceive that it reaches from the Colorado river to the Pacific ocean. Here we must have an inclusive spirit that recognizes that when a factory is built in Pomona or San Fernando, or down at Long Beach, it adds much to and contributes to the general prosperity of this great economic center of the southwest. I find myself entirely in harmony with the organization of this great industrial financing corporation. On that one point we are weak—money. That one point where we have failed to measure up is financing of industries and getting them to come into this community; industries that would take advantage of the cheap power, water, climatic conditions, with which the Almighty has blessed us.

"We are trying to express a community spirit, not only in business, but to insure for the stability of business; to insure for the continued prosperity and happiness of a great people. That means more labor, it means more wealth and prosperity, and consequently more happiness for all the people in the Greater Los Angeles area. This same inclusive spirit, indomitable and convincing, shall continue to keep Los Angeles financially, economically, spiritually, intellectually and morally the white spot of all the United States of America."

Fifty-one Cities Sending Speakers To Realtors' Meet

Fifty-one cities entered the national home town five-minute contest to be held June 4 at the seventeenth annual convention of the National Association of Real Estate Boards. Twenty cities were selected by lot, and all California cities were eliminated. Pasadena, winner of the California contest in 1923; Glendale and Los Angeles had entered the contest. The following boards will be represented:

Buffalo, Birmingham, Charleston, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Council Bluffs, Dallas, Erie, Grand Rapids, Louisville, Lynchburg, Nashville, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Tulsa, Wheeling, Wichita, Winston-Salem, Clearwater, Florida, and Charleston, W. Va. Alternates: Denver, Fort Wayne, Orlando, Baton Rouge and Akron.

The successful cities represent every census classification, according to National Secretary Herb U. Nelson in a letter to the California Real Estate association.

Fred E. Reed, representing Oakland, won the national cup last year, and was barred from the contest this year. The winner in 1922 was Pittsburgh and in 1921 Cedar Rapids.

Candy Tax Receipts Show Large Increase

WASHINGTON, May 24.—Cigarette production in April totaled 5,232,249,000, nearly a billion more than April, 1923, the bureau of internal revenue announced today. Production of all other tobacco articles fell off. The candy tax showed an increase from $932,000 to $1,006,000.

CITY ACCEPTS INVITATION TO PARTICIPATE IN UNIQUE BEVERLY HILLS CEREMONY

Glendale To Furnish Bridesmaid, Chosen By Popular Vote, To Take Part; Local Clubs To Arrange For Contest

Glendale has accepted an invitation from Beverly Hills to be present at that community on the night of June 17, when her daughter, Miss Beverly Hills, will be given away in marriage to Holsum the Third, of Los Angeles, thus uniting beauty and industry in the further service of Southern California.

The wedding will take place at Holsum House, with a parson, music, an ensuing banquet and elaborate program, states F. C. Brewer of Beverly Hills, through whom the invitation came. Motion pictures will be taken of the big event and it will be broadcasted out over the state.

Bridesmaid From Here

It is to be a symbolic ceremony, Mr. Brewer points out, and will be participated in by all the leading communities of this section. The maid of honor will be from Beverly Hills' dearest sister community, Hollywood. Glendale is to furnish a bridesmaid, nominated by vote, in a contest that will stimulate the friendly rivalry of certain local civic organizations.

The Kiwanis, Exchange and Optimist clubs have been invited by Mr. Brewer to join in this good-natured contest, and will nominate candidates to be presented to the public for final vote, which he states will be by newspaper ballot. The details of the contest will be decided at a meeting of the joint committee from the three clubs above named.

Bride to Receive

A similar contest will be staged in each of the invited communities, to select their respective bridesmaids, thus engendering an inter-community feeling of sociability and good-will that will have its climax on the wedding night, and continue for several days thereafter, when the bride will hold open house at Holsum House, Beverly Hills.

Each day will be in honor of one of the communities furnishing a bridesmaid, Mr. Brewer states, including a Glendale day, when all the other guests will pay special homage to this city, thus strengthening the inter-community idea and spreading the gospel of industrial development.

Miss Beverly Hills marries Holsum the Third with the full consent and approval of her father and mother and all her friends, the City Trustees, Chamber of Commerce, Realty board and many other civic organizations and local institutions. In fact, it is a match of which all Beverly Hills thoroughly approves, according to Mr. Brewer.

Glendale must decide whether the bridesmaid to represent this city at the wedding will be a Kiwanian, Exchangeite or Optimist—and each of these three local clubs is certain that it will annex the honor.

STATE PRESIDENT MEETING PLANNED

Association Officials to Gather in Washington on June 4

The California Real Estate association is represented on the national convention program for the board of state presidents and state secretaries by Past State President C. C. C. Tatum in his capacity as national vice president, and by State President Henry P. Barbour. Other speakers are from Michigan, Florida and Iowa, including William E. Herren, national director of real estate extension work.

The program will be given at a noon time luncheon Wednesday, June 4, at the Hamilton hotel, Washington, D. C.:

Presiding—C. C. C. Tatum, Los Angeles, vice president National Association of Real Estate Boards.

"What Activities Should a State Association Carry On?" B. J. Baker, Lansing, Mich., president Michigan Real Estate association.

"What Is the Best Form of Organization for a State Association" and "A Talk on the Model Constitution" by William E. Herren, director extension department National Association of Real Estate Boards.

"Relationship of State Associations to Local Boards and National Association" by Walter W. Rose, Orlando, Fla., president of the Florida Association of Real Estate Boards.

"Publicity for the State Associations" by Henry P. Barbour. Long Beach, Calif., president California Real Estate association.

CHIEFS TO MEET

Closer relationship between the National Association of Real Estate Boards and the various state organizations of real estate boards is expected to be the outcome of a meeting of the national board of state presidents, to be held at Washington, D. C., Wednesday, June 4, in connection with the annual convention there of the National Association of Real Estate Boards. The board, made up of the heads of state, provincial and federated real estate associations, is expected to become an increasingly important link in the advancement of real estate interests nationally, particularly in such matters as concern state legislative action.

Henry P. Barbour, Long Beach, Calif., president of the California Real Estate association, will speak on "Publicity for the State Real Estate Association."

Buildings Erected Faster Than Lots Placed on Market

Contrary to general belief, the number of unimproved lots in Los Angeles county has decreased instead of being increased by the extraordinary subdivision activity of the last two years. This is shown by figures compiled in the county assessor's office. During the tax year ended March 1, 1923, 102,000 buildings were erected, while subdivisions containing 81,000 lots were opened. For the year ended March 1, 1924, reports show 125,000 buildings were erected, while 84,800 lots were added in new subdivisions. In the two years 227,000 buildings were built, while 165,800 lots were added, so the number of unimproved lots decreased 61,200 on the face of these figures.

However, the decrease in the number of unimproved lots was less than indicated by these figures, for many houses were built on the rear of lots already improved and two or more were erected on a single lot in many instances. No figures are available showing the actual number of lots so improved, but the figures will run into thousands.

FINANCING HOMES

Creation of a great reservoir of capital for the financing of home construction in Florida through organization of the savings of would-be home owners is the object of a state-wide movement for the formation and encouragement of building and loan associations which is being fostered by the Florida Association of Real Estate Boards.

The Florida plan organizes on a state-wide scale work for widening the possibilities of home ownership now being carried on by the National Association of Real Estate Boards. It centers in building and loan associations the effort of real estate boards of the state to enlarge and make available the capital fund for financing home ownership, provision for which has become a large part of the service which real estate boards in a number of cities are rendering to their communities.

LONG BEACH MEET

The board of directors will hold their third quarterly meeting at the home town of President Henry P. Barbour in Long Beach next August. This is the custom of the association to have one of its director meetings at the home of its president.

ATTORNEY LAUDS REALTY COURSES

Trained Man Has Confidence Of Prospective Buyer In Making Sales

At a lunch of the Artesia Realty board Chester D. French, an attorney of Long Beach, addressed the board on the professionalization of the real estate business. French, incidentally, is the son of F. D. French, one of the pioneer members of the Long Beach Realty board. Pointing out that the legal profession, before Blackstone wrote his commentaries on English Common law, was in the same position as the real estate broker of today, Mr. French saw in the beginning of the real estate courses which have been endorsed and conducted by the California Real Estate association the first move in the professionalization of real estate.

He pointed out that the stable and solid real estate broker is one who should advise his client as to wise investments. Many come to California to speculate, and with the great activity in the business of real estate, speculation will become increasingly dangerous, while investments will become increasingly safe. Therefore, when the prospective purchaser goes to a real estate broker in the future he will go to him with the same feeling he now has when consulting his attorney and his banker. He will look for the man with "a real estate mind," to advise, and with success crowning the advice given by the realty broker he will have a client who will come to him again and again, gladly paying commissions and not quibbling over minor matters. For the client will feel he is receiving professional services, and not merely a desire to complete a sale on the part of the broker.

REALTY BLUE BOOK

The report of Chairman William H. Akin of the Realty Blue Book committee, appointed by the California Real Estate association, was submitted to the board of directors and formally accepted. Chairman Akin said that the forthcoming volume would be one of the most representative works on real estate yet issued, and that it is going to have a wide circulation among the real estate brokers and salesmen of the west. The book is being issued as a compendium of the essential steps in real estate transaction, as related to California, and a large number of noted men, authorities on real estate matters, have written articles for this standard work.

FAIR SLEUTH IS STIRRED TO IRE BY LOW SLANDER

Bootlegger's Charge That Her Ankles Are Thick Is Blow to Pride

By L. C. OWEN

Special Correspondent to The Glendale Evening News. Copyright 1924.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 24.—There's a vindictive gleam today in the eyes of pretty, petite Miss Daisy Simpson, "under cover" federal prohibition enforcement agent, and if she can locate a certain member of the bootlegging fraternity, who, she says, has grossly libelled her, things will go hard with him indeed.

The way Miss Simpson feels today, hanging would be too good for him.

What did he say? Why the scoundrel went and broadcast a story that Miss Simpson had thick ankles and big feet!

Others Are Injured

Incidentally, Miss Simpson is not the only young woman hereabouts who has a just grievance against the libel spreader. For, in fashionable restaurants, where it used to be easy to get a cocktail, fair scofflaws now have to pass a Cinderella test before they can get a little something. If they can display a pair of dainty feet and trimly turned ankles, all well and good. They can have anything the place affords. But if they are a bit heavy on the hoof, near beer is the best they can get.

For the ungallant bootlegger spread his story in the places where it would do Miss Simpson the most harm professionally. "Daisy," as Miss Simpson is better known to those who like her best at a distance, is one of Uncle Sam's best little evidence gatherers. She has sixty bootlegging convictions to her credit, and she is anathema to all purveyors of illicit hooch. She was the subject, recently, of a solemn conclave of bootlegging restaurateurs.

"It's easy to spot her," volunteered one of the bonifaces who had known trouble at Daisy's hands. "She has big feet and thick ankles. Just look the nether extremities of your customers over and you can't miss her."

Slander Isn't True

When news of the vile slander reached the lady hooch hunter, she got mad clear through.

"I'll hang the bootlegger who said that," she declared vehemently.

"Look—is it true, what he said?"

In justice to Miss Simpson, it must be said that it is not true. Her feet are not big. One of her ankles, it must be admitted, is a bit thick, but that is only temporary. The other one is passably chic, and as soon as the thick one recovers from the effects of a sprain acquired in line of duty, it should be slim again, too.

SEE SUBSTANTIAL BUILDING GAINS

Survey Shows Conditions More Stabilized in All Leading Cities

as compared with $140,000,000 for the same month 1922.

The April 1924 loss, therefore, would seem to indicate only a change in tendencies—the dawn of a new era of more normal, substantial and better stabilized conditions throughout the industry, than has existed during the recent periods when the dangers of a too great expansion have been apparent.

During the past five years approximately $20,000,000,000 has been spent in new buildings and alterations throughout the United States, substantially half of this sum being the product of the last two years work. Many cities and towns are now supplied with enough buildings to meet present needs and this last will be added to from month to month, thus gradually and healthfully restoring activities to a basis of actual demand and supply.

The general tendency of labor during the month of April was toward higher wages, the S. W. Straus & company survey reveals. In more than fifty cities definite increases were granted to members of the various crafts. With a general slowing up of business in many lines of industry, it was not apparent during April that these conditions made for lower labor costs in building, although there was a distinct softening in the prices of lumber and structural steel material. While the declines were not especially great excepting in the cases of new grades of lumber, they manifested themselves in all markets. Other building material showed practically no changes with the exception of cement, sand and gravel which declined slightly in New York, Chicago and Milwaukee.

Gain 37 Per Cent

In striking contrast with conditions throughout the greater part of the country, activities in New York City, as judged from the standpoint of April plans filed, show no indications of immediate slowing up. In the five boroughs $48,904,589 of building plans were filed against $35,772,191 in April 1923, a gain of 37 per cent. New York City's April figures were 14 per cent of the total of the other 332 cities included in the month's survey.

In the Central West, 109 cities reported a loss over last April of 19 per cent. Sixty-seven Pacific Western cities reported a loss of 2 per cent. In the South 55 cities gained 8 per cent. The Eastern situation was dominated by New York; 102 cities reported a gain of 4 per cent, but with New York City eliminated the loss in the Eastern section was 12 per cent.

The twenty-five leading cities, in volume of permits, reported 60 per cent of the total showin in the 333 cities, while New York City accounted for nearly 25 per cent of the total volume of the entire twenty-five.

Detroit, the third city is the list showed a gain of nearly 82 per cent, placing it ahead of Los Angeles and Philadelphia. Philadelphia, the fourth city, showed a small loss from last April, as did also Los Angeles. Boston, the sixth city and one of the few large cities which reports plans filed instead of permits issued, showed a slight gain over last April. Substantial gains also were reported from Newark, Cincinnati, Toledo, Providence and Louisville.

Los Angeles Holds Fifth Place In National List For New April Buildings

Los Angeles was fifth among the cities of the U. S. in building for April, 1924. Detroit, with a gain of nearly ten millions over April, last year, moved up to third place and Philadelphia was fourth. San Francisco was eighth in the list, Portland twentieth, Oakland twenty-third and Seattle twenty-eighth.

There was a general recession of building activities throughout the country in April. Two hundred and thirteen cities reported a total of 83,299 permits, with a valuation of $309,764,689, as compared with 82,115 permits with an estimated valuation of $334,160,016 for the same month a year ago. Compared with March, 1924, the April figures show a loss of about 25 per cent. The March total was $419,043,491.

From the astounding total of $188,627,232 in March, New York City (with five boroughs) dropped to $47,990,296 in April. This latter total is more than twelve millions greater, however, than for April a year ago. Chicago gained nearly seven millions compared with March, but her total of $33,493,605 was twenty-eight millions less than for April last year.

Forty-two cities report a total of more than a million dollars for April, 1924. Following is a list of these cities reporting to the American Contractor, supplemented by a list of Pacific coast cities not heretofore reported by Southwest Builder and Contractor:

PREPARING SITE OF MURPHY'S TENT

Comedians' New Location to Be Ready Wednesday In Casa Verdugo

Real estate is "moving fast" on North Brand boulevard in the Casa Verdugo section, as Peter L. Ferry's crew gets under way excavating the northeast corner of Stocker street and the boulevard, where Murphy's Comedians will pitch their tent Thursday night, May 29, reports J. A. Menard of the fun-makers.

The management is highly pleased with the location, which is said to offer exceptional parking facilities. One enterprising merchant, quick to see the possibilities of increased business, according to Mr. Menard, has an elaborate sign in his store window, reading:

MURPHY'S COMEDIANS
WELCOME TO CASA VERDUGO

Move on Wednesday

After the performance in their present location on Wednesday night, May 28, the tent will be moved to the new corner without loss of a single performance. Mr. Menard states that when once they are settled in their new location, an extensive advertising campaign will be launched, which will have the effect of stimulating business in general and of bringing many visitors to Glendale from surrounding points.

"Nothing but the Truth," which opens Sunday night, will continue at the new location, it is stated.

CHINESE DISHES WILL BE SERVED

Oriental Cafe Opens Doors To Public Today at 712 East Broadway

The Oriental cafe opens its doors at 712 East Broadway at 5 o'clock this afternoon, announces the management, and gay Chinese lanterns will swing overhead, while Oriental waiters glide silently to and fro, bearing chop suey, chow mein and other Chinese dishes to patrons from Glendale and surrounding communities.

Mah Jongg parties will also be catered to at the Oriental cafe, it is announced. And all who eat here may rest assured that the dishes are truly Oriental, prepared by an expert Chinese chef. Parties may order special dishes in advance, as there are certain elaborate items on a Chinese menu that require quite a while to prepare. Or they may play Mah Jongg as their orders are being filled.

Inspection Urged

"Glendale has needed such a place as the Oriental cafe," says Manager Barrett of this unique establishment. "I believe the location is ideal, and it is my desire to make a party here stand out as a real event. I believe the people of Glendale and the surrounding communities will appreciate such an institution, and will come in large numbers."

The management of the Oriental cafe extends a special invitation to the public to be present at 5 o'clock this afternoon, when the unique institution will throw open its doors.

Accused Slayer Dies By Suicide in Cell

SCOTTSBORO, Ala., May 24.—Strangling himself to death with a rusty old chain found in his cell, Fred Smith, charged with the murder of Herbert Bennett, his brother-in-law, committed suicide in jail here Friday after writing notes to his friends and officials.

The man's body was found lying on the floor, one end of the chain fastened to bars of the cell and the other looped around his neck. Smith said he killed Bennett because he mistreated his sister.

If the sun should cool, all life would be extinguished and the earth would become a cold, dead mass like the moon.

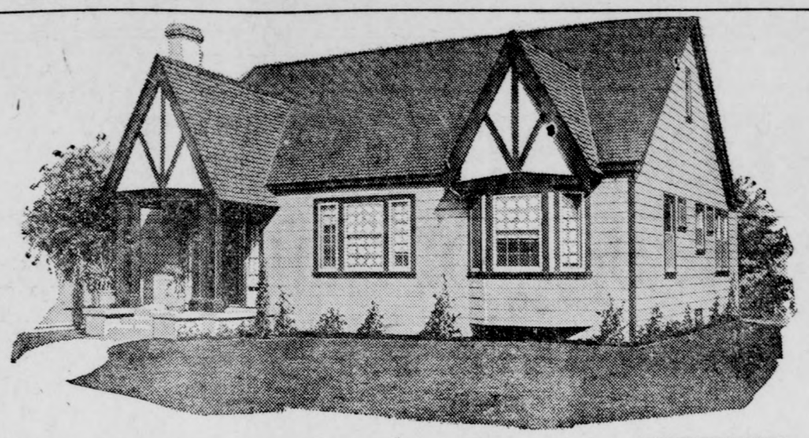
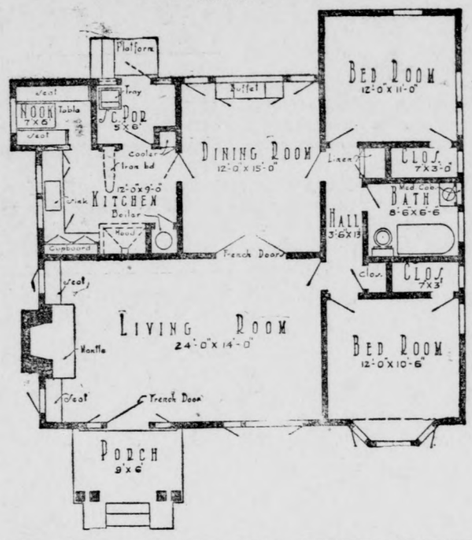
What Few Changes Do

Transposing rooms is an easy matter in a new house, as shown in the floor plan below. Some novel ideas are incorporated in the building, the plans of which are furnished by the LOW BUILDING COMPANY, authorized agents in Glendale for PACIFIC READI-CUT HOMES.





On this page last week we showed a home very similar to this house, but with the plan reversed. This week we are showing a plan with several changes. The position of the breakfast nook and rear screen porch is transposed. French doors are shown leading from the living room to the dining room and a new type of buffet is shown in the dining room. This buffet is of attractive colonial design, resting upon Sheridan legs and it is finished in enamel to conform with the woodwork. This home is known as style 397 and plans can be inspected at the office of the local distributors of Pacific Homes.

IMPROVEMENT IN BUSINESS NOTED

Technical Training Is Help To Realtors Handling Important Deals

"I was recently told," said Harrison Lewis, chairman of the State Educational committee of the California Real Estate association, "by one of the heads of one of the well known Title Guaranty companies, that he had noticed a most marked improvement in the carrying on of real estate business, especially in conducting escrows, since the inauguration of the technical training of those engaged in the real estate business.

"This statement carries with it much significance for the experience which this man has had indicates what is really being accomplished in our state, brought about through our educational program.

"It is hard to realize any constructive movement that would be more beneficial to the public than that of training those engaged in the real estate profession to understand the technic of that business and thereby avoid causing errors and unsatisfactory dealing.

Helps All Around

"The benefit of educating those engaged in the real estate profession not only proves helpful to those who are taking advantage of this educational course, but affects also those with whom these men and women transact their business. A man or woman who is trained along ethical and technical lines in the real estate profession realizes the responsibility of their position in consummating a transaction.

"With classes being held in many cities throughout the State of California the results of this constructive educational program are simply immeasurable. The effects of such training cannot be estimated.

"The State educational committee of the California Real Estate association has every reason to believe that when the second semester of their classes throughout the state are opened in the fall that the number of students enrolled will be several thousand and one can form his own conclusion as to the extent of good that this work is now accomplishing."

FIRST BOARD TO ACT

Action, viewed by officers of the National Association of Real Estate Boards as perhaps the most advanced step yet taken by a local real estate board toward the establishment of the work of the realtor on a professional basis, has just been taken by the Madison, Wis., Real Estate Board. The board has voted that an out-and-out educational qualification shall be made for admittance to its membership.

The action was taken in view of the fact that the board is now offering a course in real estate practice which will be followed in due time by similar courses, under the auspices of either the board or of the University of Wisconsin, which is located in Madison.

WHITE HOUSE VISIT

A visit to the White House and a trip by special car to Arlington national cemetery have been arranged for the delegates from 493 real estate boards over the United States and Canada who, with their parties, will visit Washington, D. C., June 3-6, for the seventeenth annual convention of the National Association of Real Estate Boards. The visit to the White House will be made Thursday noon, June 5.

PLAYERS PRAISED FOR STUNT FEST

Program at Church Staged By Talented Artists Is Warmly Applauded

Congregational church women of the Friendship class, with Mrs. R. N. Stryker as president, are being justly praised for the "stunt fest" given last night under their auspices in the lower auditorium at the church.

Musical and dramatic features were happily combined in the program, which presented many talented artists of Glendale and also a group of amateur entertainers.

Among the artists appearing were Gladys White, Marjorie Yarick, Charles Comfort and Myron Carman, composing a quartet that gave some delightful songs; J. Arthur Myers, tenor, whose singing is always inspiration for applause; Florence Carman Richardson, talented pianist; Mrs. J. Edwin Murphy, dramatic reader; Gladys White in pantomime songs; Frances Payne, violinist.

One Act Play

Others taking part were Mrs. Harry Wilcox, Helen Homan, Mrs. Kenneth Payne, and the following group of church women, who presented a one-act play. Mesdames George Sievers, C. R. Nicholson, M. E. Canfield, R. N. Haight, R. Hiner and F. Nichols.

The play was most cleverly done and special mention should be made of the character work done by Mrs. Canfield, who appeared first as Sally, the young girl, and later appeared as an older woman.

World Court Plan to Await Next Session

WASHINGTON, May 24.—Because of the multiplicity of world court plans in the Senate, President Coolidge does not believe there is any chance for action on the court proposal at this session of Congress, it has been stated officially at the White House. The president's approval of the original Harding-Hughes plan was reiterated.

Denies Navy to Leave L. A. Anchorage Base

WASHINGTON, May 24.—Admiral Edward W. Eberle, chief of naval operations, U. S. N., has denied the reports that the naval anchorage base adjacent to Los Angeles harbor will be abandoned by the navy. Eberle said:

"These rumors, of course, are rumors only. There is no intention of the navy department quitting the Los Angeles anchorage field.

REALTY DIRECTORY

The state real estate department will issue its 1924 real estate directory July 1, 1924, according to a communication received by the California Real Estate association from State Real Estate Commissioner Edwin T. Keiser. The preliminary work for the new bulletin is well under way. Persident Henry P. Barbour has been invited to prepare a brief article for the bulletin. It will contain about 45,000 names of real estate brokers and salesmen.

There are more than 300,000 Sunday schools in the Americas, Europe, Asia, Africa and Oceanica.

$100,000 Damages Asked as Heart Balm

LOS ANGELES, May 24.—Edward St. Albans of Pasadena and Los Angeles, is made defendant in a breach of promise suit for $100,000 in an amended complaint filed by Mannie Logan. St. Albans promised to marry her, she claims, as soon as she received final decree of divorce from Walter E. Logan. The final decree was entered on January 7. Then St. Albans refused to perform his part of the agreement, she declares. She says St. Albans has property worth more than a half million dollars.

LAND ECONOMICS

Land problems underlying the whole of our modern economic life and having a basic relation to real estate as a market commodity, are the subject of a treatment on "Elements of Land Economics," by Dr. Richard T. Ely, of the University of Wisconsin, director of the Institute for Research in Land Economics and Public Utilities, and Edward W. Morehouse, which was issued this week by the Macmillan company.

Problems of home ownership, forestry, agricultural credit and tenancy are among the most fundamental of our economic problems, Dr. Ely and Mr. Morehouse point out, yet people are prone to accept solutions for them which are for the most part quack remedies, because of the lack of an adequately systematic and scientific study of the place of land in our economic life, of the services rendered by land, or of the principles governing the use of land.

There is more hafnium, a new chemical element, in the earth's crust than there is gold, say Danish scientists.

CIVIC PROBLEMS

Accompanied by their Realtors Glee club of twelve voices and inviting all of the national realtor delegates to accompany them, the Oakland Real Estate Board delegation will leave Washington, D. C., June 7, folowing the convention, and visit the following cities: Philadelphia, New York, Boston, Buffalo, Cleveland, Detroit, Cincinnati, St. Louis, Kansas City, Denver and arrive home Friday, June 20.

"The Oakland Realtors' Glee club will go a different route following the national convention each year," said Fred E. Reed, in charge of the 1924 tour. "The entire country will be covered in this manner. The entire convention is invited to accompany the Oakland party. See America as in no other way. Study production as well as selling. We will study values, city growth, factory development, downtown business growth, placement of public buildings, width of streets, traffic congestion and means of relief, water front development, rentals, office building space and rates."

"HERE COMES THE BRIDE"

When June comes 'round, Dan Cupid takes a vacation. His work is done, well done. All through the long winter months he toiled faithfully with bow and arrow, aiming honey-tipped darts at all couples found dreaming among the orange blossoms or sighing by the blue Pacific—but with June his labors are over, for June is the month of brides, the consummation of his archery.

And oh, such a time as the brides have, getting together their bridal gowns and trousseaux! Whether rich or poor, slim or—well, not so slim—there are always problems. And this is equally true of those who wish to give presents, either to the bride or groom. To find just the right thing, at the right price!

It may safely be said that never before has the choosing of bridal things been less a task in Glendale than this season, owing to the numerous splendidly appointed and intelligently conducted local shops where these articles are found.

Does Milady plan the traditional, the beautiful and formal wedding her mother before her planned? Then from bridal veil to gorgeous, trailing gown of cream silk, she will find it in the modish Glendale shops. And be it said right here that this season the traditional features of the old-time wedding have returned in full force, fashion having stirred from the lethargy imposed first by the war and then by the informal vogue of sportwear.

Geraldine, tall, evelte and blonde; Marjorie, petite and brunette; Imogene, of medium size and brune as to complexion,—all are able to find the very things their separate features and tastes dictate, in the distinctive Glendale shops.

And gifts! In these days of artistic creations ranging the whole gamut of manufactured goods, from cutlery to the sheerest boudoir garments, one is afforded an opportunity to perpetuate one's self and commemorate friendship in a beautiful, artistic and lasting way. Gone is the generation when ice-water pitchers and butter-spreaders galore marked the givers' lack of imagination. Modern shops are at the service of those who wish to give, with extensive stocks of appropriate articles, and with suggestions that save useless racking of the brain.

The bridal shower has done its share toward solving the unwelcome "repeat" in gifts; groups of friends take pains to consult as to gifting and many stores make a point of learning the pattern in silver, in china or other articles to be given, so that donors may combine in buying sets or complementary objects.

The fact that silver is so decidedly in vogue, simplifies the gift problem and the many lovely designs, evolved from times historic, afford a varied choice.

Since gems are, of course, the first gifts from the groom, one's thought turns first toward jewels for the bride.

The betrothal ring is usually a diamond solitaire, paved in platinum-set diamonds caliber. If the choice is for combining with the white gem the birth stone, this may be achieved by using it to frame the diamond, caliber being the choice and the range of stones thus used being confined to sapphires or emeralds.

Wedding rings may be gem-set throughout the entire circle, the diamonds being either round or caliber. Occasionally, a ring of sapphires or of emeralds is selected for this ring, these cut square, and, of course, set in platinum.

Bracelets without number may enrich the dower chest, since these, however set or wrought out in designs, need not conflict; nor can a girl have too many of these ornaments. From the plain slave links, or love links, of gold in white, yellow, green or natural, to the hinged or jointed bracelet, gem set and quaintly designed, the latitude is great and the gift may embody the wealth of a king's ransom, or may be of modest cost.

Linens for table and for bedroom use are a never-ending source of bridal gifting and those of today are so luxurious, so infinite in variety that no taste need be violated in their selection. Plain damask of fine quality; pliant linens for refectory, for luncheon and for supper table, lace trimmed and handsomely hand-embroidered; laces foreign and laces domestic—the choice is beyond description upon a single page. The same is true of bed linens. Whether of cotton in the better class, monogrammed, hemstitched, lettered; or of imported linens, the bridal chest can never be replete. Downy blankets in colors such as our forebears did not dream possible, silken quilts and conforters, feather-light, yet warm as though shone upon by summer sun—anyone might well be pleased with a selection from among such luxuries.

Should one decide on silver for the bride, there is a choice almost limitless in the many period patterns such as Hepplewhite, D'Orleans, Colfax, Versailles, Virginia Lee, chased St. Dunstan, Wedgewood, Mythologique and many others. Mythologique is, as the name suggests, a pattern derived from the old Greek, and having a finish antique and interesting. These patterns in flat service ware, may be supplemented by paterns similar, if not matching, in the larger objects for table use and for decorative purposes. Vases, candlesticks, flower bowls, platters, plates and entire services are developed in silver now; while dressing-table articles without number come also in this ware. Dest sets, too, picture frames and many small objects for personal use have come forth in new and interesting shapes and decorative effects. Any of these are appropriate for wedding gifts.

Lamps, also, are among the gift possibilities of now, since many a home might be described as a "house of a thousand candles" principally in the form of lamps. Lamps for bridge, lamps for table and for floor, lamps for the dressing-table, for the dinner-table, for every nook and corner of the well-furnished home. What more effective in bringing out a color scheme in furnishing than the lamp with its many possibilities in shades and decorative effects? Of giving many lamps there is no end, at wedding times and at any time, in fact.

Odd pieces of furniture, incidental pieces, as they are called, enable the donor to express himself in terms of excellent taste, while adding to the sum of the bride's home happiness. The console, with its overhanging mirror; the candelabra, the candlesticks and console fruit bowl; the odd mirror for illuminating some dim corner, the end table, the davenport table; the phono-cabinet; the quaintly individual chair—the list is without end.

To one practically inclined, the kitchen need not be overlooked, when choosing gift articles for the modern bride. There is scarcely an object utilitarian which has not come into the rank of artistry, even kitchen cabinets and ranges being now as beautiful as enamel and nickel mountings can render them. Cooking utentils, in aluminum or enamel, white or blue, are quite bridal in effect and many a word of thanks will go up from the lips of the girl who does her own work in some daintily equipped bungalow or apartment, when the more ephemeral gifts have been forgotten.

From members of the family, and from girl to girl, the intimate articles for personal wear and use, may properly find a place. Hand-made camisoles, entire sets of lingerie, handkerchiefs, colorful and lacy, hemstitched or embroidered; hosiery, boudoir articles for dress and for dressing-table are not inappropriate.

Even those useful and beautifying sets comprising the appliances of beauty—compacts, single or double; sets of cream, lotions, powders, hair applications, bath salts, soaps and talcums, need not be scorned by any girl or woman, and since these come in containers so artistic as to add a touch of loveliness to any boudoir or bathroom, they well may be placed upon the bridal-gift list.

Just for fun, Geraldine, Marjorie and Imogene got together the other night for a dress rehearsal at Geraldine's home.

Geraldine's wedding gown is as almost unlimited in length as the purse from which she will pay for the articles of her selection and of a fabric so elegant as to prove of heirloom worth, to correspond with the family lace. The veil, of finest French bridal tulle, is full and long, serving to enfilm the gown and is fashioned into a visor-like cap edged with the lace. Orange blossoms are posed above one ear and form a restrained wreath where crown and brim are joined. Natural orange blossoms and a huge shower bouquet of lilies of the valley will be used on the happy occasion. The wedding gown, depending upon quality for elegance, is enhanced only by the bridal jewels, of which I shall tell you later.

Marjorie has selected her gown with an eye to practicability, the undergown of crepe being wearable for afternoon or evening, after the wedding, when the sleeveless tunic may be put aside. Her veil is of tulle, innocent of lace, the filmy fabric brought down plainly over

Happy Suggestions For The June Bride

Bridal Group Shown In Store Window Displays Handsome Wedding Gowns

In a beauteous scene arranged in one of the windows at Pendroy's department store on South Brand boulevard at Harvard street, a pretty bridal group stands as bearers of Dame Fashion's happy greetings for the coming of June, the "Month of Brides."

The charming bride is gowned in white georgette and lace, made bouffant and worn with flowing veil edged with rose point lace.

Opposite her stand her two attendants. One wears a lovely frock of canary yellow georgette, cleverly made with narrow ruffles of black lace. Her hat is a straw in harmonizing shade. Above the brim are saucy yellow daisies, while beneath one catches glimpses of black lace ruffles to match those on her gown.

The other maid wears a poudre blue georgette, made on simple lines. Her hat is the final touch to an intriguing outfit.

Honeymoon Special

The bride and two maids stand on either side of a black plush rug, leading to an improvised altar banked with fern. Behind the fern is a black velvet curtain, with futuristic design done in white satin ribbon.

Soft light from two hand-painted parchment shades glimmers on either side.

Hinting of the "Honeymoon Special" that soon will leave for parts unknown, is a roomy wardrobe trunk in one corner of the picture. Within the drawers and on the hangers of the trunk one sees lovely things that go to make up the bridal trousseau.

On the other side of the room is a table laden with wedding gifts, that would delight the heart of any bride.

In the picture, so cleverly made by W. H. Hadden, window trimmer, one sees just a few of the attractive things Pendroy's offer for the June bride.

Gifts for Brides

On the first floor one will find fine linens, from which can be secured ideal things for the new home. Then there are toilet articles of fine quality; accessories for the wardrobe; Omar pearls, mesh bags and other things that will have their separate appeal to the individual taste.

The bride to be will find her paradise on the second floor, where a riot of beauty is found in the ready-to-wear, shoes, millinery and lingerie departments.

Dinner dresses, evening gowns, afternoon frocks, sports outfits, suits and coats, the latest decree of fashion, offer a wide range of selection for the trousseau.

Just the hats and shoes to match are found in the millinery and shoe departments.

Newest In Shoes

Shoes are such a necessary part of the trousseau and at Pendroy's one will find many desirable ones in the new Parisian vamps with stage heels, in both oxfords and strap effects. There are countless styles in white, kid, satins and rain cloth, and then there are shoes in nine other colors.

Hope chests and wardrobe trunks are found on the third floor, while at the other extreme, in the basement, are cut glass, fine china and other things for the new home, which is the great consideration when the "Honeymoon Special" makes the return trip.

VARIED FABRICS FOR TROUSSEAUX

Bewildering Assortment for Bride's Needs Is Told By Executive

To enumeate the various kinds of cloth used in fashioning the wardrobe of the June bride would appear almost like the annual inventory of the store, according to Miss Minnie Holzman, of the Glendale Dry Goods company, 115 East Broadway.

"Beginning with the silks and woolen fabrics, there are the twills with their various trade names such as Poire, Rodier and numerous others, these are used for tailored suits and wraps. Navy is declared to lead in this type of yardage," she said. ,

"Crepes in wool, in silk and other mixtures are popular for separate skirts usually done in fine pleats or knife pleats, and are usually for wearing with sweaters, or blouses."

Variety in Silks

"In silks there is almost no end to the list; almost every conceivable kind of pattern lending itself admirably to the dress requirements for the bride.

"Flannels of attractive shades in pastel or bright colors are liked for the plainly tailored frocks and for tailored blouses. Alpaca, under new trade names such as 'Tussalge,' fashion summer suits and tailored dresses.

"Yardage and piece goods of all kinds and descriptions as well as many other necessities for the June bride are to be found in profusion at the Glendale Dry Goods Store," declares Miss Holzman, "and always plenty of obliging sales people to serve you."

SWEEPING RANGE SHOWN IN SHOES

Buster Brown Store Displays Fashionable Footwear In Varied Styles

The Buster Brown Shoe store located at 122 North Brand boulevard, affords a large selection of styles of fashionable footwear for the June bride to choose from. Every conceivable style in white slippers and oxfords are to be found, including the strap slipper which is proving so popular and the pump with the lattice work in the sides of the slipper or in the front coming up the instep.

The June bride will be greatly pleased with the Blumenthal and washable kids to be had in white, illustrations of which are shown in the Buster Brown Shoe store advertisement to be found in this section of this issue of The Glendale Evening News. W. C. Winkler, proprietor of the store, has just recently received a large supply of white footwear in all the popular and most wanted fashions.

The bride and her attendants will also be delighted with the new models with the unusually designed straps and gussets cunningly hidden by buckles in all the countless shades of tans, greys and browns which can be purchased to match each costume.

STOCKS REFLECT FASHION'S WHIMS

C. J. Hatz Selects Stock of Season's Latest Styles For His Patrons

To please the modern bride, C. J. Hatz, 132 South Brand, has made a very careful selection of Fashion's latest whims. Dresses for evenig wear, morning, afternoon or street wear, in smart, likeable styles and colors and excellent fabrics, present an attractive array to choose from. Scarcely two models are alike, and all are attractively priced and decidedly new and different.

Bridesmaids' costumes are almost always chosen with as much care as the bride's gown, and the frocks at Hatz's are especially smart, and the various shades of pinks, rose and blues, which are Fashion's choice this June, are among those to be found on the second floor. The bride will want to choose her going-away hat, the traveling or sports suits, and the wrap that goes on the journey from the ample selection.

Exquisite Lingerie

The June bride will find the lingerie section worth exploring. Here may be found all the exquisite new lingerie in crepe de chine and crepe back satin trimmed with real filet Valenciennes and Irish laces which are so very smart. The discerning bride will also be interested in the sheer nainsook lingerie which launders so beautifully. Another phase of undergarmentry is that materials now have been so perfected as to be actually washable rather than merely said to be. Even the tinted silks and satins are unfadeable, or, in case they are, the qualities which do lose color may easily be restored, so no one need hesitate in her choice. The bride will also appreciate the slightly tailored tendencies of the newer lingerie.

QUEBEC, Quebec, May 24.—The Province of Quebec, which produces more than half of the total maple crop of the world, is getting ready for a record production this season, according to the director of the maple sugar service bureau. her bobbed hair and bound close-l yto her head by means of a fine wreath; enhancing her petite and slender appearance. Her gwon bears no train.

Imogene has chosen to be moderate in every feature of her costume, without, however, becoming commonplace. Her veil is medium in length, but somewhat voluminous and is worn in a high puff, offstanding from the coiffure at the back—a favorite mode of now—the bridal blossoms coined into discs set above each ear and enwreathing the fullness at the back. Silken embroidery, interset with beads of pearl, enrich the coat-like tunic whihc may be doffed when a plainer dress is wanted. Tassels of pearly beads complete the panels of the coat.

Each girl has selected her trousseau with reference to her proposed bridal tour, as well as for use thereafter. Hence Geraldine's equipment includes the paraphernalia for foreign travel, along lanes of world traffic; Imogene has outfitted for a stay at popular resorts in California and Marjorie will prepare her wardrobe for motoring and general outdoor wear, as well as for practical use upon her return.

DAINTY SLIPPERS DELIGHT BRIDES

Romantic Keynote Sounded In Beautiful Design of Today's Styles

A world of delight awaits this year's June bride when she begins shopping for her wedding silppers, according to R. E. Brown, manager of the Glendale Bootery, 221 North Brand boulevard.

"Shoe manufacturers everywhere have experienced a rush of romance and the symbols of the June bride are reflected in the styles for the June bride. For instance, one of the daintiest designs in white satin boasts of a heart-shaped cutout on each side and well toward the back, so that in a measure the bride's heart will literally be in her feet."

"The slipper has no other trimming than a tiny bit of stitching which outlines the arch and runs up on the single strap."

Patent Leather

"Whether her going-away outfit be gown or suit, silk or wool, the June bride slips out after the wedding in footwear of patent leather. It is the dictate of the season. Patent leather is also extremely popular for afternoon dress use."

For evening wear the present season affords the June bride many opportunities for the wearing of bright colors. Trimmed in different combinations, many models in various colors are offered for her selection, with, of course, colored hosiery to match.

The famous I .Miller line of shoes for women, with a complete line of sizes and styles, is always carried in stock by the Glendale Bootery, declares Mr. Brown.

Locate Stairway of Railroad President

BOSTON, May 24.—When wreckers dismantled the old station of the Boston & Maine railroad, built here in 1870, they discovered a secret stairway which led from the president's office to a blind alley. Carefully concealed behind false walls, thousands of employes of the company did not suspect the stairway's existence. Its purpose, presumably, was to enable the railway executives to escape unwelcome callers.

Gifts The June Bride Will Appreciate

Appeal Of Dainty Linen Emphasized By Striking Beauty Of New Designs

In all the varied assortment of gifts for the bride there is none, perhaps, that finds more ready acceptance and surely none that breathes such true romance as linen. It is one of the few gifts that has maintained its place of favor down through the years. Its popularity, even with the most prosaic housewife, has never waned, and to the June bride it is the foundation of her new home.

Hair may be bobbed or it may be long, gowns may be worn loosely draped or they may cling closely, hats may be small or they may be large, materials, patterns and colors may come and go, but —linen, linen—always. The maid who does not exclaim with delight at the sight of some beautiful piece or set of linen does not exist, or if perchance such a maid does exist it isn't likely that she is soon to appear in the role of bride.

Period Designs

"Tablecloths are severe in pattern this season and floral effects are not permitted to appear about the table. The designs are following the period styles and the latest patterns depict the insignia of the Tudors, William and Mary, and Louis XVI. One style that is unique and popular is the victor's wreath with its laurel and ribbons forming the center adornment," says W. G. Lauderdale of the Irish Linen store, 117 North Brand boulevard.

"Snowy white damask is still favored by many who entertain formally, but color has attained much popularity for luncheon and home use. Yellows, pinks and blues add much to the attractiveness of the dining-room. The new crash cloth with dainty stripes of creamy yellow and artichoke green acts as a splendid tonic to the appetite in the breakfast room. The napkins, too, are striped, but in a narrower fashion.

Monogram Styles

Sheets of soft percale are in great demand, although the June bride is delighted with embroidery. If the sheets are initialed it is the diamond monogram that is correct and this style of monogram is popular also for tablecloths and napkins," continued Mr. Lauderdale.

Few things can give the bride the thrill of satisfaction that she gets when she observes the shining surface of her new dining table.

Believe Pygmy Race Once Inhabited Ohio

COSHOCTON, Ohio, May 24.—That a race of pygmies once inhabited Ohio, or else Indians, who may have populated the village, observed a custom of cutting off the legs of their dead at the knee, for the purpose of deceiving as to height, is indicated by skeletons found at Rock Run, near here.

This is the opinion voiced by members of the Coshocton High school historical class, who are preparing a dramatization of Coshocton county history, under the direction of Dr. A. E. Wagner, Ohio State University.

The skeletons, according to information obtained by the class members were not more than four feet in height. All of the skeletons lay in the same position, with heads to the west.

'Air Farming' Calls For Best Machinery

CHICAGO, May 24.—"Air farming" is giving agricultural implement makers more problems of designing and inventing new and faster operating tools, according to the research department of the National Association of Farm Equipment Machinery.

Farmers of America are no longer waiting for politicians to solve their nitrate problems. They are growing clovers, alfalfas, field peas and soy beans. These hays and pastures are known as legumes, and take nitrogen from the air and store it on the nodules of their roots, restoring the soiling and providing the stock food. Manufacturers are busily working out efficient methods for handling these crops.

Order Laughing Gas For Naval Hospital

SAN DIEGO, May 24.—Approximately 76,800 gallons of laughing gas will be used at the naval hospital here during the coming year, Capt. F. W. F. Weiber, commandant, told the Eleventh Naval District headquarters. Besides this, 27,600 gallons of oxygen gas will be required for anaesthetics, he said.

MANY MATERIALS USED FOR WRAPS

Melba Jean Shop Filling Orders for Weddings As June Nears

Dinner wraps and for formal evening wear, required to complete the trousseau of the June bride, are made from velvets, heavy brocades, or plain silken fabrics, asserts Melba Jean of the Melba Jean Gown Shop at Jensen's Palace Grand Shops.

"The more individual, the more unusual, and consequently the better. The linings are as fine and in many instances are much more ornamental than are the exteriors," she says.

Cape Is Adaptable

"The cape, or the cape-like effect, is popular, for the reason that it is adaptable for almost any type of gown. Many of the formal wraps have the appearance of sleeved capes. Some, however, have set-in sleeves, giving a more trig effect, but it must be conceded that such a style is less convenient."

"The fur collar is a charming feature of nearly all the new wraps designed for formal wear. The furs selected are usually the short-haired ones, such as summer ermine, mole, cocoa, ermine, real or artificial, and seal."

The Melba Jean Shop, asserts the proprietress, makes a specialty of wraps for the June bride and has already booked numerous orders for forthcoming June weddings.

Complete Brewery Is Installed on Liner

BREMEN, Germany, May 24.—A complete brewing plant has been installed in the North German Lloyd Stuttgart. The vessel will carry German beer for the outward trip, but as new stocks cannot be taken on, owing to prohibition, the beer will be brewed on ship for the passengers during the return trip from New York.

Big Lumber Shipment Is Made Each Month

VANCOUVER, B. C., May 24.—An average of approximately twenty million board feet of logs were shipped monthly from British Columbia to the United States last year. The total for the year was 230,000,000 feet. The logs are worth approximately $16 per thousand, so that the value of the monthly exports was about $230,000.

BARBER WANTS WIFE

COHSOCTON, Ohio, May 24.—A wife is wanted by Remick Curran, 72-year-old Coshocton barber. Inasmuch as no woman, so far, has taken advantage of her "leap year" prerogative, he resorted to the advertising columns of the local newspaper.

That he can jump a rail fence, uphill—a feat which might do credit to one many years his junior—is a claim made by Curran in his "ad," announcing his desire for a mate. He states he doesn't drink whiskey nor parade the streets. He stipulated that his would-be helpmate be a "good-looker—either a widow or maiden lady—and able to cook."

Philippines to Make Survey of Education

MANILA, May 24.—A complete educational survey of the Philippines is about to be undertaken by the Philippine government under the direction of Vice-Governor and Secretary of Public Instruction Eugene A. Gilmore, who has just visited the United States to engage the foremost American educators for the task. The government has appropriated $20,000 for the work. The idea back of the survey is that the Philippine public school system needs alteration so as to make it more in line with the actual practical needs of the country. There are at present more lawyers than the islands need and hundreds of young men and women with degrees who cannot find useful employment. On the other hand, there is a lack of physicians, engineers and scientific agriculturists.

Plane Killed Husband, So Seeks Double Pay

CHICAGO, May 21.—A unique point in life insurance was raised in a suit for $10,000 against the New York Life Insurance company, filed in the superior court by Mrs. Valentine Gits, of Oak Park.

Mrs. Gits' husband, Alphonse, a wealthy Oak Park manufacturer, was killed in an airplane fall last August in Estes Park, Colorado, and Mrs. Gits received $10,000 insurance from the company. Now she is suing for $10,000 more under a double indemnity clause which was to take effect if death were instantaneous.

The company claims that the policy stated that the insured was not to operate a submarine nor an airplane. Mrs. Gits holds that her husband was a passenger, not an operator.

FEZ IS ABANDONED

LONDON, May 24.—Following the example of Angora, the Irak government has issued a decree abolishing the fez, which marks the passing of an ancient Moslem institution. The fez is to be superseded by a folding cap, similar in appearance to the army forage cap, locally called the sidara. The change is regarded as significant, in that the Mosopotamians, having disowned the Turkish sultanate, decline henceforth to wear its badge.

COONSKIN LIBRARY

AMESVILLE, Ohio, May 24.—Although local residents admit that the Ohio University at Athens, near here, was the first college west of the Alleghany Mountains, they insist that the first public library was established here. New England pioneers, settling here in the early days, established the "Coonskin Library," which is historically famous. Boy Scouts are erecting a log cabin in the centre of the village to commemorate the library.

GIRLS ARE STRONGEST

SACRAMENTO, May 24.—Girl babies combat the perils that menace existence much more successfully than their infant brothers according to statistics for 1923 just compiled by the state board of health. During the year 132 boy babies died for every 100 girls according to state records, even though the male infants usually outweigh those of the opposite sex. Births during 1923 were at the rate of 105 males for every 100 females.

Claims Marajuana Is Raised From Birdseed

ONTARIO, Mal., May 24.—Mexicans in this vicinity often get marajuana or Indian hemp, the "loco weed," by growing it from bird seed, according to Ashby H. Powell, local resident. He has written to the Department of Agriculture in an effort to learn more of the weed. Growth or sale of Indian hemp in the United States is forbidden by law, but Mexicans have often been found in possession of it, it is said. The hemp is considered a dangerous habit-forming drug. Powell is in favor of prohibiting the sale of birdseed containing marajuana seed.

Charges Alcohol Was Put In Rabbit Gravy

WHEELING, W. Va., May 24.—Accused of possessing "rabbit gravy containing 8 per cent alcohol," Mrs. Pearl Rickman was fined $100 and costs in federal court. Arresting officers claimed that when they raided her home they saw Mrs. Hickman pour the contents of a bottle into a skillet.

The Natural History Survey of New York was founded in the year 1836.

Twenty-two Fortune Tellers Are Nabbed

VIENNA, May 24.—Fortune telling has become such a pest in many large Austrian cities that the authorities have begun to take action for its suppression.

Twenty-two prisoners, who included many women of the aristocracy, were haled into court at Budapest charged with making too much profit at an illegal occupation.

They were all weeping and during the proceedings amazing confessions were made as to the high chargs extorted from women.

CLOCK SAVES TWO

BUCYRUS, O., May 24.—Burlen Jacobs, superintendent of the State arsenal at Columbus, and his wife owe their lives to an alarm clock. Were it not for its insistent ringing they perhaps would have fallen victims to asphyxiation.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacobs were asleep in their home here with an open grate gas fire in their room. The alarm awakened Mrs. Jacobs, who felt ill. She had difficulty in arousing her husband, who was in a more serious condition.

More than $100,000,000 a year is spent by the American people for patent medicines and tonics.

Women Traveling by Day to See Country

CHICAGO, May 24.—Most women travel today for sightseeing purposes—or at least travel so that they may see as much of the country as possible, according to a survey made of passenger transportation conditions by John Maloney, assistant general passenger agent of the Wabash railroad.

Few women now travel on trains at night. Three-fourths of the feminine tourists of the country ride by daylight. The investigation attributes the big shift of women travelers from night to day as being due to the extra conveniences of day travel and the opportunity for sightseeing.

It was not so long ago that night travel was about evenly divided between men and women.

WILLS WOODEN LEG

NEW YORK, May 24.—When S. Harry Smith of 661 North avenue, Westfield, N. J., dies, the wooden leg given to him by the Government for the loss of his own leg at St. Mihiel on September 18, 1918, will be sent to Secretary of the Treasury Mellon.

That strange bequest was revealed when the contents of the war veteran's will were made public. Smith resented the recent action of the Government in reducing his compensation. Smith has had three artificial legs.

COMMISSION TO HEAR PLEAS TO WIDEN COLORADO

Set Date for Meeting When Question of 100-Foot Street Is Argued

A public hearing on the petition asking that Colorado street be widened ten feet on each side from Glendale avenue to the Eagle Rock city limits, making it a 100-foot boulevard, will be held by the City Planning Commission next Friday night, May 30, at 7:30 o'clock, according to an announcement made by H. J. Hayselden, secretary of the commission, this morning. Mr. Hayselden stated later that when this date was set, the commissioners lost sight of the fact that May 30 was Decoration Day, and that this date might be changed.

The petition asking for the improvement was presented to the City Council last Thursday morning, and referred to the planning commission. The commissioners—T. W. Watson, J. H. Randall, S. E. Kinch, Harry Hague and P. J. Hayselden—all of whom were present at last night's meeting, desire to hear the opinions of the property owners on Colorado street before making their recommendation to the City Council.

Work Under Way

At the present time Peter L. Ferry, contractor, is engaged in widening this street to a width of eighty feet, and, if the widening is approved by the planning commission, and their recommendation adopted by the Council, it will necessitate the initiation of further proceedings before the present work is completed.

The commission set the same date, May 30, as the time for a hearing on the petition presented by G. E. Harrison, 405 West Pioneer drive, and sixteen other property owners on that street, asking that Pioneer drive between Columbus and Pacific avenues be made a first-class residential district.

Change Meeting

The meeting next Friday night will be the last one to be held on that day of the week by the commissioners. Commencing Monday night, June 2, the commission will meet every Monday night, instead of Friday night as heretofore.

CHANGE REALTOR LAW IN NEW YORK

Applicant for License Must Be Citizen of U. S. or Have Filed Papers

Amendments to the New York real estate license law stiffening its restrictions have been passed by the legislature and have received the governor's signature.

Provisions giving the state administrative force the right to exact a competency test of applicants for a real estate broker's license is the most important addition made to the state's license law. The state tax commission, which administers the law, may require proof that the applicant has a fair knowledge of the English language, a fair understanding of the general purpose and general legal effect of deeds, mortagages, land contracts of sale, and leases, and a general and fair understanding of the obligations between principal and agent, as well as of the provisions of the real estate license act.

Another provision requires the applicant to be a citizen of the United States or have declared his intention of becoming a citizen. Failure to become a citizen within five years after having declared his intention to do so is made cause for revocation of the license.

The commission of a single act prohibited by the law is considered a violation of the law.

Sponsored by Board

The New York State Association of Real Estate Boards and the Real Estate Board of New York initiated the amendments. Movement for stiffer license laws is a general policy of the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

* * *

Leading law libraries and bar associations of the United States have been furnished with copies of the brief, argument and pleadings prepared for use in injunction suits to protect the rights of the National Association of Real Estate Boards in the term "Realtor."

The brief, argument and pleadings were prepared for the National Association by its General Counsel, General Nathan William MacChesney.

Copies of the documents have also been sent to eight law publications, to the real estate commissioners in the sixteen states having real estate license law, to the forty-eight state supreme court libraries, to the libraries of twenty-five colleges and universities, to eight public libraries, to all officers of the National Association, to presidents and secretaries of state real estate associations, and to secretaries of all member boards of the National Association.

COMMENT
That's All

Eric's Judgment Better
Love Is About All
Prosperous Summer
Good Business Ahead

By Gil A. Cowan

Prince Eric of Sweden has taken up his abode in southern California.

While he is camera shy, there is no question but what Eric has better judgment than most scions of royalty.

Love in an Arcadia, or Glendale bungalow, is much sweeter than life in a European capital these days.

When you get down to the infinitesimal fineness of things, love is about all there is to life, although few find true love.

Friends many times are false.
But true love lives forever.
Others have said that.
We repeat it.

Day in and day out—some days out—we write this column of Comment. We could talk about current events of the day, but they are of little consequence when judged by history of all time.

It seems so futile to talk of the World Court, to argue the League of Nations, to write about the acts of Congreses.

Of course, all this is interesting. Food for thought, but that is about all.

Here is a thought which comes to us today really worth-while:

Conditions in southern California are favorable to a most prosperous summer if people will only aid in the program. The foot-and-mouth disease is pretty thoroughly squelched and everything is opening up in a most satisfactory economic manner.

Thousands of tourists are in our midst, crops are quite good despite the late rains, industry is forging ahead, and the laboring man is finding more and more work. Builders had better heed the signs of the times and contract for their materials now and organize crews for summer building. Otherwise, they will pay the penalty of procrastination.

Merchants, also, should be prepared to meet the trade late in the season, for people who have reserved buying now find that they need the very articles which have been sold for 50 cents on the dollar to date.

Yes, business is going to be good. That's a sure thing.

NORTH CAROLINA SENATOR UPSETS PARTY LEADERS

F. M. Simmons Outgenerals Entire Crowd, Puts Own Ideas in Tax Bill

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright 1924

WASHINGTON, May 24. — A little general from North Carolina—Senator Furnifoli McLendel Simmons — has outmaneuvered the entire Republican leadership, including President Coolidge, Secretary Mellon and the legislative managers of the Republican party in Congress. For, though the Republicans are in control of Congress, a tax bill written by the minority — the Democrats — will become law.

Senator Simmons, perhaps the most experienced man on tax matters in the upper house and one who has served long on the finance committee in the preparation of the revenue acts of previous years, was assisted by the strategy of Representative Garner, Democrat of Texas, in the house. Altogether they have put through a bill that President Coolidge will sign, chiefly because he cannot afford to veto it.

The objectionable features—the publicity of tax returns and the undistributed profits tax—have been eliminated, and one suspects now they were put in there in the first place for trading purposes so as to insure the retention of the Simmons rates when the conference committee acted.

Is Most Amazing

It is one of the most amazing legislative developments in a generation. The Democrats, of course, were aided by the insurgent Republicans, without whose votes the Simmons rates would not have prevailed, but the Republican leadership had the same opportunity as did the Democrats to win those insurgents. The regular Republican leaders privately are disappointed, for they could have written the type of bill Senator Simmons offered, but they were restrained by the desire of the president and the secretary of the treasury that a record vote be obtained on the Mellon plan.

The chief difference between the Mellon proposal and the Simmons rates is that persons with incomes running up to $66,000 a year will get a greater reduction in taxes under the Simmons plan than under the Mellon scheme. Above $66,000 and running to $100,000 the reductions would have been greater under the Mellon plan, though there is really only a slight difference. Above $100,000, however, the differences are material.

The Mellon plan would have cut the taxes of the persons of larger income, the theory being that such a procedure would help business by stimulating capital to go into productive enterprises. Senator Simmons introduced as a counter proposal the idea that under his plan more individuals would benefit—some 6,600,000—and argued that the persons of larger income were not suffering now. As between the two ideas, the insurgent Rpublican group chose to follow Senator Simmons.

Agree on Reduction

All parties were agreed on the plan to give the taxpayers a flat 25 per cent reduction on taxes payable this year on 1923 incomes. It has been retained in the bill approved by the conference committee which will become law. This provides that a taxpayer on June 15 next will not pay the same quarterly installment which he paid on March 15. Instead he will be obliged to pay much less.

For instance, if his total tax bill for 1923 was $1,000 and therefore he paid a fourth on March 15 he will subtract the one-fourth reduction granted by the new law which makes a final tax of $750 and he wil credit himself with the $250 already paid in March so that the balance due the government will be $500, which can be paid in installments of $166.66 each on June 15, September 15 and December 15.

Here is a table which shows what taxes will be payable during 1925 on incomes received during 1924:

Total Income	Present Law	Mellon Plan	Simmons Rates
$3,000	$20	$11.25	$7.50

URGE CHURCH TO FAVOR EUGENICS

Presbyterians to Be Asked To Back Sterilization Bill In Congress

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., May 24.—An overture asking that the Presbyterian conference in session here go on record as favoring passage by Congress of a bill authorizing sterilization and national eugenics now pending in the lower house, will be submitted, probably Monday, it became known today.

The overture will be offered by Judge Royal R. Graham of Georgetown, Colo., assistant jurist of the juvenile court of that city.

To Improve Race

The bill provides for the sterilization of all convicted of criminal assault and provides for medical examination of all men and women before they are married.

"We spend millions annually to insure better propagation of horses, cattle, dogs, flowers, etc., and I believe the time has arrived when the Christian people of this country should take steps to make impossible marriages from which issue children who never can be fit for service of any kind," said Judge Graham.

CHILDREN STAGE CLEVER PROGRAM

Dances and Play Praised by Audience; Vaudeville Numbers Please

Amid a brilliant whirl of color and song, the recital given by the pupils of the Woods' School of Klever Kiddies, in the Tuesday Afternoon club theatre last night, presented an attraction de luxe, and elicited almost a continuous burst of applause as each little pupil came into the limelight in his or her turn. Success seems linked with child prodigies of Glendale and vicinity.

Preceding the presentation of the play, "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs,' a vaudeville program was given by juveniue artists.

Elaborate costumes, specially designed sets, and beautiful lighting effects, combined with careful training and talent exhibited by those taking part, presented a program far above the average.

GRADUATES MEET IN CELEBRATION

Homecoming Day Observed At High School by Former Students

simply to mix with the crowd and single out acquaintances of former days to discuss the years spent under the roof of a different and much smaller Glendale High school.

The Girls' Glee club provided the first number of the afternoon program and responded to several encores. Velma Bolen delighted with a humorous reading which was followed by selections by a high school orchestra. The Hunt sisters closed the program with a dancing number in costume, which was enthusiastically received. The remainder of the afternoon was spent in dancing and visiting.

Business Meeting

After supper another crowd assembled for the business meeting and program in the auditorium. Donald Parker, president of the alumni association for the past year, presided. The meeting was opened with a roll call of classes starting with the year 1904. No one responded until 1906 was reached, and the two people standing as representatives of that class received a big hand.

Two people stood for the year 1909, three for 1910, and the numbers gradually increased with the years, until a group of nearly fifty responded for 1922 and 1923. The election of officers for the coming year followed the roll call, the following being elected: President, Ray Morrow; vice-president, Allan Pollock; recording secretary, Mrs. Helen Mosier McBride; corresponding secreeary, Jane Snyder; treasurer, Walter Beach.

After considerable discussion of the scholarship fund, founded by the alumni several years ago, the meeting was turned over to Archie Neal, who led the grads in the high school yells and songs. At first a little weak, they gradually increased in volume as the old-timers recalled the days when they were cheering their teams with the same old yells.

An elaborate program arranged by the alumni in the faculty was put on following the business meeting. The opening number consisted of selections by Dean, Hugh and Albert Bryant and Russ Tummell, all former students of Glendale High. Albert Bryant then rendered a vocal solo, and received several encores.

H. L. Brewster, dramatic coach, gave one of his humorous readings which caused uproarious mirth in the audience. A stunt by "Toto," a jumping flea of Venice, was followed by two piano solos by Marguerite Hauber Dutch Reed and Brick Beach then mystified the audience with a mind reading stunt and some card tricks. Mrs. Julia Robinson gave two vocal solos that were heartily applauded.

Thanks Graduates

George U. Moyse, principal, closed the program with a welcome to the alumni and an appreciation for the interests shown in the day. He said that the success of the day's program would assure the continuation of the plan in following years. Mr. Moyse also emphasized the necessity of a strong alumni backing in the high school work.

Following the program, the alumni again gathered in Room 215 for a social hour and informal dancing. Music was provided by a high school jazz orchestra, and the senior girls acted as a reception committee. Refreshments of punch and wafers were served throughout the evening.

GLENDALE PLANE TO BE LAUNCHED

Dr. T. C. Young's 'Argonaut,' Made by Kinner Firm, To Rise Tomorrow

Mrs. Worley will take the 60-mile aerial journey.

The name is based on the ships used by the Greeks in their attempts to conquer the world, and mention of the name is found in many places in books on Greek mythology.

Plenty of Power

The engine used to carry the "Argonaut" to dizzy heights and over long spaces is a 200-horsepower French Renault motor. The large supply tanks of the ship will permit a trip of 600 miles without having to land for refueling or additional supplies. The plane is capable of making a speed of 90 miles an hour, and can climb to a ceiling of 20,000 feet.

The passenger compartments are enclosed, so that persons taking a flight will be just the same as seated in a limousine. The dual control system is used, making it possible to operate and handle the craft from two cockpits.

Movie camera men will be on hand to record the maiden voyage of the big ship, and when it lands, Mayor Spencer Robinson will officially welcome it to Glendale. Dr. Young will use the plane exclusively for pleasure purposes, he said.

Realtors to Hold Baseball Contest at Pasadena Meet

The state-wide baseball contest among the real estate boards for the Fred T. Wood trophy is gathering momentum and, according to the Oakland Real Estate board, sponsor of the contest, many of the cities eligible to enter a baseball team have already made application.

The rules of the contest provide that any city of California having a real estate board can enter a team, consisting entirely of realtors. The plan as outlined calls for an elimination contest of the cities of Northern California and a similar test of strength of the cities of Southern California. The teams which win in these tryouts will meet at the annual California real estate convention, which will be held October 8-11 at Pasadena, and the winner will be proclaimed the champion of the state real estate boards and will be awarded the handsome bronze cup which has been donated by Fred T. Wood, a prominent Oakland realtor. The cup was presented to the California Real Estate association in Oakland on February 6 and was accepted by President Henry P. Barbour.

Wood is a baseball fan and will manage the team which Oakland will put into the field. He announces that the cities of the northern part of the state have already begun organizing their teams. Similar news has been received from the southern portion.

SAYS LIQUOR IN PRINTING OFFICE

George H. Carter Claims He Broke Up Ring Inside Government Plant

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 24.—Bootleggers and race track touts were pictured as having been allowed to wander at will through the government printing office in Washington, and many women employes were "kept penniless by wholesale gambling," according to sensational charges which today rocked the convention of employing printers of New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

The allegations were made by George H. Carter, public printer of the United States, who declared that he personally broke up the ring.

Results of the races were received directly in the printing office over a telegraph wire operated by the government, Carter said, adding that high officials of the department not only were cognizant of the situation, but participated in the gambling.

"One poor woman confessed to me that she had mortgaged her home and lost all in a mad desire to win a fortune," he said. "Evidence was found," Carter continued, "that liquor had been distilled in the office of one foreman, either under his supervision or at least with his knowledge."

offer. You said possibly. You said 'If I could kiss one of these pretty girls, maybe I could be bribed.' Well, you did kiss one and you are against the Ford offer. It was a betrayal, senator."

The crimson that began to spread over Norris' face indicated the verbal tempest that was coming.

"Are you nearly finished?" he asked with brittle patience. "You've exceeded your time now."

"Just a minute, senator," Mrs. Edmundson began, but he interrupted. "Mrs. Edmundson, you've exceeded all the proprieties and told a falsehood as well."

Mrs. Edmundson had been introduced to the committee by a supporter of the Ford offer, Senator Heflin, Democrat of Alabama, whose constituent she is.

Norris shoved his chair back and got up.

"Did Senator Heflin know in advance that you were going to come here and tell this story?" he shouted. "Was this fixed up in advance to browbeat me? Was it a put up job?"

"Why, senator," said Mrs. Edmundson, "I intended it only as pleasantry. There was nothing put up. I didn't think it would hurt you so."

SCIENTIST SAYS THEORIES ABOUT ASTRONOMY BOSH

British Research Specialist Says Earth Is Flat and Doesn't Rotate

By CHARLES A. SMITH,
For International News Service.

LONDON, May 24.—Most of the theories and discoveries of astronomers and scientists garnered throughout the ages about the sun, earth, moon and stars are all "bosh," according to William Edgell, English scientific research specialist.

After fifty years' observation he states that he is convinced among other things, that the earth is plate-shaped, flat, stationary and does not rotate, and that it is only 10,000 miles away from the sun, instead of the present estimate of 93,000,000 miles. Another of his theories is that while the Pole Star is admittedly a fixed object, it is only 10,000 miles away from the earth, and not 365,000,000 miles.

Asks Support

Edgell is attempting to obtain Government support in presenting his theories before the British Astronomer Royal, Sir Frank Ryson.

He maintains that it is a sure sign that astronomers are becoming doubtful of the theories held to be true for centuries by their agreeing to hold an international conference under the Royal Geographical Society's auspices shortly to decide to what extent the earth's surface is really round, or vice versa.

"Galileo's rotation theory, introduced in 1639, and on which all modern ideas of the earth are based, is quite wrong, and Sir Isaac Newton's law of gravitation is certainly a myth," declares Edgell in an interview.

"It would be impossible," he said, "to view the stars and the sun and the moon if the earth were rotating on its axis at eighteen miles per second and around its orbit 150 miles per second."

Just as simply as Newton discovered the force of gravity by the apple falling on his head, so Edgell as simply disposes of the theory.

Air Buoyancy

"There being no air pressure," he said, "it is merely a matter of air buoyancy. Things heavier than the air naturally fall to the earth and vice versa.

"My first doubts as to the accuracy of the long-accustomed scientific theories were raised as a schoolboy, for, having been taught these theories, I could not understand why my kite would fly if the earth rotated at such a terrific speed. The answer given me was that the atmosphere traveled, but this, of course, is ridiculous."

Edgell expects to fully convince many famous scientists of the feasibility of his theories once he has obtained the support of the Government.

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE CHOCOLATE BUNNY

Once upon a time a little boy was given, for Easter, a large, brown chocolate bunny. It was very large—almost as large as a real rabbit, like Uncle Wiggily, and the little boy was quite proud of his chocolate bunny.

"I'm going to put him on the window sill, where he can look out," said the little boy to his mother, as he hugged his chocolate rabbit. "Maybe he'll see a real bunny some time—maybe my chocolate bunny will."

"Maybe," said mother with a smile.

"Aren't you going to eat your chocolate bunny?" asked the little boy's sister. "Chocolate rabbits are good to eat, you know," and she looked hungrily at the brown candy rabbit.

"Eat my chocolate bunny? No, never!" cried the little boy. "I am just going to let him sit on the window sill, where he can look for a real rabbit."

Now the little boy's little sister was very fond of candy. She did not intend to do wrong, but when, day after day, she saw that chocolate Easter bunny sitting on the window sill, staring out, that little sister girl just couldn't help it.

"I—I feel like I must take a bite of him!" she whispered.

The chocolate bunny heard and shivered.

"Oh I don't want to be eaten!" he thought.

But being unable to talk girl language, he couldn't tell little sister not to eat him. Nearer and nearer she tiptoed toward the chocolate rabbit, looking at him hungrily.

"Oh, I could just eat you all up!" she sighed.

Again the chocolate rabbit shivered.

Now the little girl's mother had told her she must not touch brother's chocolate bunny, but the little girl forgot. Not only did she touch the candy rabbit, but she lifted him up and she touched her red tongue to the tip of her chocolate nose.

"Oh, she's kissing me!" thought the chocolate rabbit. Well, that is better than being eaten!"

"I'd like to eat you, but I don't dare," whispered the little girl. "But I can taste of you with my tongue." And this she did. She kissed off a little bit of sweet chocolate. "Oh, that's good!" sighed the little girl. Then she heard her brother coming, and away she ran.

Each day after that, when she got the chance, the little girl went on tiptoe to the chocolate bunny and kissed a little bit off his nose. Until, at last, the little boy began to see that the nose of his candy rabbit was growing smaller.

"I wonder what makes it?" he said, but he couldn't guess.

Smaller and smaller grew the nose of the chocolate rabbit, as the little girl kissed it each day, taking off teeny-weeny bits of candy, until the Easter toy could stand it no more.

"Oh, dear! Oh, dear. Oh, dear! What shall I do?' exclaimed the chocolate bunny one night. As it happened Uncle Wiggily was hopping past, just then, and he heard what the chocolate rabbit said, for the window was open.

"What's the matter?" asked Uncle Wiggily. "Are you in trouble?"

"Trouble? I should say so!" cried the chocolate bunny, and he told about the little girl kissing away his candy nose.

"This must never be!" said Uncle Wiggily. "Come with me to my bungalow! You can't hop, I know, but I'll get my automobile and give you a ride."

So in his auto Uncle Wiggily took the chocolate bunny to the hollow stump. Nurse Jane made the new candy rabbit welcome. Uncle Wiggily helped the chocolate bunny out of the auto, and he was given a bed on the couch in the dining room.

That night, when Uncle Wiggily and Nurse Jane were asleep, the Fuzzy Fox broke into the bungalow. He saw the chocolate rabbit asleep on the couch and the Fox said:

"Ah, there is Uncle Wiggily sleeping in brown pajamas! I'll carry him up off to my den!" The Fox caught up the chocolate bunny and ran away with him, but had not gone far before he met the Wolf. "I've got Uncle Wiggily!" cried the Fox.

"Nonsense!" laughed the Wolf. "That's only a chocolate Easter bunny! He's no good!" Then the Fox saw that he had been fooled and he dropped the chocolate rabbit down near a mud puddle. And some brown mud splashed up on the candy bunny's nose, making it the same size as it was at first. Then, leaving the chocolate bunny there on the ground, the Fox and Wolf ran away.

In the morning the little boy looked out of his house and saw his chocolate rabbit, for the Fox had dropped him just there.

"Oh, my chocolate bunny fell out of the window!" cried the little boy and he picked up the candy toy and put him back on the sill. "And his nose is bigger, like it used to be," laughed the boy. For the mud had hardened on the chocolate.

Now, when the little girl went, later that day, to kiss the bunny on his brown nose, she got brown mud on her tongue.

"Ugh!" she cried. "This rabbit is only part chocolate! I'm not going to kiss him any more!" And she never did, for which the Easter bunny was very glad, for then he knew he would always stay as he was. And he did, and when Uncle Wiggily hopped past the next night, wondering what had become of the chocolate bunny, the candy rabbit sitting on the window sill, told what had happened.

"I guess you'll be all right now," said Uncle Wiggily, and the chocolate rabbit lived for many years with the little boy. And if the hammer doesn't accidentally hit the nail on the head and make it jump over the back fence, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily feeding the robbins.

The annual picnic of the Glendale Federation of Parent-Teacher associations is to be held Friday at La Ramada.

Much enthusiasm is being manifested by the Elks and their host of friends in anticipation of their gambol to be held at Venice next week.

The past masters of Unity lodge will put on "The Third Degree" Tuesday night at the Masonic temple. It is said that the past masters are a handsome bunch and to see them all at one look is worth any man's time, but to hear them "orate" will be worth the price of a house and lot. They all learned their lines from Dan Campbell, except George Moyse, who got his directly from Kng Solomon. The only difference you will note in the work is that Dan's pupils speak with an Irish brogue, while George has an "Israelitish" accent.

Shoemaker Nominated As Navy Bureau Head

WASHINGTON, May 24.—President Coolidge yesterday afternoon sent to the Senate for confirmation the nomination of Rear Admiral William R. Shoemaker to be chief of the bureau of navigation in the navy.

Corruption In Capital?

J. WESTON ALLEN (left) and ALBERT HURWITZ, turn their talents to probing the alleged graft in the federal service. They are the men who put Ponzi behind the bars.

The men who jailed Ponzi, convicted Tom Lawson and wiped out blackmail rings in Massachusetts, are now at work in Washington "fixing responsibility for corruption within the federal service in an impartial manner." That is the avowed purpose of the Citizens' Federal Research Bureau, established in Washington by Frank A. Vanderlip, retired Wall street banker, the direction of which he has turned over to J. Weston Allen, former attorney general of Massachusetts, and his assistant, Albert Hurwitz.

DIPLOMATIC SERVICE OF U. S. NEEDS SHAKE-UP, DECLARES HUGH GIBSON

The American foreign service is "rickety." It is today "limping along" with a totally inadequate equipment. The inducements offered are not such as to attract qualified men of moderate means. There are now in the service a "noisy minority" of trouble-makers—that is, "boys with white spats, tea drinkers and cookie pushers," who are a reproach to the American foreign service, and because it is almost impossible to get rid of these undesirables it is a very difficult matter to maintain the discipline necessary to make the service the all around efficient machine it should be, if it is properly and efficiently to represent the United States in the capitals of the world.

These were some of the observations made before the Committee on Foreign Affairs of the House of Representatives by Hugh Gibson, the American minister to Switzerland.

What follows is taken from the official stenographic report of Mr. Gibson's testimony.

"Nobody," said Mr. Gibson, "can be more anxious than we are for a complete shake-up in the diplomatic service. Our reasons are not far to seek. There are a lot of us who have been in the service for a long time—fifteen to twenty-five years—and each year we realize more and more just how costly it is to our country, to our interests, and to our citizens not to have the very best diplomatic service that can be created.

"We have a lot of good material, but our whole structure is rickety, and it will never be up to the standard we want until it is completely rebuilt. This is a pretty good reason for wanting reorganization and for favoring legislation that is calculated to get it. . . . We have been told that we must offer rewards to men who are doing good work for the government, that they must be protected against destitution in their old age, and that they must have what is termed 'recognition' in various forms. We must, it is true, offer inducements of various sorts if we are to attract men of high calibre to the foreign service; but I do not believe that these measures should be considered on any grounds of recognition or reward. Our only problem is to secure for the government the best foreign service.

"In order to do this, we must strive to secure the widest possible choice of ability and brains, in order that we may build up a foreign service which can protect our country, our citizens and our interests better than can be done by our present defective equipment. Once these men have been secured, we must retain them in the public service. All this can be accomplished only if we create a real diplomatic career which is open to any American citizen who has the necessary qualifications—a career which is just as effectively closed to any American lacking the qualifications who tries to push his way in merely because he has a fat purse."

General News and Gossip from Staff Writers at Home and Abroad

CHICAGO, May 24.—The latest improved models to permanent waving machines look more than ever like something out of a Spanish torture chamber.

Face clay still has to be applied to potato-planting depth to get the best results.

The handy rolling pin is the most convenient flesh reducer. There should be one in every boudoir.

But these are matters of secondary importance nowadays—with the bob in the spotlight. Hairdressers are now sitting up nights trying to be "up" on the latest of bobs. There are shingle bobs and pineapple bobs, and there is always a new one coming in.

The burning question is whether the shingle shall be the retrousse ritz or the lowly banana.

All day marcellers, water wavers and shampooers moil up and down among their beauty clays, rouge jars, creme de la cremes, trying to decide what to do with their customers next year.

Men, beauty experts say, are unbelievably ignorant on the subject of bobs. Bob, say they, to a man, means nothing more than a woman getting her hair cut short.

That isn't the way it is at all. One has to be an expert before bobbing. First, a woman consults her hairdresser. The expert studies her, watches her walk, observes her carriage, her complexion and entity, and then decides. It may be any of ten or fifteen different kinds of bobs that will suit the type of beauty at hand best. And that is just the start. When the newly victimized lady arises in the morning, instead of shaking her head, she has to start all over again.

She has it curled, waved, marcelled, gridironed, corrugated or manipulated.

Two days later it has to be done all over again. The process is repeated until long hair comes again.

Charles Nestle, who invented the permanent-wave machine in 1905, is strong for the bob.

"Bobbed hair has to have a permanent wave; long hair may be worn straight," he explained.

It has been nineteen long years since the invention was perfected, and the process has been speeded up somewhat. Now one steps into that Spanish torture chamber and comes out in an hour, with her hair all waved like an ocean. But this will not, Nestle emphatically states, reduce the price of a permanent wave.

Permanent complexions are also being invented. There is the permanent lip-stick, for instance. It is kissproof. It is guaranteed not to leave the imprint of a Cupid's bow on the kissed one's cheek.

With mothers and grandmothers today becoming young and chic like their daughters, the beauty experts are expecting a rushing season.

His wife (Alice Terry) is to join him in New York after a visit with her mother in Hollywood, and go to Africa with him. Alice Terry and Ramon Navarro, the principals of "Scaramouche," are the only two Americans appearing in "The Arab."

Diet and Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M.D.
Author of Diet and Health, with Key to the Caolries

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

A. L.—You say your heart beats evenly and not too fast, but harder than it should. The doctor said you have a slight heart murmur. Slight heart murmurs are not uncommon in hearts, and your heart seems to beat harder undoubtedly because you are too thin and you can notice it more. If you keep yourself in the best of physical condition — don't smoke, don't be a scofflaw, and accustom yourself gradually to some moderate exercise, and if you have a thorough physical examination once in a while to be sure you are getting along all right, you don't have to worry about yourself.

Mrs. M.—It may be possible that your goitre is the cause of your trouble. We have an article on goitre which you may have by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

Mrs. B.—Hot flashes seem to be a rather common occurrence during the menopause. It has been found that overweight women suffer more from them than those of normal weight. Are you overweight? If so, reduce. Get plenty of outdoor exercise. Sometimes the physicians prescribe tablets made from certain parts of animal ovaries, and they seem to be helpful in many cases. See your physician about these.

"Dear Doctor Lulu—I have reduced from 154 to 136 and am still going. I think your method is simply marvelous. All my friends tell me how well I look and ask how I did it. After I have lost for a month or so, I usually rest for a few weeks. Then I start the liquid diet and begin to lose again. I can really feel the pounds melt away.

"The only thing that seems to bother me is that after I eat more heartily I am troubled with gas so much. Let me thank you again for your wonderful pamphlet. It is really worth $40 instead of 4 cents. I will never be fat again. —Mrs. F."

You probably overeat and eat too hurriedly. Your stomach is shrunk and unable to care for so much food as it did formerly. That is one of the glorious results of the reducing diet.

That 4 cents we ask for the pamphlet only partially covers the cost of printing and handling. I don't get it—wish I did! I'd be a Ford by now.

Mrs. G.—You sent for the pamphlet on gaining, and you ask me what can be done for the tiny broken veins under the skin of your limbs. I wonder if in your under-nourishment, you have not been suffering from a mild degree of scurvy. Although tiny, apparently broken veins (but in reality simply dilated veins) are more or less normal on the legs after middle age, nothing can be done for them except surgical removal. As they do not bother you, I would not have that done.

Smallpox

In the February 16 weekly bulletin for the California State Board of Health, it is stated that in the month previous there were 1431 cases of smallpox reported in California! Anti-vaccinationists are numerous in California. Too bad those who are instrumental in making other people believe that vaccination is harmful and needless, are not the only ones to get smallpox.

Miss S.—If you have swellings under the eyes, you had better have a thorough physical examination and urinalysis made. Swelling and puffing under the eyes is one of the symptoms of kidney trouble. The eyes may look swollen and puffy, however, from lack of sleep, or defective eyesight, reading too long in a strong light, etc.

Monday—Isolation Before Diagnosis.

My Dear Followers:—When sending for material which we offer you please remember to enclose a stamped envelope bearing your full name and address. The pamphlet on reducing and gaining is the only one for which you must enclose four cents in stamps extra. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, not over 200 words, and type or write them legibly with ink. Please sign your name as evidence of good faith—we will not use it in any way. Remember it is impossible for me to diagnose for you or to answer you personally. I appreciate very much the beautiful letters you send me and regret it is impossible to give you individual advice. The questions you ask will be answered in the column as soon as possible, if they are of general interest. Don't forget the s. a.s. e. if you expect me to send you the information I have offered.

Leaves Farm For Opera

MARGARET HENDRIX, Illinois musical genius, graduates from a farm home to singing the leading roles in Italian grand opera. She is visiting her native land at present.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., May 23.—From a farm home in DeWitt county, Illinois, to grand opera in Italy, is the span accomplished by Margaret Hendrix.

Precocious as a pianist, she could play brilliantly before her feet could touch the pedals of a piano. Gifted as a vocalist also, she aspired to be an operatic star and after five years abroad is now entrusted with leading roles, and her fame seems assured.

She was fortunate in attracting the attention of Caruso, and his advice and aid helped her to perfect her voice and also to obtain advancement from the grand opera promoters of Europe. She has adopted the stage name of Rita Theodore.

She has just arrived home after five years abroad, and returns to Milan in October to open a two years' engagement which will carry her through all of the countries of Europe.

THE AFTER HOUSE

his. And at such times an attendant watches outside his door.

Once more the swish of spray against the side of a ship, the tang of salt, the lift and fall of the rail against the sealine on the horizon. And once more a girl, in white from neck to heel, facing into the wind as if she loved it, her crisp skirts flying, her hair blown back from her forehead in damp curls.

And I am not washing down the deck. With all the poise of white flannels and a good cigar, I am lounging in a deck-chair, watching her. Then—

"Come here!" I say.

"I am busy."

"You are not busy. You are disgracefully idle."

"Why do you want me?"

She comes closer, and looks down at me. She likes me to sit, so she may look superior and scornful, this being impossible when one looks up. When she has approached—

"Just to show that I can order you about."

"I shall go back!"—with raised chin. How I remember that raised chin, and how (whisper it) I used to fear it!

"You cannot. I am holding the edge of your skirt."

"Ralph! And all the other passengers looking!"

"Then sit down—and, before you do, tuck that rug under my feet, will you?"

"Certainly not."

"Under my feet!"

She does it, under protest, whereon I release her skirts. She is sulky, quite distinctly sulky. I slide my hand under the rug into her lap. She ignores it.

"Now," I say calmly, "we are even. And you might as well hold my hand. Everyone thinks you are."

She brings her hands hastily from under her rug and puts them over her head. "I don't know what has got into you," she says coldly. "And why are we even?"

"For the day you told me the deck wasn't clean."

"It wasn't clean."

"I think I am going to kiss you."

"Ralph!"

"It is coming on. About the time that the bishop gets here, I shall lean over and—"

She eyes me, and sees determination in my face. She changes color.

"You wouldn't!"

"Wouldn't I!"

She rises hastily, and stands looking down at me. I am quite sure at that moment that she detests me, and I rather like it. There are always times when we detest the people we love.

"If you are going to be arbitrary just because you can—"

"Yes?"

"Marsh and the rest are in the smoking-room. Their sitting-room is empty."

Quite calmly, as if we were going below for a clean handkerchief or a veil or a cigarette, we stroll down the great staircase of the liner to the Turners' sitting-room, and close the door.

And—I kiss her.

THE END.

Beauty Chats

By EDNA KENT FORBES

EFFECTS OF CERTAIN TREATMENTS

Not many of my readers know that one of the best ways to have a clear, fresh face is to take a daily bath. Why, asks one girl, should washing the body make the skin of the face clear? Won't washing the face do that?

It will help. But my young correspondent must remember that the whole body, every day, throws off a surprising amount of waste matter, and that the skin all over, from head to feet, is constantly changing and making itself new again. If the pores are not kept clear by a daily warm, cleansing bath, this waste matter is not so readily thrown off. The pores, some of them anyway, clog up and grow large, blackheads appear, often on the back, most often on the face. I put one rather careless, young girl through a course of daily hot baths, and made her use complexion soap and a stiff flesh brush all over. With no other "beauty" treatment than that, her sallow skin began to clear and bloom. She simply hadn't been giving her complexion a chance.

If you do not readily believe that daily bathing of the body clears the face of blackheads, you'll less readily believe that too starchy a diet often causes dandruff and poor hair. But remember that everything acts upon the health of the scalp; a bad diet, bad digestion—result, bad hair. If you want rich color, eat vegetables with iron in them, eat carrots and greens of all sorts, spinach and kale, cauliflower, cabbage, Brussels sprouts. Your complexion will improve, too, by the way. And if you are careless about wet feet and such things and develop rheumatism, your hair will grow gray earlier than you expect. Grayness from rheumatism is an evenly distributed grayness, but none the less unwelcome.

Mary A. W.—The only way to prevent blackheads is to remove all soil from the skin at least every day, and be particular about all avenues of elimination. The pores will become enlarged if the skin is overworked to keep the system cleared, and black heads follow such a condition.

Roselle—Witch hazel is mildly astringent and it will be all right for you to use it as base for powder when you find the skin is in need of an astringent. When there is difficulty in getting a powder to stay on it is just as well to omit it, and rub the skin all over with a piece of chamois to remove any shine.

L. C. M. C.—For the wart on your hand, rub oil or salt into it. If it does not soften and drop off after a week or so of these daily applications, tie a white silk thread around the base of it and leave it to dry up without any further attention. If you reduce all over you will not have a double chin.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes, in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So, if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question.—The Editor.

Heart and Home

By MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

HE WINS THE WOMEN

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young man in the early twenties. There is some attraction about me that wins girls almost at once. I have never been able to find what it is about myself. I am not considered good-looking, not clumsy, a moderate build, I walk erect, dress as neatly as I know how and I look every one straight in the eyes.

I do not keep steady company and I have had the pleasure of knowing some real nice girls. Some girls take my attentions seriously to begin with. When this happens I proceed to drop the girl without any hard feelings.

I have never been in what I call real love. Several times I have thought I was, but analyzing it more thoroughly I have found I did not have the real feeling. Girls that were at one time interested in me seem to be contented with my companionship, although they are real friendly. I have never had one that was really angry at me.

There is one of them that I would like to go with again, but I do not receive much encouragement from her. Do you think that I have been taking the wrong side of real friendship and am too independent?

Can you tell me what the girls see in men when I attract them? I try never to appear as a "He-Vamp" or to be flirtatious.

TOO MANY GIRLS.

Your description of yourself is pleasing and your letter interesting. Doubtless you have the greatly-to-be-desired quality charm. If more people walked erect, looked others squarely in the eyes and attempted to be neat, we would have fewer men and women wondering why they fail to be popular. You cannot expect the girl whose friendship you again desire to show an interest in you after you ceased to show an interest in her. I think, however, if you seek her friendship again, she will forget the past and accept you as formerly. I think you have been quite right in not forcing love when your feeling is really one of friendship. The time may come when some girl appeals to you in a different way and you will feel that you cannot do without her. If such an experience does not come into your life you are to be pitied.

HE DISLIKES USE OF ROUGE

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young man 20 years of age and have been keeping company with a girl about the same age for about eight months. She is very popular and uses powder and rouge. I have tried to prevent her from using so much, but she refuses to do as I say although she acts as if she loves me. What would you advise me to do?

DISTRESSED TOM.

Perhaps the girl tries to be a little vampire and feels that powder and rouge and a pretense to love men are necessary attributes. If you disapprove of make-up and she does not respect your wishes in the matter, the only thing for you to do is to find a girl who does not paint and suits your taste better.

M. P. and B. K: Buy larkspur at the drug store and steep a strong tea of it. Then wash the hair thoroughly with the tea and let it dry on. An hour or two after the hair has been dried, rinse it in clear water and dry it again. Then comb it thoroughly. Speak to the mother of the children. It will do little good to remove the trouble from part of the family when doubtless the whole family suffers.

The following simple luncheon or supper menu will be found satisfying on warm days: Some kind of fried cutlet, a fruit salad, wholewheat bread, jelly or jam, and a beverage. Housekeepers of today do not make as much work of deep-fat frying as our grandmothers did; instead of filling a large pot half full of fat, we now use a small saucepan containing one or two inches of melted fat and lower the cutlets into this, one at a time, in a perforated kitchen spoon. Try the following recipes:

Celery-Veal Cutlets: Put left-over cooked potatoes through a food chopper and measure. To one cupful, add one-half cup of finely-minced, raw celery and one cup of ground, cooked veal. Mix well together, wetting with one tablespoon of sweet milk and adding one beaten egg. Form into small triangles with the hands, dip each in raw egg, then in fine bread crumbs, and fry in deep fat which is hot enough to brown a cube of bread in a minute.

Onion-Liver-Pea Cutlets: Put cooked leftovers of liver through the food chopper and measure. To one cupful add one-half cup of cooked peas, one beaten egg, one tablespoon of minced raw onion and one tablespoon of dry bread crumbs. Mix well, shape in cutlet form, and fry as above described.

Chicken-Bacon Cutlets: Grind leftovers of cooked chicken (or use the canned boned variety) and measure. To each cupful add six slices of bacon previously fried crisp and then chopped very fine. Also add a pinch of salt, one tablespoon of bread crumbs, and one beaten egg. Form into cutlets, and after rolling in raw egg and crumbs, fry in deep, hot fat.

Olive-Lima Bean Cutlets: Chop one dozen stuffed olives, then mix them with one cup of cooked and mashed lima beans. Season with a pinch each of salt and pepper and bind together with a beaten, raw egg. Roll in extra raw egg, then in crumbs before frying in deep, hot fat.

Potato-Egg Cutlets: Mash cooked white potatoes and measure. To each cupful add two hard-boiled eggs which you have chopped by hand in a wooden bowl. Season with salt and pepper to suit individual taste, add a minced sprig of parsley, and moisten with two tablespoons of sweet milk. Shape into triangular cutlet form and roll in raw egg, in crumbs, and fry as above directed.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Kirkman, in care of the "Efficient Housekeeping" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question. Be sure to use YOUR full name, street number, and the name of your city and state.—The Editor.

Veteran Astronomer Back at Loved Tasks

LOS ANGELES, May 23.—Dr. Edward Lucian Larkin, aged director of Mt. Lowe observatory, is today leaving the ward of the Pacific Electric hospital, where he has been for the past three months, to get back among his loved instruments and the atmosphere he has lived in for so many years. Dr. Larkin, one of the best known astronomers and scientists of today, has been seriously ill and at one time his life was despaired of. During his absence from the observatory his son, Dr. Ralph B. Larkin, himself a prominent astronomer, has been in charge.

Noted Scenic Artist Will Be Honor Guest

PASADENA, May 29.—Normah-Bel Geddes, noted scenic artist of the theatre, will be guest of honor at a garden tea at Carmelita on Wednesday afternoon, it was announced today by Gilmor Brown, chairman of the program committee for the Pasadena Center of Drama League, sponsoring the affair. This occasion will be one of the outstanding features of the national convention held in Pasadena by the Drama League of America from May 27 to June 2.

Senate Votes $7500 to Greene for Treatment

WASHINGTON, May 24.—Senator Frank L. Greene, Republican of Vermont, was awarded $7,500 by the Senate yesterday to defray doctor bills and hospital expenses incurred in the treatment of serious gunshot wounds he received when accidentally coming into the range of a running gunfight between bootleggers and revenue agents several months ago. The measure will go to the house for consideration.

Women of Today

By MRS. LILIAN CAMPBELL

Mrs. Anna Wolcott Vaile is an associate member of the Republican National Committee and a member of the sub-committee on arrangements for the Republican National Convention to be held in Cleveland. She has been prominent in politics for a number of years, is the widow of Joel S. Vaile and sister of the late Senator Wolcott of Colorado.

Mrs. Vaile lived the first 25 years of her life in Cleveland, O., so the chosen convention city of the G. O. P. will be familiar ground to her. Her father, Dr. Samuel Wolcott, was pastor of the Plymouth Congregational church of that city. She founded the Wolcott School for Girls in Denver and the Wolcott Conservatory of Music. Mrs. Vaile was also the first woman regent of the School of American Archaeology at Santa Fe, New Mexico. She was also the first member from Colorado of the General Federation of Women's Clubs and president of the Colorado Society of Colonial Dames which is affiliated with the National Association.

Will Hays' Committee of 170 had Mrs. Vaile as one of its members and in the fall of 1920 she was designated as presidential elector for Colorado.

In spite of this impressive list of achievements Mrs. Vaile is far from terrifying to meet. She impresses one as being a kindly, cultured and most able woman and the type that the women of the country may well be proud to have represent them.

The University of Chicago has made a departure in the line of scholarships. It is to be awarded to the young woman student in the home economics department who best keeps herself physically fit. Miss Elizabeth Villas is presenting the scholarship and she thinks that any woman who claims to be an expert in nutrition and food should herself be a model of healthfulness.

April 13th to 20th will be D. A. R. week in Washington, D. C. where the continental congress is to be held. Delegates and alternates from all over the country will be present and the week will be a whirl of business sessions and social pleasures. The national president, Mrs. Anthony Wayne Cook, has been in Washington a good deal lately preparing the way for the congress. One of the important matters to be brought before the delegates, this year, is the completion of the fund for the memorial to their first president general, Caroline Scott Harrison, wife of President Benjamin Harrison, who was mistress of the White House when elected to the presidency at the first congress of Daughters. They are celebrating a third of a century's existence this year, the society having had a membership of 25,000 during Mrs. Harrison's regime, as against 136,000 now.

What is the real secret of feminine charm? Mrs. Lydig Hoyt, society leader beauty, actress and writer says it is a "real interest in others." Beauty, brains and talent may win for a time," she says, "but a sincere and unaffected interest in others is the basis of charm."

Scientists to Probe Petrified Man's Age

LOS ANGELES, May 24.—Anthropologists and paleontologists were on record here today as concurring in the belief that the petrified human remains recently found during sewer excavation work in Los Angeles are between 10,000 and 25,000 years old.

Plans were being made to continue investigation in order to more definitely fix the age of the remains before the discovery is recorded in the archives of American anthropological science.

Dr. Chester Stock, head of the department of paleontology of the University of California, is here to carry on these investigations.

Portland Man Chosen Head of Electricians

Who's Who

MISS EDITH PICTON-TUBERVILL

Twenty years ago Edith Picton-Tubervill left an ancestral home in Glamorgan, Wales, and the luxuries it afforded to labor among the poor of London slums.

REV. TUBERVILL

She now ranks as one of England's foremost women, famous as a speaker on religious, social and political questions as well as for her settlement work. She is now in the U. S., principally to attend the women's peace conference in Washington and meetings of the Y. W. C. A., of which she is a director.

She is the daughter of Col. Picton-Tubervill. The home at Glamorgan was given by the crown to Sir Paine Tubervill in 1901. While laboring with the poor families in the London congested districts Miss Tubervill attended a theological school. A few years later she went to Bombay and her work among the Indian women there attracted world wide attention.

Six years later she returned to England to devote most of her time to the religious and speaking platform. She is now the first woman in England to preach under the sanction of the Episcopal church.

Hint President Will Sign New Tax Bill

WASHINGTON, May 24.—President Coolidge will sign the next tax reduction bill if it shows any improvement over the present revenue law, it has been officially announced at the White House. If he decides that it shows no improvement his signature will be withheld and the bill vetoed. As yet no decision has been reached.

ON THE DISADVANTAGES OF INTELLECTUAL SUPERIORITY

TO WILLIAM HAZLITT, the Englishman who realized his powers in the familiar writing that was almost talking, the chief disadvantage of knowing more and seeing farther than others, is not to be generally understood.

"Ignorance of another's meaning is a sufficient cause of fear, and fear produces hatred; hence the suspicion and rancour entertained against all those who set up for greater refinement and wisdom than their neighbors.

"It is vain to think of softening down this spirit of hostility by simplicity of manners, or by condescending to persons of low estate. The more you condescend, the more they will presume upon it; they will fear you less and hate you more; and will be more determined to take their revenge upon you for a superiority as to which they are entirely in the dark, and of which you yourself seem to entertain considerable doubts. All the humility in the world will only pass for weakness and folly. They have no notion of such a thing. They always put their best foot forward; and argue that you would do the same if you had any such wonderful talents as people say.

Hazlitt concluded there is no greater error than to suppose you can avoid the envy, malice, and uncharitableness, so common in the world, by going among people without pretensions.

"There are no people who have no pretensions; or the fewer their pretensions, the less they can afford to acknowledge yours without some sort of value received.

"The more information individuals possess, or the more they have refused upon any subject, the more readily they can conceive and admit the same kind of superiority to themselves that they feel over others. From the low, dull, level sink of ignorance and vulgarity, no idea or love of excellence can arise. You think you are doing mighty well with them; that you are laying aside the buckram of pedantry and pretence, and getting the character of a plain, unassuming, good sort of fellow. It will not do.

"All the while that you are making these familiar advances, and wanting to be at your ease, they are trying to recover the wind of you. You may forget that they are nothing, nor bate that you are an author, an artist, or what not, but they do not forget that they are nothing, nor bate one jot of their desire to prove you in the same predicament."

"Intellectual is not like bodily strength. YOU HAVE NO HOLD OF THE UNDERSTANDING OF OTHERS BUT BY THEIR SYMPATHY. Your knowing, in fact, so much more about a subject does not give you a superiority, that is, a power over them, but only renders it the more impossible for you to make the least impression upon them. Is it then any advantage to you?

"It may be, as it relates to your own private satisfaction, but it places a greater gulf between you and society. It throws stumblingblocks in your way at every turn. All that you take most pride in is lost upon the vulgar eye. What they are pleased with is a matter of indifference or of distaste to you.

"In seeing a number of persons turn over a portfolio of prints from different masters, what a trial it is to the patience, how it jars the nerves to hear them fall into raptures at some commonplace flimsy thing, and pass over some divine expression of countenance without notice, or with a remark that it is very singular-looking?"

All of which caused Hazlitt to decide that he would be glad almost to change his acquaintance with pictures, with books, and what he knew of mankind, for anybody's ignorance of them.

"HANG-OVER" COUGHS

Now is the time to get rid of that stubborn cough which has been "hanging on" all winter. A few doses of the good, reliable FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR COMPOUND will speedily relieve same. Mrs. Sarah Heck, 341 St. Paul St., Memphis, Tenn., writes: "I have been wonderfully benefited by FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR COMPOUND. The first dose stopped my cough. It was a stubborn cough and I had been troubled with it since the first cold spell." Best for coughs and colds.

INDIANS DRIVE CHRISTIAN OFF MOUND IN FIRST

Seattle Wins Fourth Game Of Series, 7-4; Bowman Gets Another Homer

By R. C. FRANKLIN
For Southland News Service.

LOS ANGELES, May 24.—Seattle duplicated their feat of Thursday afternoon, scoring five runs in the opening inning of yesterday's game at Washington park, and again the margin proved enough for them to take the fourth contest from the Vernon Tigers by a score of 7 to 4. The Indians ran wild, and so did Jimmy Christian, in the first canto, and they tallied their five rusn on two hits, three men being given free transportation in that frame. Christian faced but three batters before he was yanked, and after that Sellers and Lefty Thomas took up the mound duties with but a pair of markers being scored, but the damage had been done and the Tigers could not overcome the lead.

Elmer Bowman, Seattle first sacker, who got five hits in as many times up in Thursday's game, continued his hefty slugging by poling a homer over left field fence in the fifth, scoring Eldred, who had doubled ahead of him.

ANGELS 12, SACS 1

SACRAMENTO, May 24.—In the see-saw games which the Los Angeles and Sacramento teams have been playing here this week, to keep out of the cellar position, the visitors have the edge at the present writing as the result of a batfest yesterday, and Pick's warriors are one again in eighth place.

Wally Hood led his team mates to the attack yesterday, and they won, 12 to 1. Wally had made eleven hits in the last four games. "Bim" Meyers turned in a good game for Marty Krug, the Glendale wizard, while three local pitchers were ineffective.

NEW YORK, May 24.—With debate over the player-writer rule as applied by the United States Lawn Tennis Association still raging, it is interesting to speculate on what would happen in other lines of amateur sport if the ruling should be retained and should spread to other fields.

Suppose, for instance, the United States Golf Association adopted a likerule. How could Bernard Darwin, that delightful British golfing writer, play as he did last year, on the Walker team on American soil? And how could Max Marston, our present champion—who now is writing a series of articles for the newspapers—defend his title? What would happen to Jesse Sweetser, who has done some very creditable sports writing.

Suppose, again, the ruling should be applied to track activities. What would become of Loren Murchison, who now is writing a series of articles for metropolitan newspapers?

It is indeed to be hoped that the player-writing ruling is not contagious.

JOHN PAYNE DEAD

CINCINNATI, May 24.—John A. Payne, 64, pioneer turfman, widely known in racing circles, died yesterday at his home here. He was said to be the first man in the nation to use a typewriter in receiving telegraph dispatches. In recent years he had been an insurance agent.

SENORITA E. de ALVAREZ may prove a surprise on the tennis courts at the Olympic games. She is 18 years old, and is acclaimed the net marvel of her native land—Spain.

BASEBALL QUESTION BOX

If you have some question to ask about baseball—
If you want a rule interpreted—
If you want to know anything about a play or player—
Write John B. Foster, the man who helped make the rules under which the game is played today. If you want a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed, envelope. Otherwise your question will be answered in this column.

QUESTION—There is a runner on first. The pitcher throws the ball to the batter and he fouls it. The runner is returning to first base and the pitcher throws the ball to the baseman and the ball is put on the runner. The batter was standing in the box. Does the batter have to wait until the runner gets back before he stands in the box.

ANSWER—He is not compelled to do so, but it is good policy to remain outside. It must be borne in mind that the ball is not in play until it has been returned to the pitcher and the umpire has announced play. When that happens the runner must protect himself, although the umpire should not start play until he sees that the runner has returned.

QUESTION—If the batter hits the ball high in the air and reaches first base before the pitcher catches the ball, is the batter safe?

ANSWER—The batter is out if the ball is caught. It doesn't matter how far he has run.

QUESTION—Can a batter, after three strikes have been called on him, leave the base line, go to the bench and return to the base line where he left it and then go on to first base without being called out, providing the ball has not been held at first base?

ANSWER—The batter may do all that. There is no rule against it.

SILVER STEPS OUT

LOS ANGELES, May 24.—Jack Silver, San Francisco's star lightweight was a step nearer the Pacific coast title today, following his bout at Hollywood stadium last night with Dode Bercot, Seattle slugger. After four hectic rounds the judges called it a draw, but Silver had an edge in three cantos. Bercot was the aggressor, but every time he came in the San Franciscan poked him with vicious jolts.

ERRORS ARE COSTLY

RUTH DOING HIS STUFF DAILY NOW

Band Wagon Accompaniment Of Other Days Missing But Babe Is Not

By DAVIS J. WALSH
For International News Service.

NEW YORK, May 24.—Without the band wagon accompaniment of other seasons, our Mr. Ruth is slowly but inexitably compiling the ingredients of what may prove to be a new home run record for professional baseball. He smote his tenth of the season yesterday during the course of the Yankees' victory over the Tigers, making his average for twenty-seven games something like .370 per game. A slight acceleration of this pace would permit our hero to ease beyond his world's record of fifty-nine, culled during the free days of 1921.

Yet our Mr. Ruth's efforts no longer attract the attention that once was his, with or without the asking. Local papers no longer chronicle the ball by ball record of the great man; they no longer use their headlines for blaring announcements of his activities. They merely tell whether the Yankees won or lost and if our Mr. Ruth indulges himself to the extent of a home run, the fact is mentioned quite casually. They have begun to take him for granted, which is well.

Quickly but efficiently, our George has set out to do something bigger and finer, as they say in Hollywood. If he continues at his present pace he will have amassed a total of fifty-seven home runs at the conclusion of the current campaign. This is three more than he made in 1922 and a round dozen beyond his effort for last season.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

WASHINGTON, May 24.—A scratch single by Hooper in the fourth inning was all that prevented Walter Johnson from pitching a no hit game here yesterday, when Washington beat Chicago, 4 to 0. Johnson struck out fourteen of the visitors, twice fanning three men in one inning, and from the second to the fourth inning fanned six in succession. It was the one hundred and third shut out of Johnson's career.

NEW YORK, May 24.—The Yankees won a 7 to 6 victory over the Tigers yesterday in a game replete with thrills. Ty Cobb made four hits and picked a blow from Ruth's bat off of the center field bleachers after a long run. Ruth had previously made his tenth home run of the season with one on. Heilman, batting with the bases loaded in the sixth, was called out on strikes and threw his bat away, striking Hoffman. He was put out of the game. Pratt, hitting next, cleared the sacks with a double. Dugan hit a home run inside the field.

HERE'S HARD LUCK

SALT LAKE CITY, May 24.—Work started yesterday on a 20 foot screen above the right field and left field fences of the Salt Lake ball park. President Bill Lane said that this will eliminate the freak home runs at Bonneville park, in the opinion of engineers. Next season, Salt Lake will either have a new ball park or new stands at Bonneville.

SERIOUS MOMENTS

By AL DIX.
Of The Evening News Staff

Many people would like to be present at Philadelphia when John McGraw, known among a limited few as being connected with baseball, meets Mr. Baker, boss of the Phillies, in the Quaker town.

Baker started the row when he accused McGraw of tampering with his players and making them unsatisfied with their lot on the second division club. McGraw would not give out any statement for publication, but stated that he would have something to say when the Giants invaded the neighboring city.

McGraw has a forceful way about him, as evidenced by his scrap outside of the Lambs' club in New York a year ago. Mr. Baker had better wear an asbestos suit or he is liable to catch fire when McGraw tears loose.

Heretofore McGraw has always sowed the seeds of discontent by dangling a fat purchase price in front of the owners. Naturally none of the players were averse to playing in where worlds' series melons have been cut with such regularity.

Despite columns of publicity given to their threats, Billy Gibson and other eastern promoters seemed to have settled down and will accept as a fact that Carpentier and Gibbons are to meet at Michigan City, May 31, as scheduled.

Gibson based his objections on an alleged contract he had with the Frenchman calling for his first American appearance to be with Gene Tunney in New York on June 16.

It appears now that William was talking to hear his head rattle. He was to have the law on Floyd Fitzimmons, Carpentier and other attractions for the cash customers, but the fans are tired of waiting for him to take action.

The new governor of Indiana is called upon to decide the difference between a prize fight and a boxing exhibition. He will have a tough time of it. Many advertised prize fights turn out to be poor boxing exhibitions, and vice versa.

On the whole he ought to be safe in letting the May 31 fight go ahead. The chances are that it will be a boxing exhibition and not a prize fight. Indiana has stood for many affairs of this kind that savored more strongly of fights than this event does.

The old Chicago Cubs have had one inning at the top of the column, if they never get another. It is something unusual for the Giants to be trailing in third and second place.

The eastern teams have had most of their games away from home and the western teams have pastimed in their own pastures to a large extent, so the tale may be different when the Cubs have finished their swing around the Atlantic.

Hollocher's return has been worth much to the Cubs, who have been willing for a long time to meet him more than half way. The playing of Grantham and Friberg has shown a distinct improvement since the holdout saw the light, and everybody concedes that the Cubs are going to be hard to beat.

This afternoon at the Los Angeles Coliseum 235 of the best athletes in the southwest are competing for places on the team that will make the trip to Boston, where the finals will be held to decide who goes to Paris to represent the United States.

California has two men who will stand out at Boston, Charlie Paddock and Tiny Hartranft, weight man. It was not considered probable late this morning that Paddock would run in the 200 meter race, although he has entered in the 100 meter dash, the first event on the program.

The men in charge of the publicity of the big affair have kept carefully guarded Paddock's true condition since he strained his ankle at the Drake games in Des Moines, and what his time will be is merely a matter of conjecture. The 100 meter race will be run in two heats. Paddock runs in the first, and Keith Lloyd, recognized as his chief competitor for first place, will run in the second.

Latest reports from Portland are that Uncle Wilbert of Brooklyn wanted too much "to boot" in the proposed trade of Rube Yarrison, twirler, for outfielder Dick Cox, who has been slugging the old apple with great ease and abandon. It is said that all deals are off. Rube went up to Brooklyn from Portland, and would be right at home in the northern fogs.

PUNCH TOO MUCH

SAN FRANCISCO, May 24.—Archie Walker, exhibiting a punch with both hands, scored a decisive victory over Johnny Jordan of Portland here last night in the feature bout of the Observatory club's card. Jordan came back in lively fashion in the fourth, but a right from Walker ended the rally.

EXHIBITION MATCH

BERKELEY, Cal., May 24. — The Australian Davis cup team arriving in San Francisco on the liner Ventura today accepted an invitation to appear here in an exhibition match next Friday. They may also play at Sacramento during the Central California championship tournament.

SOX ANXIOUS TO MAINTAIN THEIR WINNING STREAK

Kerwin's Crew Eager to Add Gilmore Oilers' Scalps to Collection

The White Sox go after their fourteenth consecutive win tomorrow afternoon when they tackle the Gilmore Oil crowd at the San Fernando road park, and if the weather is fair Frank Kerwin expects to play host to even a larger crowd than was on hand last Sunday.

CECIL CRUZE

Of all the victories registered by the Sox in their long winning streak, last Sunday's was the most gratifying. El Segundo, twice semi-pro champions of southern California, came here to subdue Sawyer's pale hose. "Lefty" Bell pitched a wonderful game, but his own wildness beat him.

The Sox are playing an alert brand of ball now. When they are unable to hit to any advantage, as was the case against Bell, they are on their toes to take advantage of every break. This happened last week, and the Sox won, 3 to 2, although Bell held them to four hits. In other games where the going is easier they bat their way through to victory. The Sox now are a far different team from the one that played through the winter league.

Experience Counts

It's a fact that Cruze's hook was not working last Sunday. He found it out in the second inning, but, although he tried it several times later, he had to give it up and rely on his straight fast ones with good control. The experience that Cecil got while in Cub uniform and playing with Vernon stands him in good stead here, as he outsmarts the bushers hereabouts.

Cruze always keeps something in reserve for the pinches, and is tighter than glue when men are on bases. Every run scored off of him since he has pitched for the Sox has been a homer. Not one run has been worked over by the opposing forces. But when the strikers dig their toes and get hold his fast one, it is due for a ride.

Ennis will do the backstopping as usual tomorrow, with Shellenbach, Sawyer, Hirigoyen and Shields in the infield. Dorman, Young and Orslatt will get the outfield berths.

Gilmore Oil presents a strong lineup, composed mostly of ex-coast and major leaguers now in the employ of the company. Hanna, who received a tryout with the Seattle Indians and stood the Sox on their heads in an exhibition game played here, probably will work for the visitors.

For the first time in several weeks, there will be no doubleheader. The American Legion team will be playing Whittier at Santa Fe Springs, and the Caseys have no game scheduled, according to Rand Doll, manager. So the fans will have a chance to take on their Sunday chicken and not miss any part of the matinee.

England, Italy Reach Agreement on Dispute

LONDON, May 24. — Premier Ramsay MacDonald of England and Premier Mussolini of Italy have reached an agreement regarding the ceding of part of Jubaland to Italy by England, the foreign office has announced. Under the pact of London (1915) Italy was to get part of Jubaland. In 1920 a boundary agreement was reached, but subsequently Italy demanded more territory than had previously been agreed upon. Jubaland is in British East Africa, adjoining Italian Somiland.

Charge Teacher Beat Boy with Auto Tire

LOS ANGELES, May 24.—Charges that David Mazur, 12, was beaten so severely with a piece of automobile tire by E. T. Conly, acting grammar school principal here, that a physician had to attend the boy were made to City Prosecutor Friedlander. It was said the boy was whipped because he would not participate in athletic activities.

FOR GAME'S SAKE

By LAWRENCE PERRY,
Special Correspondent to The Evening News, Copyright 1924.

NEW YORK, May 24.—Eddie Conlin, the tennis umpire and leader of the Tilden-fair-play society, has addressed a letter to various offices of the United States Lawn Tennis Association in which the hint is dropped that a rival national tennis organization may be formed unless the United States Lawn Tennis Association crowd sees the light of reason, justice, fair play, equity, etc., etc. Eddie Conlin as the Lenin of this tennis situation, is almost as picturesque as when he sports his umpires' flannels and calls the bad ones.

In throwing a javelin a fraction over 205 feet at the second annual Southern intercollegiate relay meet in Atlanta, Lee Priester, the Mississippi A. and M. star distanced anything ever done in this country and came up to the best marks of the Finnish champions, Exquist and Scariste. Thus unexpectedly the United States gain speculative credit as to our chances in the Olympic games.

Berryman's ten seconds flat credited to him in the Southern meet, is, indeed, surprising, as those in the North who know of his work did not expect it of him. The attendance at this meet was 30 per cent larger than last year—an indication of the forward impulse of the track and field movement in Dixie.

As to the country generally, the startling performances reported from various important meets has acted as a tonic upon our athletes. We may not score a decisive victory in Paris, but certainly indications point that way more strongly than they did two months ago.

Harvard is getting generous with her "H's." Having awarded one to Bobby Jones, a law school student at Cambridge, because he won the national open, the athletic authorities have now pinned the Varsity insignia upon Clarence N. Demar, the leading American marathon runner.

Demar's only connecton with Harvard was through the University extension course. But now he can wear a crimson H upon his shirt whenever he wishes.

RINGSIDE GOSSIP

By FAIR PLAY
Special Correspondent to The Evening News, Copyright 1924.

NEW YORK, May 24.—Indications are that the gate for the Gibbons-Carpentier tea party will amount to over $200,000. At least this is the deduction of experts based upon sales which already have come close to a hundred grand.

What is there about this fight that does not ring quite right? It is by the writer, but one hears funny talk going the rounds. So far as the gossip can be traced it carries back to Descamps' willingness to stick his man in the ring against so classy a fighter as Tommy Gibbons, whereas he could have had an easier proposition with Tunney.

There never was a time when Descamps did not know what he was about and it is a sure bet he knows all about Gibbons. He has seen him fight at least once, saw him beat a really clever boxer, to wit, Charley Weinert, saw him knock the adonis out. Well, anyway, we shall know soon enough.

The Governor of Indiana seems perplexed as to how he shall regard the coming setto, whether as a fight or as a boxing exhibition. The way most meetings turn out there would be nothing to it but to call them boxing exhibitions—if that. Sometimes the boxers forget themselves and put up a fight. But this is rare, so rare that the governor of Indiana would be wise not to worry too much about it.

Ad Stone's showing against Tommy Loughran may have been due to a desire to work carefully with his hands which have just healed up from a series of injuries. Or may not have been up to his best that night. Any athlete is liable to pull a showing underneath his best.

But the fans never consider this. It is thumbs down on a man every time he falls below a certain mark of high expectation. All the customers can see that Johnny Wilson beat Loughran on a decision and that the best Stone could do against Loughran was to get a draw. Of course, it must not be forgotten that Loughran himself has climbed a couple of rungs on the pugilistic ladder.

No matter what Harry Wills does this summer, stick this in your hat, he will not meet Dempsey outdoors this year; at least not in the metropolitan district.

LOS ANGELES, May 24.—Controversy over the water situation in San Diego has been ended with the denial by the state supreme court of a writ of prohibition asked by the Cuyamaca Water company and Ed. DENIES DEMPSEY AFRAID OF WILLS

Champion Will Fight, Kearns Says, If Public Wants Battle Staged

LOS ANGELES, May 24.—Harry Wills will be duck soup for Jack Dempsey if he ever crawls into the ring with the heavyweight champion.

That was the comment made here today by Jack Kearns, Dempsey's manager, in discussing reports that Dempsey was about to take a walkout pill on the negro battler.

"Wills would be a lot softer for Dempsey than either Gibbons or Firpo," said the champion's manager, as he smoothes his 'Hollywood Blues" shirt with a be-diamonded hand.

"Wills is the guy who is stalling. It's just one stall after another with him, and I think the public is getting tired of hearing about a Wills-Dempsey bout.

Willing to Fight

"However, if the public wants that fight, we are ready to go through at any time. The failure of Wills to meet Hartley Madden has not helped him any with the public, and has gone a long way in decreasing chances for his boxing Dempsey.

'It will take a lot of 'smo

Three Writers Of National Prominence Added To The Staff Of The Glendale Evening News

The Glendale Evening News takes special pride in calling attention to the fact that it has added three writers of national prominence to its already strong sports department staff. They are WALTER CAMP, LAWRENCE PERRY and JOHN B. FOSTER. The Glendale Evening News is the ONLY COMPLETE NEWSPAPER published in Glendale, and, following its policy of giving the best, the latest and the most thorough service, this newspaper is presenting to its big family of contented readers these experts of national prominence. Their articles will, of course, appear EXCLUSIVELY in The Glendale Evening News.

There is no greater authority on professional baseball today than John B. Foster, who has just joined the staff of The Glendale Evening News, rounding out the "Big Four" of special writers engaged in producing the best all year 'round sporting service ever offered to newspaper readers.

John B. Foster knows baseball from every angle. He has studied and criticised the game as a newspaper writer of distinguished attainments. He has been a part of the very fabric of baseball as secretary of the Giants in New York, for seven years, and as a maker and interpreter of original rules he has helped to build up the game to its present eminence. It was he , in collaboration with John T. Brush, who drew up the rules of the famous world series which each year hold all of fandom at attention.

Mr. Foster not only knows the ins and outs of the game itself, but he knows the men who play and the men who direct and manage. He had his baseball beginnings as a very young man under Henry Chadwick, known to every fan as the "father of baseball," and under "Uncle Nick" Young, who for so long was president of the National League. Because of the part he had taken in rules changes and codification and in rising about scoring methods, President Young named Mr. Foster as an official scorer for life. He accepted the postiion as an honorary one, his many other duties preventing him from serving actively.

Another illustration of his close association with the game is the fact that for thirteen years he has been the editor of Spalding's Official Baseball Guide, having succeeded Henry Chadwick, and being one of the only three editors the Guide has ever had. He also has been editor of Spalding's Official Baseball Record for all the years of its publication except one.

Mr. Foster has reported not less than 4000 big league games. He was sporting editor of the Cleveland Leader when it was a morning newspaper; and then for fifteen years was head of the sporting department of the New York Evening Telegram. For two years he was baseball writer on the New York Herald. In addition to his long experience as a graphic newspaper writer he has contributed articles on sports generally, and baseball in particular, to all of the leading magazines.

With remarkable ability as a writer and with a background of baseball experience second to none in the country, Mr. Foster's articles in The Glendale Evening News will stand alone in their particular field.

LAWRENCE PERRY

Lawrence Perry, recognized authority on professional and amateur sports, will write several dispatches each week exclusively for The Glendale Evening News.

Every game played in America interests the man who plays it. There is one man in America who is tremendously interested in every game played and he has the gift of interesting everybody else in what interests him. He is Lawrence Perry. In all college sports Lawrence Perry writes with a vitalizing touch—because he played in them and later studied them scientifically. Mr. Perry loves and lives sports. As a writer he was trained by Charles A. Dana of the New York Sun.

Have you ever sailed a yacht? May be no? But you have played baseball or paddled a canoe. You will be surprised how much there is in every man's favorite sport to interest the other fellow, if the right man tells him about it. Lawrence Perry is an authority on both professional and amateur sports. He is a trained observer and an interesting writer. Not only are his articles invariably quoted in the college press, but coaches, graduate managers of athletics and even college presidents have often sought his advice when decisions of moment had been pending.

A leading coach last season said, "When Lawrence Perry has seen a rival team play, I use his analysis of that team's style and general play in preference to the reports of my own scouts."

Lawrence Perry organized and edited "Yachting," a successful New York magazine. In "Who's Who in America" he is credited with benig the author of such novels as "Dan Merithew," "Holton of the Navy," "Prince or Chauffeur," "The Romantic Liar," "The Fullback" and "The Big Game." "For the Game's Sake" is the title of a new book published this fall. His short stories in the Saturday Evening Post, Red Book, Everybody's, Harper's, Scribner's, etc., etc., have won him countrywide recognition as a short story writer. His college sports column "For the Game's Sake" has for many years been regarded as the best column of its sort in the country. Mr. Perry takes a wide veiw of sport in the football season for instance, he will be fuond visiting and taking as great an interest in Wisconsin, Minnesota, Nebraska and other western universities as in the games of Princeton, Yale, Dartmouth and the eastern colleges. In other words, Lawrence Perry's success has been not only because of his knowledge of what he writes but because of his broad minded attitude toward ALL colleges that go in for the game.

WALTER CAMP

Walter Camp, who has often been referred to as the father of American football, and who is just as well known to followers of other sports, has joined the staff of The Glendale Evening News. His name is almost a household word. Every school boy has read his handbooks or stories of sport. Every fan of the gridiron awaits his predictions and his comments on the men in moleskins. He is a final authority on football.

For six years Walter Camp played on the Yale University football team and was captain of the varsity eleven for two years. Just as expert at baseball, he served as captain of the varsity nine for four years in the positions of left field, shortstop and pitcher. He rowed on the class crew, won high hurldes in the Yale college games and represented Yale in the first intercollegiate tennis tournament. A frequent contributor to the magazines, including Harper's, Scribner's, Collier's, Century, Outlook and the Independent, he has also found time to write numerous books on sports. During the war he was chairman of the Atlantic department of the navy commission on training camp activities and he then developed his "Daily Dozen," a series of modified setting-up exercises which were used in both the army and navy. As an advocate of exercise in the maintenance of good health, Walter Camp has many followers.

All his newspaper articles will appear exclusively in The Glendae Evening News.

SECURES PATENT FOR HELICOPTER

Inventor Seeks Capital to Produce Working Model Of New Airplane

Patents on a new type of helicopter that has two fuselages and four engines have been obtained by Alcide J. Bernier of 205 North Glendale avenue, who recently moved here from Los Angeles. Bernier believes that his plane would solve the difficulties that have so far made this type of machine impractical for commercial purposes.

The inventor is a day laborer with a cement contractor in this city and wishes to interest someone with capital in his invention, so that he can build a working model of the plane and test its practicability. His plans involve radical departrues from the usual design of such machines.

Believes in Plane

Bernier says that he has followed with interest the attempts of various inventors to construct an airship that would rise vertically from the ground, believing that if such a plane could be produced it would revolutionize the industry. He is confident that his plane would do this.

His plans provide for the construction of the wings in such a way that they would fold vertically when the plane was rising and take the horizontal position when flying forward. This would eliminate a great deal of air resistance in raising the machine from the ground.

Every turquoise worn in a ring will in time change color from the perspiration of the hand.

PLAN FAST CARD ON BENEFIT BILL

Dempsey, Billy Wells, Joe Benjamin and Others To Appear June 3

LOS ANGELES, May 24. — An all-star fight card is being lined up by Matchmaker "Wad" Wadhams for the boxing show to be staged for the Philanthropy and Civics league at the Vernon coliseum June 3. At that time Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion, will head the bill, being scheduled to go three rounds with an opponent yet to be named. In addition to this Billy Wells and Joe Benjamin will provide plenty of thrills as the feature bout and the remainder of the card present a number of well-known ring men.

Wadhams is endeavoring to get Babe Herman of Oakland to box Johnny Lamar and Dode Bercot will probably be seen in action against Phil Salvadore or Joe Schlocker.

Larry Murphy and Johnny Adams may also appear and there will also be a couple of semi-windups and curtain raisers that will supply plenty of fight.

Jack Doyle has given over the Vernon coliseum for the fights and advance sale of tickets is now under way, with promises that the huge coliseum will be more than packed for that night.

DYNAMITERS WIN FROM MONROVIA

Glendale High School Team Has Easy Time Copping Contest 11 to 3

By ROSS M. RUSSELL, JR.
Of The Evening News Staff.

The Dynamiters finally won a ball game by defeating the Monrovia Wildcats yesterday on Broadway Field, 11-3. Although the visitors were ahead at the end of the sixth, five runs in the seventh and in the eighth inning cinched the pastime for the locals. Charlie Smith pitched good ball for Glendale and was given good support by his teammates who won the game by heavy slugging.

The game went runless for the first four and a half innings. In their half of the fourth the home boys put across one run. Muff hit a triple to left field and scorer on Meridith Osborne's sacrifice fly to Clifton. The Foothillers made two in the fifth and one in the sixth. Errors by Muff and Elliott, and singles by Whittaker, Biasotti and Bowman put over the two in the fifth. In the sixth three consecutive Texas leaguers, two of them fluke hits, and a stolen base squeezed in the last run for Monrovia.

The Dynamiters cinched the game in the seventh when they scored five times on four hits. Lavelle started the inning off with a bad push, fanning out on four pitched balls. Stumpf got his second hit of the day, a single through second base, S. Smith was hit in the finger by a pitched ball. F. Smith received a pass. Bud Elliott came through with a single to center, scoring Stumpf and C. Smith, and sent Red Smith to third. Elliott took second on the throw-in. Muff hit a hot one through Whitaker, scoring F. Smith and Elliott. Dotsom singled to right scoring Muff. Dotson was caught stealing, Coleman to W. Bender. The inning ended when Osborne flied to Clifton.

Add Five More

The five runs in the eighth were made on only three hits, which were poled out by Deeney, Stumpf and Osborne. Three errors by Clifton, Childers and O. Bender, a hit batsman, three wild pitches and a dropped infield fly were the chief means of letting the five markers in.

The new Glendale line-up was the after-affect of two reasons. Both Pete Keogh, second sacker, and Johnny Lovell, short-stop, were absent and the line-up had to be shifted on that account. So to finish the job everyone was put in a different position and the new combination tried out. On the whole it proved excellent. Muff was the only infielder to make an error. This was more than made up for by double plays, of which there were three. The first was Muff to Dotson, the second Muff to Lavelle, and the third C. Smith to Lavelle.

Jimmy Stumpf got three singles in four trips to the platter. Bud Elliott collected two hits out of four times up and Muff got three out of five, two of which were triples. Bowman of the Wildcats got two of five times up.

In the sixth inning Childers, Monrovia's first baseman, was hit on the head with a ball pitched by Charlie Smith. Although the blow sounded like it was severe, Childers got up and after a few minutes' rest was able to continue the game. Fred Van Renselaer of the locals added to the fun with a series of idiotic and contortionistic stunts during the game.

Stevens Connecticut Homestead Is Closed

CANAAN, Conn., May 24.—The old order, changed, indeed, when the Stevens homestead closed its doors for the first time since 1760, following the death of the last lineal descendant of the builder and distribution of his estate by public auction. City folks drove into the Litchfield Hills to attend the auction, which was a record-breaker for this district. They paid $75 each for a blue-and-white plaid blanket, a bedquilt and a wooden rocker, and gave $375 for a high-boy.

The homestead will remain, according to its purchaser, acting for Seth Moseley, New York hotel man, whose estate is near by.

PRESENT VARIED PROGRAM IN AID OF P.-T. A. FUNDS

Fathers' Auxiliary Sponsors Entertainment Staged In Harvard High

A splendid program of entertainment was staged last night at Harvard Street High school under the auspices of the Fathers' Auxiliary of the Parent-Teacher association of Colorado Street school. The concert by the Suwanee Jubilee Singers was ably supplemented by numbers by pupils of the Colorado Street school, the grammar school orchestra, Harry James and a magician, completing a program of exceptional merit.

The grammar school orchestra gave three selections, led by Miss Elsa Brennaman.

A talented quartet, composed of Benton Brady, Fred Paseman, Frederick Hughston and Elliott Calvert, of Colorado Street school, delighted the audience with their singing of "Kentucky Babe' and "Ain't Goin' to Rain No More." The boys were in blackface makeup, and made quite a hit.

Little Ones Sing

The pupils of the kindergarten, directed by Miss Lillian Brandon, contributed one of the most enjoyable numbers of the evening. A group of four picturesque songs were "Old Glory," sung by eight little tots, each of them wearing a letter from the song title; another group sang "Daisies," their faces peeping from under daisy hats, and still another group were "Dandelions." An ensemble number, "Lovely May," concluded their performance.

James Makes Hit

An entertaining bit of English humor by Harry James, who also voiced his appreciation of the privilege of appearing for the organization, and complimented the children on their creditable work, was followed by the magician, Professor Tubesing, and his entertaining magic.

The Suwanee Jubilee Singers entertained them with a number of delightful old Plantation melodies, responding to several well-merited encores.

Friends of the auxiliary were out in appreciable numbers, and the proceeds will go to the treasury fund of the organization.

Members of the committee in charge of arrangements were Frank W. Parr, C. S. Archer, P. D. Molen and F. A. Hasch.

L. C. Leeds is president and P. D. Molen secretary-treasurer of the auxiliary.

FASHION'S TREND LEADS WOMEN TO DRESS LIKE MEN

Shirts, Cravats, Golf Hose, Hold Strong Appeal to Feminine Fancy

By AILEEN LAMONT
Special Correspondent to The Glendale Evening News, Copyright 1924.

NEW YORK, May 24.—The modern wife not only wears the trousers of the household a good part of the time but she is very likely these days to wear the shirt, collar and tie also. In many a household the first one up is the best one dressed since the vogue for boyish suits has taken hold of the feminine contingent.

No man's tie rack is safe and any husband is likely to find his pet blue madras shirt with a neckband on it, which will give him as much difficulty in making both ends meet as the high cost of hootch. Manufacturers are uncertain whether they should be listed as makers of shirts or shirt waists, but their machines are busy just the same.

Allow for Shrinkage

All a male golf stocking has to do is shrink once to change wearers, for the average shoe size demanded by the modern woman is not less than a six. Sheer hose, however, has not lost its appeal for feminine wearers. Colors now fashionable make these thin coverings more apparent than they have been in the past.

The majority of these stockings now being worn are imported from France, since there they make a 50-gauge hose which is capable of giving real wear, which American manufacturers do not feel it worth while in most instances to duplicate. For, when feminine ankles begin to show a tendency to imitate the fretful porcupine, as they frequently do, unless subjected to constant treatment, the closer and thicker weaves become almost obligatory.

Chiffon is Popular

Summer may be disguising its approach but it is sneaking up on us just the same and in a chiffon dress. Just how long the present models will be popular, however, is uncertain. At present they are being sold at from $80 to $95 each. But a woman with any ability as a seamstress can duplicate many of them for from $12 to $18, which may help to retire them to the discard.

The majority of the chiffon models are made almost exactly on the lines of a bungalow apron. The silhouette is absolutely straight from neck line to hem. The material usually is from 40 to 44 inches wide and the amount remaining after the front and back breadths have been laid upon the pattern and cut, is used for trimming.

Used Cape Fashion

This remnant, averaging around 18 inches in width, is usually three and a half yards long. On one model shown in a smart shop here, an end of this piece is affixed in cape fashion from the left armpit to the right shoulder across the back. From the right shoulder it is allowed to drop in a graceful drape effect to the skirt hem where it is doubled back, caught at the right hip and draped across the front to the left hip in apron effect.

On another model, the remnant is split into four panels, the edges of each picoted. Two are stitched to the waist line at each hip allowing the material to fall into four graceful panels to the skirt hem. Plaid designs are being extensively used for these dresses.

FLOOD OF CURES FOR POISON OAK

Blanche Sweet Gets Many Sure-Fire Remedies to Alleviate Trouble

By MARIAN MARSHALL
For Southland News Service.

HOLLYWOOD, May 24.—Through a story which appeared in the newspapers about her, Blanche Sweet has obtained, free of charge, 163 remedies for poison oak—and incidentally has learned the power of the press.

Recently the newspaper chronicled the fact that Miss Sweet was suffering from poison oak. Fifty letters were received the following day from friends in and out of the profession, enclosing recipes in the way of home remedies and names of patent medicines which would cure her. Telephone messages brought similar information. Even telegrams were used to rush the "sure cures" to the star. The cures are still coming in daily.

Summer in Europe

Miss Sweet has now entirely recovered and sails from New York for France on the Olympic June 14. She will spend two months visiting France, England, Ireland, Germany and, perhaps, Russia, and has called off all negotiations for pictures this summer.

Miss Sweet left Los Angeles for New York together with Adele Rowland, who is Mrs. Conway Tearle, and a party of other movie celebrities. She will visit with friends in Manhattan before her sailing time.

CONVERT GASES OF WAR USE TO PEACEFUL HELP

Army Has Proven Chlorine, Slayer of Many, Will Cure Disease Now

By WILLIAM C. LYON
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1924.

WASHINGTON, May 24.—President Coolidge, back on the job in the executive offices today, is the latest testimonial to the efficacy of the army chemical warfare service plan to turn the death-dealing chlorine gas of wartimes to a peacetime mission of curing colds and certain respiratory diseases.

Suffering from a severe cold, the president, at Secretary Week's suggestion, drove to the army dispensary and sat for forty-five minutes in the gassing chamber. He emerged greatly improved and today his cold was practically gone.

Simultaneously the chemical warfare service let it be known that its discovery of the curative properties of chlorine gas is beginning to be accepted throughout the country by physicians. The medical profession usually is slow to accept new "cures" but this one, it was stated, has been taken up by many physicians since its discovery was announced a few months ago. Already demand for appliances for the administration of chlorine gas resulted in the manufacture by three large chemical houses, of instruments for measuring and releasing chlorine gas under pressure.

Apparatus Simple

The apparatus which has been tested and approved by Brig.-Gen. Amos A. Fries, chief of the chemical warfare service, is so simple and so inexpensive that no clinic need be without it. A small cylinder contains the liquid chlorine. A valve at the top is opened and the chlorine as a gas passes through a tube into a glass cylinder filled with a salt solution. Thence it is charged into the atmosphere, in pulsations, by means of a simple syphon.

To obtain best results in an ordinary room, the experts place an electric fan beside the syphon tip in order to distribute the gas uniformly about the room. The apparatus for measuring and releasing the gas can be set to release the exact quantity desired by the physician.

Wherever it is possible, the experts advise a specially prepared gas chamber, although experiments in ordinary rooms have proven successful.

Trying on Animals

Having successfully demonstrated the curative qualities of the gas on human beings, Uncle Sam now is seeking to apply it to the animal kingdom. The bureau of animal industry is making tests of the gas a prophylactic among the California cattle herds, which have been decimated by the epizootic of hoof and mouth disease.

The tests were suggested by R. N. Ballard, California engineer, who claims a complete cure of a cold from one sitting in the gassing chamber in the capital here. Through friends, Mr. Ballard interested Secretary of Agriculture Wallace in his idea and the result was a test of seven herds of cattle, under the direction of Dr. John R. Mohler, chief of the bureau of animal industry. Three herds "broke" with the disease despite the gas treatment, but the other four escaped.

Mr. Mohler declined, on this showing, to say whether he regarded these tests as a success.

"We are proceeding with the tests," he said, "and I can say I believe the plan has its possibilities. It is too early, however, to make any claims one way or the other."

BLUEBEARD'S WIFE WINS ANNULMENT

Court Grants Freedom from Oft-Married Husband, Now in Prison

LOS ANGELES, May 24.—Mrs. Elizabeth Williamson Lewis, gray haired and matronly, was granted an annulment of her marriage to James P. Watson, known as "Bluebeard" Watson, a man of many wives. Watson is now in San Quentin prison, where he was sent for the murder of Nina Lee Deloney, whose body was dug up at a lonely spot in Imperial valley.

Mrs. Lewis, who married Watson in Davenport, Wash., in 1919, said she was informed by the district attorney here that Kathryn Watson of Salem, Ore., was his legal wife, and on this she based her action, as Mrs. Kathryn Watson is undivorced.

Mrs. Lewis is the second woman to obtain an annulment from Watson since he was sentenced to prison, Katherine Wombacher having taken similar action recently.

Expert Dyer

N. B. STEPP, who, with his partner, C. M. WRIGHT, has opened a cleaning and dyeing plant in Glendale after years of experience in the same line in Texas.

N. B. Stepp and partner, C. M. Wright, owners of the Clean Rite Dye Works at 126 West Wilson avenue, are establishing in Glendale a modern cleaning and dyeing plant, specializing in the cleaning of women's fine apparel.

Mr. Stepp was formerly of El Paso, Texas, where he was connected in a managerial capacity with the Wright Dye Works, one of the largest cleaning and dyeing establishments in Texas. He came to California about a year and a half ago.

At present, he is part owner of the Marvel Dye Works in Los Angeles in addition to his Glendale interests. It is the intention of the Clean Rite Company to extend its activities, and to eventually establish a chain of cleaning and dyeing branches throughout the Los Angeles territory.

Experts in Charge

All the work from the branch offices would be handled at the big central Glendale plant, it is planned. Until a site is selected for the construction of the central plant the Clean Rite plant will continue in operation at the West Wilson address.

Mr. Stepp has been connected with the cleaning industry for seven years and is thoroughly familiar with every branch of the business. Mr. Wright is also an old hand at the cleaning business having owned and operated plants in El Paso and Los Angeles previous to coming to Glendale.

HERTZ NAMED AS CONCERT LEADER

Noted Conductor Will Wield Baton at Galli-Curci Appearance Here

Glendale residents who are planning on attending the Galli-Curci concert Thursday night, June 5, in the Hollywood Bowl, will welcome the announcement that Manager L. E. Behymer has engaged Alfred Hertz to conduct the operatic concert.

This completed the artistic details of what promises to be the greatest musical event ever held in Southern California, representing as it does the appearance of the most popular of the coloratura singers, with a leader of international fame, an orchestra of 90, accommodations for 15,000 music fans, and all at popular prices.

Hertz Well Known

Alfred Hertz is already a favorite locally. For many years he shared honors at the Metropolitan opera with the great Toscanini. He was first brought to California by Mr. Behymer to conduct the prize opera "Fairyland." Summer before last he returned to Los Angeles to conduct the first season of the Hollywood Bowl concerts.

Galli-Curci is now singing in the northwest, but will return to California June 1, when Alfred Hertz will join her party and journey to Los Angeles.

Special rail and electric service is being arranged from all cities to Los Angeles for the concert. Also special traffic service at the entrance and for two blocks either side of the entrance of the Bowl will facilitate motor traffic.

Seating Plans

Inside the grounds there will be specially trained captains and assistants to insure the prompt seating of the patrons in anticipation of a prompt opening at 8:30 o'clock.

Mail order service is being handled efficiently and checks can be made payable to L. E. Behymer and sent to 705 Auditorium building, Los Angeles. For the return of tickets, self-addressed, stamped envelopes must be enclosed with order.

There will be hundreds of seats at all prices $1, $1.50, $2 and $2.50 plus tax.

FEMININE SPEED FIENDS MUST GO TO JAIL IN OHIO

Fair Co-ed Lands In Cell with Women Criminals for Brief Term

By ROBERT T. SMALL
Special Correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright 1924

COLUMBUS, Ohio, May 24.—The women of the middle west have come into their very own. The fair feminine drivers of the automobile, who cannot resist that impulse to step on the gas, are being sent to jail daily with the mere male of the species.

The cities of this great central country are in league against the motor speed fiends. One by one they are falling in line with the plan of sending the fast drivers to the hoosegow regardless of their station, their sex or their previous condition of servitude. The unwary visitor to Ohio must fare the same as the native sons and daughters. It's jail for one and all.

Better Than Fines

Columbus is firmly committed to the new policy and the city officials say that actual experience behind the bars is doing more to check reckless and fast driving than the imposition of the heaviest fines.

One of the latest victims of the new crusade is a beautiful co-ed at Ohio State university, Miss Georgiana Harkrader. Miss Harkrader is so lovely that her fellow students at the university elected her a "rosebud" this year and her picture came out in the college paper the very day that she was in durance vile. A copy was sent to the prison to her. In the end it proved a wonderfully effective tonic. But at the first view there was a sniffle or two, then an industrious powdering of the nose and the "rosebud," dry-eyed, said she was ready to face the world again and "begin life anew."

When her friends heard she was behind the bars they attempted to send her all sorts of sweet morsels and flowers and everything, but the horrid old jailers insisted that she eat the regular prison fare of baked beans and black coffee. It was beans for dinner and beans for supper. Miss Harkrader says she can never look at a bean again without a shudder.

One-day Sentence

The fair co-ed was dealt with rather gently by the courts at that. She was given only one day and was allowed to serve it on the "union scale" from 12 noon until 12 midnight. Usually the sentences run from three to 30 days. The "rosebud" says she would simply have died if she had had to spend the whole night in jail with such "horrid company." In this company there were women charged with crimes running all the way from petty larceny to second degree murder. The elder women in the jail were frankly surprised when they saw the dainty "rosebud" come tripping in and heard the steel doors clang shut behind her. In true prison fashion they demanded of her:

"What you in for?"

"One day," replied the "bud" innocently.

"Not that. What didja do?"

"That's a good one," laughed one of the women in a raucous roar; "nobody ever gets in here for doing nothing honestly."

In order to clear herself of any deeper suspicions on the part of her fellow prisoners, Miss Harkrader admitted to her companions in crime that a "nasty officer" who stole up on her in a flivver and ordered her to stop, insisted that she was driving down one of the principal streets of the city at fifty miles an hour. "The companions" were plainly disappointed. They had evidently hoped for something far more interesting. Then they told the girl their stories.

Warns Against Love

The woman accused of second degree murder was the one who the day before had tossed a bottle of acid on her sweetheart and he had died from inhaling the fumes. She said she did it because of her great love for the man and she told the co-ed never, never, never to fall in love with a man. Wide-eyed and open-mouthed the "rosebud" vowed then and there she never would.

A number of other women have been similarly sentenced here since the new order was adopted. The authorities say that in the end the jailing of all fast drivers is a protection for the motorists themselves. For one thing it will do away with the "speed traps" in the villages of the country where motorists are picked up and fined for the benefit of the community and of the constables and magistrates.

Four very prominent residents of Dayton bowled into Columbus a day or two ago at something like 35 miles an hour. Pretty soon they were bowling to the station house and although they are out on bail, one of their number will have to go to jail. There is no way out. The rule is inflexible. In some cases there is also a fine.

Mayor James J. Thomas of Columbus also conducts a motor school nearly every Saturday morning. For minor infractions of the traffic laws, the offenders, chiefly women, are compelled to attend school. Some make an awful fuss over it, but they have to report to the automobile kindergarten just the same.

James McNeill Whistler, while a government draftsmen in the Coast and Geodetic Survey, received $1.50 a day.

WIDOWS' OIL FIELD

ARKANSAS CITY, Kan., May 24.—The new Cowley county oil field might well be called the widows' oil field. The Johnson well is drilled on part of Mrs. L. F. Johnson's ranch, the Glasgow well is on a farm owned by Mrs. Susan Glasgow, and the Workman well, 600 feet north of the Johnson producer, is owned by Mrs. Sarah Workman. All three are widows.

The new wells are estimated at several hundred barrels daily and promise riches to the farm owners.

Mrs. Gertrude Brown, widow, has filed as candidate for sheriff of Klamath county, Oregon.

BUSINESS WORLD

By J. C. ROYLE
Special Correspondent to The Evening News, Copyright 1924.

NEW YORK, May 24.—The fact that the Chevrolet Motor Company has increased the prices on its open models from $5 to $20 apiece and that the prices for Rickenbacker cars will be advanced June 1, is taken in motor circles as the first indication of a reversal in the movement of automobile prices which have been decreasing steadily since last summer. The amount of the Rickenbacker advance has not yet been made public.

The changes, manufacturers assert, are due mainly to higher production costs. These have followed a lower rate of output in the last two months. Many of the backers closely associated with the automotive industry, as well as dealers, expect several other makers of popular priced cars to follow suit. The Overland models are the only cars equipped with sliding gears selling in this country at present under $500 but officials of the company have as yet given no indication as to whether they will follow the swing of the price pendulum upward.

There is considerable trade gossip of a further increase in Ford prices but factory officials say that any cut is entirely unlikely. On the other hand, they assert, prospects are better for an increase. The reports reaching Detroit headquarters from Ford plants and dealers all over the country, show that sales for the second ten days of May exceeded those of the first ten days. Officials expect that the distribution of the third ten day period will be even greater, placing the total number of cars sold during the month above 225,000.

The automobile trade realizes, however, that even the Ford production must be scaled down to agree with summer demand, which is usually lower than that of the spring months, or stocks of cars at factories and in dealers' hands, will become unwieldy. A curtailment at Ford factories, therefore, would not cause surprise. It is generally anticipated that this would be accomplished either by abolishing the shift which works between midnight and 7 a. m., or cutting the schedule to a five day week.

It is not expected that the removal of duties by Great Britain on American motor cars, which becomes effective August 1, will have the effect of increasing sales materially for months to come. American agents already have cut the prices of their cars in England 20 per cent, but it will be necessary to change the taste of the British buying public to some extent before the American models become widely popular.

The difficulty in selling American cars, outside the initial cost price, is the fact that their upkeep and cost of operation appear excessive to British users. The English motor tax is based on cylinder capacity and has favored a type with small wheels, providing low tire costs, low clearance, made possible by the fine Englis hroads and small cylinder capacity giving high mileage for the fuel consumed. The tax up to now on Fords in England has made the owner pay nearly one-sixth of the first cost.

The German and French manufacturers already make cars in accordance with the British ideas, and it will be necessary for American makers to overcome their competition before the number of machines exported to England can be greatly augmented. There is a tremendous field in the British Isles for American cars, however, since at present there is only one automobile there for each 110 inhabitants whereas in the vicinity of New York there is a motor car for each seven persons. Even at this ratio, experts declare the saturation point in and around New York is still far off.

CHICAGO WHEAT

By International News Service

CHICAGO, May 24.—The grain market was a rather irregular affair today with price changes within a narrow range. At the close wheat was ¼ higher, corn ½ up to ⅜ down and oats ⅛ lower.

In the early trading wheat showed strength while corn sagged off, acting rather heavy and tired.

BIBLES ARE TAKEN

CHICAGO, May 24.—Not only the maids dust off the Bible in the hotel room, according to Samuel R. Boggs, national president of the Gideons, who place the Bible in the hotel rooms. More people are reading the Bible every day—some become so attached to the hotel edition that they carry it away with them.

Boggs pointed out that the Golden Rule is being used more and more by business men, which, he said, was due primarily to a more intimate knowledge of the Bible.

There are 2,000,000 hotel guest rooms in the United States, and so far the Gideons have placed 600,000 Bibles, according to the president's figures. Atlantic City leads with 19,000.

PAGAN LONDON

LONDON, May 24.—"Is London pagan?"

Rev. Thomas Phillips, Baptist minister, of Bloomsbury, says it is. Speaking at Norwich, he said:

"I am downright frightened about things and sometimes wish I were not in the ministry. London has become pagan under our very eyes. The danger is that other places may become the same. A poison has gotten into the very constitution of the world."

BUSINESS NEWS

By I. V. SHANNON
Special Correspondent of The Evening News, Copyright, 1924.

NEW ORLEANS, May 24.—The weather in this section during the last week has been generally favorable for farm work and crops owing to higher temperature, but this has not stimulated buying by country merchants. Jobbers report conditions quiet, with buyers seemingly expectant of a readjustment of values. Trade with Central America has not improved owing to the uncertainty of credit conditions in the five republics. The business being done with Mexico has broadened slightly, but has not regained the ground lost during the De La Huerta revolt. Labor conditions in this city sho wsigns of slackening, except at the sugar refineries, summer clothing factories, tobacco factories and paper plants. The surplus of unskilled labor is not going to the farms owing to the small wages offered.

ST. PAUL, Minn., May 24.—After an extensive tour through the northwest, business men of the Twin Cities report increased and a decided improvement in the optimism over the general outlook farming situation owing to good growing conditions and the fact that less wheat and more corn and flax have been planted.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., May 24.—Building contracts let in this state during April totaled $24,964,000, an increase of 109 per cent over March and of 107 per cent over April of last year. The total increase in building work since January 1 has been about 18 per cent of the corresponding period of 1923.

ATLANTA, Ga., May 24. — The members of the Georgia Bankers' association have determined hereafter to act as agents in obtaining loans for farmers from farm loan banks owing to the fact that the latter have not generally understood the fact that such loans were available.

WASHINGTON, May 24.—Awards covering the sale of 310,000,000 feet of running timber, principally western yellow pine, at a price totaling approximately $1,500,000 are announced by the interior department today. The timber is located on the Klamath Indian reservation in southern Oregon. The timber is in two units. The successful bidders are Shaw-Bertram Lumber company of Klamath Falls, Ore., and Klement & Kennedy, timber operators of Fortson, Wash.

NEW YORK CLOSING

H. J. DUIZEND
For International News Service

By H. J. DUIZEND
For International News Service.

NEW YORK, May 24. — The stock market in its abbreviated session today showed an inclination to resume the advance which had been interrupted by profit-taking sales in the previous session.

There was no special development either in the business or in the political news which could account for the renewed strength, but there was a disposition to view the tax situation more hopefully in the light of Washington advices suggested that the president would sign the revenue bill if the deficit facing the treasury would reveal that it was an improvement over the existing revenue law.

The bear party which already has been placed in a difficult position by reason of its failure to dislodge any important holdings on its recent bonus raid, evidently became increasingly apprehensive over the possibility of the president's approval and resorted to covering on a rather active sale.

The weekly mercantile reveiews scarcely offered points from which a satisfactory conclusion regarding the business outlook could be derived. The general situation was summed up by one agency as "fair to slow." Indications of renewing activity were not wholly lacking, according to Dun's, but they marked an exception to the general trend.

Unseasonable weather conditions and political uncertainties were restraining factors. Recessions were unfavorable to employment, resulting in a reduction in the purchasing power of the public.

In the first hour the rising movement was confined to a few specialties like International Paper and New York Dock. Pan-American featured the oils, both classes of shares going into new highs on the up-swing. The latter part of the session, however, witnessed a sudden broadening of buying which bore all the earmarks of a short retreat. Baldwin assumed leadership, jumping 3 points on reports of increased operations in the company's plants. American Can showed a point increase. Studebaker became increasingly active, moving up to 84.

Rail shares were rather slow in following up the improvement except such high-priced issues as Delaware and Hudson, New York Central and Great Northern preferred. The market closed strong.

VETS HOLD FLAG DAY CELEBRATION

Members of G.A.R., W.R.C. Observe Occasion In Joint Meeting

Flag Day, June 14, was anticipated yesterday at the joint meeting of the G. A. R. and W. R. C. by aflag program, arranged by by a flag program, arranged by

The state encampment June 9 to 13 in San Diego will probably prevent recognition of Flag Day on June 14, so the program was given yesterday.

Members of the G. A. R. and W. R. C. spent all day at the hall on South Glendale avenue. In the morning the G. A. R. met and made plans for the Memorial Day observance in Glendale and nearby communities.

Program in Afternoon

At noon luncheon was enjoyed, and later the flag program, opened with singing "The Star Spangled Banner." Mrs. Priscilla Houdyshel and Mrs. Flora Pixley paid fitting tribute to the flag.

Specially enjoyable was the musical entertainment by Nana King Custer, who played many of the old-time favorites and also the newer patriotic airs. The old soldiers gathered around the piano to sing the old-time war songs.

A special guest was W. H. Reeves, Spanish War veteran, who talked on legislation and concluded with a clever recitation, "Hard Tack."

Mrs. Dixon and Miss Alpaugh of Los Angeles contributed sketches from the Lincoln play and a reading "California."

During the program tribute was paid to the memory of Mrs. Mary Milligan, past president of the W. R. C., who died suddenly last week. Rev. C. R. Norton spoke of Mrs. Milligan's life and personality and the company sang "The Vacant Chair."

At the W. R. C. closed meeting in the afternoon plans were made for the trip to San Diego.

Benefit Dance Planned for Officer Collins, Hurt In Auto Smash

The motorcycle officers of the Glendale police department have completed plans for a benefit dance to be given Thursday night, May 29, in Hahn's hall, 109-A North Brand boulevard. The affair will be given as a benefit for Officer Merle G. Collins of 326 North Adams street, who is in the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital suffering from injuries recently sustained while on duty.

Dancing will begin at 8:30 o'clock, the music for which will be furnished by the popular Kelly Shrine Club orchestra. The committee in charge of the affair includes Lieut. Wm. J. Royle and Officers K. F. Butler and R. Ball. They have arranged for several specialty features and favor dances.

A cordial invitation is extended to all Glendalians to attend. Admission of $1 per couple will be charged.

Water Carnival Will Feature Dedication

PLANS TO SELL HAY DIRECT TO DAIRYMEN HERE

Archie Donaldson Bringing Alfalfa From Imperial Valley to City

A hay market centrally located in Glendale, to distribute Imperial valley alfalfa to the entire San Fernando valley dairy and cattle interests, is the proposal of Archie Donaldson, who has arrived in this city from his 640-acre ranch six miles east of El Centro, and is spending the week-end with his family at 810 East Colorado street, where he contemplates locating the market.

Three months ago Mr. Donaldson sold out his holdings in Glendale and associated himself with H. C. Suttle of El Centro in the ranching business, taking over the above section, one year old in alfalfa. The stand was coming strong and they were cutting a crop about every six weeks that averaged nearly a ton to the acre, when suddenly the foot and mouth disease crippled the local market, sending hay from $23 down to $16 a ton.

As alfalfa hay is bringing in the neighborhood of $26 a ton in the San Fernando valley at the present time, Mr. Donaldson and Mr. Suttle concluded that they would establish a hay market in Glendale, to serve this market with the product of their own ranch. They propose to bring the hay in by motor truck.

Want Milk Train

With a crop of 500 tons coming on every few weeks, Mr. Donaldson points out that they have the product to supply a number of large dairies. Even should the Imperial valley market return to normal, they figure the profit is larger by selling through a Glendale hay market, as it eliminates the middleman.

Hard hit by the slump in the hay market, Imperial valley ranchers are agitating for a daily milk train to Los Angeles. Such a train would stimulate the dairy business, which would immediately create a strong hay demand, Mr. Donaldson states. There is no foot and mouth disease in the valley, he says, and the establishment of such a train would cause the importation of thousands of cows.

Prospects Bright

Outside of the temporary lull in hay, the valley is booming, reports Mr. Donaldson. The cantaloupe crop looks like a record-breaker and cotton production is expected to reach a new high level this year. He predicts the Imperial valley as the future agricultural center of California and declares prices of acreage will practically double in the next two years.

Mr. Donaldson declares that it is not necessary to be a farmer to succeed in the Imperial valley. He has been an interior decorator by trade and never farmed in his life, before he associated himself with Mr. Suttle three months ago. The chief thing for the novice is to get in with a man who knows how, he advises.

Sons on Ranch

Archie, Jr., and Frank, Mr. Donaldson's two sons, are at present in the valley, assisting Mr. Suttle with the ranch while their father is in Glendale, arranging to launch the hay market and visiting with his wife and two daughters. Later, if things work out as planned, the family will spend their time between the two places.

There is plenty of heat in the valley, Mr. Donaldson admits, but there is also plenty of water. At Heber, which is three miles northeast of the Donaldson-Suttle ranch, it was 118 degrees Fahrenheit last week. Water, however, is available without limit and even though the Boulder Canyon dam project continues to hang fire, the ranchers are all satisfied.

What the dam would do, according to Mr. Donaldson, would be to make available tens of thousands of additional acres for cultivation, thus speeding up the inevitable destiny of the great Imperial valley, California's greatest hothouse and future feed-bin.

Roscenta Chorus Has Sing Without Leader

MONTROSE, May 24.—The regular weekly meeting of Roscenta Chorus Community sing was without a leader for the first time since its organiation at this week's meeting. Director Prosper was unable to be present, so Mrs. A. F. Hopkins, directed for a time, then inviting members to do so. A great deal of fun was the result of the impromptu directing. As Miss Hauber was unable to be present, Arthur Crowell gave two beautiful piano solos. Mrs. R. Q. MasDonald also gave some artistic solos. Mrs. MacDonald, who is an accomplished musician, also directed two songs, giving instructions in correct breathing. Mrs. Imogene Smith accompanied the chorus, while Mrs. MacDonald directed.

The expense per pupil figured on the whole country's public school system is $64.16 annually.

Why I Am In Glendale

To forget the scowling, jostling crowds and live in the smiling country of "Noblesse oblige." To ease the grinding press of competition and work in the Land-of-Lots-of-Room, where men achieve a strange paradox—linking happiness and leisure with activity and success. To dwell amid clean people, to see clean habitations and walk upon clean streets; to breathe salt sea air, spiced with the bloom of hillside groves and orchards. To rest my soul in this garden-valley, nestling between the Mother Mountains' snowy peaks and the golden sands of the Pacific. To learn what magic secret of mind or matter here puts hope in the discouraged and starts life blood coursing anew. To master this new alchemy of the Pacific Southwest that overnight turns loam and sand and rod and bough to gold.

VALLEY FREE OF CATTLE SCOURGE

Rigid Adherence to Rules Helps Authorities to Stamp Out Plague

SAN FERNANDO, May 24.—The foot and mouth disease has been practically wiped out in this valley, due to rigid adherence to regulations, it is announced by the authorities. No new cases have been discovered in the past ten days.

Recently discovered infection on premises between Norwalk and Hynes is contiguous to the large dairy center and authorities in charge of the situation there are laboring to prevent any spread of the malady.

The loss of animals by slaughtering in the checking of the foot and mouth disease is infinitesimal as compared with the loss that would follow the curtailment of the sale of California products abroad, the authorities state, and until such time as science has devised a better method of eradication, the government will continue to use the slaughter method.

A committee from the Sunland Chamber of Commerce is making plans to organize a troop there and are seeking a suitable man to take charge of the boys. Deputy Scout Commissioner M. F. Gilmer attended the last meeting of the Sunland Chamber of Commerce and spoke in the interests of the organization.

Women Will Borrow Funds for Building

TUJUNGA, May 24.—Resources and scenic beauties of California was the subject of discussion at the last meeting of the Tujunga Woman's club. At a special meeting the club decided to borrow the necessary funds to complete its new clubhouse which has already been started. The members have raised $1500 during the past year and need but $1200 more to finish paying for the building. At the present time they are renting the Ashby building on Sunset for their meetings and the interest on the borrowed money would amount to less than the rental now paid, so the members consider it a good business move to obligate the club for the sum needed. The money will probably be borrowed from the Tujunga Valley bank.
